Louis Wins, but Farr Fights All the Way

MAYOR REVIVES FIGHT FOR LAKE FRONT AIRPORT

Urges Park District Bonds for Work.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The fight for Chicago's downtown airport on the lake front was revived last night by Mayor Kelly, who announced that he is considering a new method of getting funds for construction of the field. It is his hope, he said, that the air terminal can be made to pay for itself over a period of years.

Recalling that aid for Chicago in this project has been refused by half a dozen federal departments and agencies interested in airport development, the mayor said he no longer believes it is reasonable to expect help from outside sources. Under these circumstances, he said, it becomes necessary for Chicagoans to help themselves.

Park District One Source.

"The one unexplored source for the money needed to build Chicago a modern air field at the city's very front door remains the consolidated park district," the mayor said in explaining his new proposal.

"The finances of the city as a tax municipality are such that it cannot possibly supply the money. But I see no reason why the park district should not issue bonds to build the airport. I am having lawyers survey the powers of the district to determine whether there are legal obstacles."

Port Would Pay Off Bonds.

This issue, the mayor continued, may be paid off oy special revenues which would accrue from the use of the airport. Rentals of hangar and office space on the field by the airlines, air express, and postoffice departments, and tolls from passengers arriving at or departing from the downtown terminal, would retire the paper within 20 years, he estimated.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, will return soon to Chicago from a vacation abroad, and details of the new program will be worked out at that time, the mayor said.

Attention of the mayor was directed to the problem of financing the downtown terminal by renewed warnings which came from the four major airlines operating from Chicago's airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue. The operators, repeating objections raised by their pilots, informed the mayor that the city's landing field facilities are dangerously inadequate.

Huge Planes Increase Problem.

Moreover, the pilots warned, the expansion of the existing field will not solve the problems involved in the landing of the enormous passenger-carrying airplanes which will be flying the country's airlines within 18 months.

These 60,000 pound machines will need airports with 5,000 foot runways and approaches clear of obstructions for more than a mile in all directions. Even though Chicago's existing field is expanded to a square mile, there would be many hazardous obstructions in its vicinity.

The pilots, through the Airline Pilots' union, have indorsed the downtown field as it was laid out by engineers of the bureau of air commerce and the Chicago plan commission. While its approaches from the west would not be ideal, it would be perfect for the landing of large airplanes from every other point of the compass.

Near Heart of City.

The chief point in favor of the downtown field, of course, would be its proximity to the heart of Chicago. Ten minutes after landing passengers could be in loop hotels or commercial offices instead of waiting another hour while surface transportation brings them to the business area, as at present.

The downtown field as planned would consist of approximately 300 acres of filled ground, triangular in shape, and approximately 2,000 feet directly east of North Island. The axis of this triangle would be 16th street and the base line would be parallel to the shore, extending from 12th to 23d streets.

BRITON FORCES CHAMPION TO GO 15 ROUNDS

38,903 See Battle in New York.

FIGHT PICTURES!

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Joe Louis still is the world's champion heavyweight, but if any one continues in the opinion that Tommy Farr, the Welsh coal miner, is a setup and a bum let them reflect that he was still fighting tonight at the end of the 15th round; that he never was knocked off his feet; that he always came back for more, and that he is fairly itching to have another whack at it.

However, the verdict of Referee Arthur Donovan and the two judges, Charley Lynch and William McPartland, was unanimous.

Donovan gave Louis thirteen of the fifteen rounds. Lynch gave him eight, gave Farr five, and called two rounds even. McPartland gave Louis nine rounds and the other six he scored for Farr.

Louis' Hand Injured.

The 23 year old colored fighter from the Alabama cotton belt, who won the championship on last June 22 in Chicago when he knocked out James J. Braddock in the eighth round, fought a bad fight. Half of those in the crowd of 38,903 booed the decision.

They didn't know that Louis fought throughout the last twelve rounds with a badly battered right hand. He sustained the injury in the third round when he hit the Welshman a terrific wallop with his right.

Dr. William Walker of the New York boxing commission examined Louis' injured fist. His hurried announcement was that Louis would not be in shape to fight again for a month or six weeks. This ended all possibilities of a Louis-Max Schmeling outdoor fight this fall.

Farr also incurred a hand injury. He damaged the third finger on his right hand landing a punch in the fourth round. The finger was swollen and bleeding when the bandages were removed.

Farr Shows Courage.

The fight, which drew receipts of $265,753, was nothing for anybody to write home about with enthusiasm. Farr's courage was the one big item, for in the third round Louis opened the cut under Farr's right eye which he had suffered in his training camp.

In the fourth round a vicious Louis punch opened a similar cut under the Tonypandy boy's other eye. From then until the finish blood streamed from these two wounds and by the time the sixth round arrived a steady peppering of lefts by Louis into the Britisher's nose started it bleeding also.

Still the Welshman carried on. He hit Louis heavily in the fifth and ninth rounds. Still Louis didn't go down. The only damage he suffered except for his badly bruised right hand was a puff of swelling under his right eye. Those in his corners applied an ice pack to it all through the intermissions between the last four rounds.

Sixty thousand dollars for movie and radio rights brought gross receipts to $325,753.11. Net receipts were $222,463.80. The federal tax amounted to $28,409.29 and the state tax, $14,880.02. Louis' share was $104,086.96 and Farr's share, $50,000. The Milk Fund received $22,246.38. The paid attendance was 38,903. Complimentary tickets totaled 5,434.

The fight was staged under threatening skies after rain had threatened throughout the day. The clouds still were hanging low at 8:15 o'clock when the first preliminary bout went on. At that time not more than 20,000 were in the vast Yankee stadium which for a prize fight seats slightly more than 80,000 people.

Farr Arrives Early.

Then the ringside seats began to fill up. A highly enthusiastic crowd, nearly all of them New Yorkers, had

Kids of Jersey Rise in Revolt forPlayground

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Led by their own chosen field marshals and waving crudely made banners, several hundred determined younger citizens of this city—boys between 7 and 13 years of age—rose in revolt against the city fathers today.

They dug up cobblestones from the streets. They sprinkled broken glass on the pavements. They built barricades with old boxes and assorted lumber. They tied up trafic in a fine snarl while they shrilly shouted their war cry:

"We want playgrounds!"

Goes to Politics to Roost.

It was that kind of revolt, and it was carried home pretty close to Jersey City's Democratic boss, Mayor Frank Hague, and one of the state's political rulers, United States Senator A. Harry Moore. The youngsters were utterly grim about their demonstration. They threatened to keep on revolting until the city authorities heeded them.

One leader pointed out that they could not be expected to be kept off busy streets and safe from automobiles without suitable playgrounds. Another mentioned that Chicago and other cities have long since provided adequate playgrounds and that Jersey City should do likewise.

Shortly after noon squads of boys left their respective neighborhoods and favorite street corners and assembled at an important intersection.

A number carried banners and placards. One asked, "Why don't Senator Moore give us playgrounds?" Others said, "We are on a sitdown," and "We want more playgrounds.

They Go into Action.

The juvenile rebels knew they had to work swiftly, and on commands from their chiefs they swung into action. They dug up heavy cobblestones in yard square patches that made motor movement uncomfortable, if not hazardous. Then they piled the stones at the end of the block, and reënforced the barrier with wooden boxes.

This done, they shouted lustily, "we want playgrounds." With trafic in a mess, thousands of spectators gathered. Pretty soon the police came. They had to handle the disturbance gently. The boys dispersed. The police breathed more easily and returned to their stations.

But the boys were not through. They gathered at another intersection two blocks away, dug up more cobblestones, and piled up more barriers.

Gendarmes Aux Armes Again.

Again the guardians of peace rushed to the front. This time the police were more stern. They seized fifteen boys. The others faded away.

For the time being, at least, the uprising was over. Tonight the torn up cobblestones were back in place, the broken glass was swept off the pavements, and the boxes and lumber used for barricades were out of sight. City officials were plainly perturbed and one, Safety Director Daniel Casey, charged that the demonstration was probably inspired by "some political crackpot to embarrass Mayor Hague and Senator Moore."

The boys' only answer to this was: "We want playgrounds!"

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Aug. 30.—Farmers in the sparsely settled province of Guanacaste are making war on hordes of monkeys which greatly exceed the human population in the jungle.

After a hard struggle against the jungle the farmers succeeded in clearing small patches for corn fields, which they are now hard pressed to protect from the marauding monkeys, which are too smart to be afraid of scarecrows. Zero hour is the crack of dawn, when hundreds of monkeys raid the fields, carrying away the ripening ears of corn.

"I have never discussed the question of a third term for the President," she said. "I know nothing of his plans."

Calls His Dead Father a Thief in Parole Plea

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

If Charles G. Koepke, a once dapper young loop real estate broker and night club patron, went to prison to shield his dead father's good name his sacrifice was rendered ineffective through a statement made to a committee of the parole board yesterday at the Joliet penitentiary.

It was a strange and startling statement that was presented to the committee by Attorney Reuel H. Gruenwald, who said he had been a friend of Koepke's father, Charles A. Koepke, for twenty-five years and that he had promised the father to look after the boy.

He charged that Koepke's mother, who lives at 414 Washington avenue, Wilmette, had decreed that the son must go to prison rather than reveal that it was the father, now dead, who had embezzled $150,000 of clients' money.

Tells of $190,000 Insurance.

He implied that the father had committed suicide so his insurance could be used to pay off his embezzlements. The mother, Attorney Gruenwald declared, paid off only her friends, social intimates and fellow church members out of $190,000 insurance, and placed the son, in his early 20s in charge of a business in which there was then a shortage of over $40,000.

"Her idea of justice is that her husband's name must be kept stainless even though her son sits in prison," he told the parole board members. "She ruled the father, she rules the son, and she rules a married daughter."

"She would not let me present the truth at the trial. She threatened to take me before the Bar association if I attempted to show that the father was the guilty one rather than the son. If she knew I was here now telling about it she would be angered beyond words."

Mother Remains Silent.

In her comfortable Wilmette home last night Mrs. Koepke refused to comment on the attorney's statement. A stocky, gray haired woman with steel gray eyes, she paled as she heard his accusation, but she maintained an inscrutable silence. When she was asked if she would

Gambler Shot as He Seeks Place in Racket

Murder, apparently motivated by the slot machine racket, last night climaxed a day in which the racket was sharply brought to public attention in a series of smashing raids by squads from the state's attorney's and the sherif's offices.

The victim was John Sullivan, 45 years old, 4809 Washington boulevard, an ex-convict, who was trying to take over the slot machine operations once held by his late brother, Joseph Sullivan. The killing and the raids were not connected except as the raids emphasized that the slot machine business is still very much alive, and the killing showed that death may be the penalty for any one attempting to break into the business.

Caught In Ambush.

Sullivan was shot to death in the rear of 4808 Washington boulevard, across the street from his home, as he was putting his car into a garage. Two unidentified men, both about 5 feet 10 inches tall, and one coatless, ambushed him. As he cried, "Don't!" one of the men shot him in the back with a shotgun. The other man fired a shot into his right eye as he lay on the ground. In all, Sullivan was wounded nine times.

Several witnesses saw the killers flee, and one, Charles Tisch, 4754 West End avenue, a private watchman, fired one shot at them. They escaped in West End avenue.

Wife Knows Secret.

Sullivan's wife, Mrs. Rae Walkerfi Sullivan, whom he married a year ago, heard the fatal shots. She became hysterical when she learned her husband was dead. At the Austin police station, under questioning by Capt. George Lynch and Sergt. Matt Quilter, she suddenly cried out that she knew the secret of the murder.

"I know who killed Johnny," she said, "and I know why. But I can't tell because I know they'd get me as they got him."

She refused to expand much on this except to say there had been some difficulties over the estate of her brother-in-law, Joseph Sullivan. Joseph Sullivan was killed in an automobile accident two years ago. She advised police to see her lawyer, Frank Tyrrell, but he could not be reached.

Woman Is Questioned.

After talking with Mrs. Sullivan, police soon afterward brought in to the station for questioning Mrs. Clara Kinzer, 40 years old, 1527 East 60th street, a widow; John Keller, alias Coppola, 4643 Fulton street, and his wife, and Keller's brother, Harold, 181 North Cicero avenue, near the scene of the shooting. They were questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Irwin Clorfene and Sergt. John Boland of the homicide squad. Because of conflicting stories the Kellers were held for further questioning today.

The gist of the investigation this morning was slot machines and the Joseph Sullivan estate. Part of Sullivan's estate included approximately 100 slot machines. His partner in the business took over these machines, police were told. John Sullivan resented this. He wanted them himself.

JAPANESE GUNS ROCK SHANGHAI; 'BIG PUSH' ON

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Because of the increasing peril to neutral shipping from Chinese and Japanese bombs and shells, United States authorities today closed the port of Shanghai to all vessels flying the American flag other than warships. The order from Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, and Counsel General Clarence Gauss, was the result of the bombing of the liner President Hoover.

BULLETIN.

HONGKONG, Aug. 31 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Two Japanese planes were shot down near Canton, South China's principal city, after an early morning raid in which two bombs were dropped at the outskirts of the city. Chinese planes drove off the attackers.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The heavy guns of the Japanese fleet in the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers crashed into action at dawn today in what appeared to be the prelude of Japan's big push against the Chinese lines encircling Shanghai.

This international city of 3,500,000 persons, now in its third week of undeclared war, rocked to the steady bombardment. The Japanese shells were pitting a wide area around Woosung and its historic forts at the confluence of the two rivers 12 miles north of here.

Gap in Japanese Lines.

There apparently was a gap in the Japanese lines between Woosung and Liuho, 12 miles to the northwest, which the Japanese were trying desperately to close so they would have a consolidated position for their drive on Shanghai.

Chinese Howitzers were rushed into position on the International Recreation club race course, just west of the already wrecked Shanghai municipal center at Kiangwan. The heavy implacements only a few miles north of the international settlement boundary soon added their dull roar to the cannonade.

The general situation was growing steadily worse, with an added threat of cholera because of overtaxed sanitation facilities and the steady drain on the water supply. As a safety measure the United States navy canceled all shore leave, and all Chinese hands were ordered off the cruiser Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet.

Dollar Line Ship Bombed.

Evacuation of American refugees was at a virtual standstill because of the bombing of the Dollar liner President Hoover yesterday by Chinese planes as she lay at anchor twenty miles southeast of Shanghai.

Nine passengers and members of the crew were wounded. One member of the crew, S. Haskell, died today of leg and stomach wounds. The passengers injured are: E. Ruffner, scalp wound; G. Whitfield, leg wound, and J. Cowen, arm wound. The wounded members of the crew are: V. Morris, scalp wound and injuries to back; J. Kulik, chest and leg wounds; P. Engelhardt, arm and hand wounds; E. Haldin, scalp wound, and R. Cordero, head injuries.

The bombing of the President Hoover raised the prospect that United States naval ships may have to be used to carry American women and children from stricken Shanghai.

The President Hoover is largest of the ships which have carried American refugees from the perils of the war.

Mistaken for Troopship.

The bombing added one more to the lengthening list of international complications arising from the conflict between China and Japan for domination of China's greatest city.

The Chinese government at Nanking was quick to assume responsibility and promise the "fullest redress" for what it called a "most regrettable, unfortunate mistake."

Chinese officials explained that "one pilot" bombed the liner because he thought it was one of ten Japanese troopships understood to be in those waters. Two Japanese destroyers were maneuvering near by. The Chinese said the Hoover lay between them and therefore the Chinese pilots thought she must be a Japanese transport.

Independent sources said four Chinese planes, swift bombers, took part in the attack. Japanese naval officers announced two of their seaplanes had shot down one of the Chinese planes returning from the raid on the liner. It was found to be of American make.

The attack caused the Hoover to abandon her call at Shanghai and sail at once for Japan.

The Hoover, homebound from Manila, was approaching Shanghai to take aboard her second group of American refugees from the war zone when she was struck.

She wirelessed for aid, especially medical, and the British cruiser Cumberland and two United States destroyers rushed to her assistance. The Cumberland, near by, reached her first and the destroyers turned back.

The British cruiser's surgeon assisted the liner's doctor in emergency operations to save the lives of two seamen.

On orders of Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, the Hoover steamed for Kobe. The same orders were given the Dollar liner President McKinley, which was close behind the Hoover.

Leaves 526 Refugees Stranded.

That meant bitter disappointment for 350 Americans booked to leave Shanghai by the Hoover and 176 more who had passage on the McKinley.

United States naval officers said that warships might be used to carry away those Americans still anxious to escape Shanghai's perils, although no decision had been reached.

The majority of the Americans who had intended leaving by the Hoover already had their baggage on the wharf. The Dollar line office was busy most of the night informing them that their plans to flee Shanghai must be changed.

Although damaged, the Hoover was able to steam under her own power at 19 knots toward Kobe, where she was due Wednesday noon. One bomb had struck her boat deck and bomb fragments pierced her hull in 25 places above the water line.

Attacked While at Anchor.

Information from Capt. George W. Yardley, the Hoover's skipper, showed the bombers struck as the liner was anchored fifty miles below Woosung.

Capt. Yardley had planned to remain there until morning, then proceed to a point eight miles off shore from Woosung for tenders bringing Shanghai passengers. He had decided not to endanger his ship by taking her even to the mouth of the war churned Whangpoo.

The bombing of the liner was the second attack on an American ship near Shanghai in the undeclared Shanghai war. The cruiser Augusta, fleet flagship, was struck by a shell Aug. 20; one seaman was killed and seventeen wounded.

British Envoy Recovering.

The Hoover affair also followed closely the grave wounding of the British ambassador to China last Thursday by Japanese airmen on the road from Nanking to Shanghai. Today Sir Hughe M. Knatchbull-Hugessen, the envoy, was recovering in a Shanghai hospital, while in Tokio the Japanese government was studying Britain's demand for an apology and punishment of the offending airmen delivered to the foreign office Sunday by the British chargé d'affaires.

Fresh Japanese troops arrived yesterday in the Yangtze estuary north of Shanghai and were landed along the south bank of the Yangtze.

U. S. PROTESTS BOMBING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today ordered Nelson T. Johnson, the United States ambassador in China, to make a vigorous protest to the Chinese government at Nanking over the bombing of the Dollar liner President Hoover by Chinese planes.

Secretary Hull termed the bombing of the American liner "unfortunate" and "deplorable," but said it was one of those not entirely unusual incidents that occur in conditions such as those in the Shanghai area.

Meanwhile, it was explained that Chinese Ambassador Chengting T. Wang would call at the state department tomorrow to extend his government's regrets and offer an immediate settlement on any terms that might be desired.

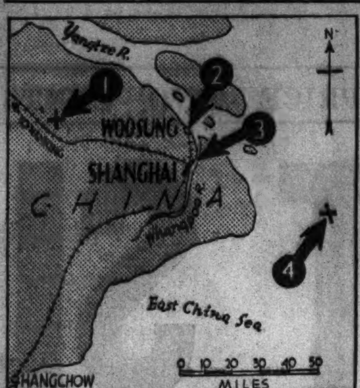
See Quick End to Incident.

This was expected to end the matter, which is not regarded by the state department with the seriousness and indignation with which Great Britain received the Japanese machine gunning of her ambassador in Shanghai.

Informed of press reports that the Dollar line would not send any more of its ships into the port of Shanghai, Secretary Hull declared at his press conference that he was under the "impression" that no American merchantmen would call there for the time being.

Hereafter, Secretary Hull announced, Americans desiring to be removed from Shanghai will be taken off by naval vessels.

CRISIS BREEDERS



Arrows locate incidents of last ten days in Japan's undeclared war with China in which foreigners were involved:

3—Shell of disputed origin exploded on deck of the United States cruiser Augusta in Whangpoo river at Shanghai on Aug. 20, killing one sailor and wounding seventeen.

JAPAN CHARGES RUSSIA AND CHINA HAVE WAR PACT

Insists Moscow Intends to Help Nanking.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 30.—A secret military agreement has been reached by China and Soviet Russia, according to a view widely expressed in Tokio today. It is believed that in this agreement China fully recognizes soviet activities in Outer Mongolia and Sinkiang province in return for a joint defense arrangement against the advance of the Japanese in China. Such a secret pact is reported to have been attached to the nonaggression accord concluded yesterday by the Moscow and Nanking governments.

The pact is viewed as aimed at the Japanese-German treaty for combatting communism. Certain quarters said the immediate result will be the dispatching of soviet munitions, military advisers and aviators to China.

"It is not exaggeration, therefore, to say that the pact is a sort of military agreement," these sources declare.

Foreign Office Hits Pact.

"It is rather laughable that China, despite its repeated provocative actions against Japan, should conclude a so-called nonaggression pact and denounce war as a means of settling international disputes," said the foreign office. "That the communist internationale regards Japan as an enemy and is making preparations against Tokio is clear. It also is clear that the Comintern is attempting to disturb peace in the far east. It is regrettable that China should be manipulated by its evil hands.

"The Nanking government has descended so low morally that it is willing to be an agent in spreading the doctrin of bolshevizing the world and undermining the peaceful structure of human society."

The Tokio Asahi said that the chief objective of the Japanese "police efforts" in China must be to defeat a soviet-Chinese common front against Japan. The newspaper expressed fears that some quarters in Moscow aim to transform China into a "second Spain."

Ready to Resist Attack.

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Foreign diplomats said tonight that the new nonaggression pact between China and Russia has spiked any chance for Japan to use China as a cat's paw in her anti-communist crusade.

On the other hand, they pointed out, the soviet union has reserved the right to support Outer Mongolia in resisting any attack by a possible Japanese puppet government.

The potential danger of a Japanese thrust into Outer Mongolia, which serves as a buffer state for the soviet in the far east, has been seen by Russian officials since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria began in 1931.

NAIROBI, Kenya, Aug. 30.—The British government has decided to build a camp at Isiolo, Kenya, 150 miles south of the Ethiopian frontier, for 1,000 Ethiopian refugees, half of whom are women and children. They arrived in Kenya recently after one of the most remarkable treks in the modern history of Africa. Several children were born en route.

Most of the refugees, who, it is believed, were at least three months on the journey, comprised better class families, slaves, peasants, and soldiers armed with machine guns, modern rifles, and one anti-aircraft gun, all of which were handed over to the British authorities.

One of the leaders claimed to be the illegitimate son of Emperor Lej Yasu, who was deposed by Haile Selassie.

Army Airplane Reported in Crash on Texas Flight

Palestine, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP)—An airplane, believed to be one of a 13 plane army flight from Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., crashed in flames today near Grapeland Club lake, about 25 miles south of Palestine. Dennis Frazier of Grapeland said he saw the plane falling. The plane was en route to Kelly field at San Antonio, Tex.

One Plane Missing.

Grapeland, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Reports of an army plane crash were discounted here tonight after a search of several hours revealed only the remains of a large flare. Some credence was given the report when a check with Kelly field late tonight revealed one of the planes still missing.

Woman Pilot Rescued.

Newton, Conn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Miss Eleanor Carberry, 24, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was pulled to safety from her blazing airplane today after a crash on the lawn of the Fairfield state hospital here. She was treated for minor head injuries.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30. — Evidently stung by the bitter foreign criticisms of their slaughter by bombing of civilians Saturday at the Nantao railway station in Shanghai, Japanese military officials announced today that "at the present time we will refrain from the bombardment of civilians populations, but will continue to bomb Chinese military concentrations, establishments, and other facilities."

The Japanese spokesman admitted, however, that other bombings like that in Nantao Chinese quarter later may become necessary, but again promised advance warnings will be given to enable civilians to evacuate the danger zones.

There is much local criticism against Japanese naval authorities who persist in refusing foreigners permission to cross the Garden bridge into the Hongkew and Yangtzepoo areas to learn the fate of their homes and business properties there.

COUPLE SEIZED ON MINNEAPOLIS LOTTERY CHARGE

Alfred Thomas, 53 years old, and his wife Marie, 31, were arrested by state's attorney's police yesterday in a tavern at 6240 Cottage Grove avenue. The Thomases are wanted in Minneapolis on charges of conspiring to operate a lottery. They are accused of registering nearly 15,000 persons at 95 cents each in a lottery scheme which police say is similar to chain letters of the past. The arrests were made after detectives trailed a messenger boy to the tavern where the Thomases were waiting.

BRITAIN AWAITS JAPS' REPLY ON ENVOY SHOOTING

Protest Note "Too Mild," Many Believe.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Great Britain today awaited Japan's reply to the note of protest concerning the shooting of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China. It was expected that a reply from Tokio will arrive soon. The protest was presented to the Japanese government yesterday.

Public opinion in Britain, which has been much perturbed by the shooting of the ambassador and the Japanese failure to take the matter as "very serious," had been given to believe that the note was very stern and that it called Japan's hand in no uncertain terms.

No Time Limit Set.

Today, however, diplomatic chancelleries pointed out that the note carefully avoided the inference that any sanctions [penalties] would follow if Japan fails to comply with Britain's demand for a formal apology. The note gave the Japanese unlimited time to answer.

In fact, it was suggested here that even if the Japanese do not answer the note or comply with its demands, the fact that the Japanese have been put before the world as international law breakers and as digressing from civilized practice really means something.

Diplomats saw in the British note an evident British wish to show other nations that they might soon be in the same fix if the Japanese keep on at the present pace.

Digresses from True Issue?

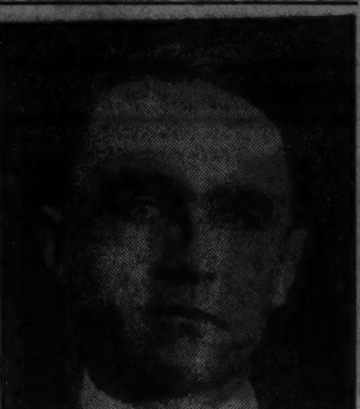
Others said it digressed from the true issue between the two countries. Objection was taken especially to the statement that the attack on a neutral diplomat was irrelevant. The note added the vital point was that the victims were noncombatant.

"On the contrary," said the Evening Standard, "the real issue is that our ambassador has been attacked. That is the only basis of our demands."

This section of British opinion believes the government did wrong to "lecture" the Japanese.

Britain besides demanding a formal apology asked punishment of airmen for the shooting and assurance by Tokio that a similar outrage will not occur again.

Killed in Ambush



JOHN SULLIVAN.

GAMBLER SLAIN IN SLOT MACHINE RACKETEER FEUD

Shot as He Seeks to Regain Rule.

only a few days ago succeeded in having himself appointed administrator in place of a woman friend of his brother's who had served in that capacity. The case is still pending in court. As administrator, Sullivan presumably intended to get possession of the hundred slot machines. That he was already engaged in the business was indicated, police said, by the presence of several slot machine tools in his automobile.

Keller, or Coppola, who was brought into the station supposedly as Joseph Sullivan's partner, admitted to Prosecutor Clorefene that he once had worked with Sullivan in the business. But that was four or five years ago; and even then, he said, each had different territories in the county. They broke up their partnership long before Sullivan's death, he said.

Tells of Tip on Raids.

Keller admitted he is now engaged in the slot machine racket and has thirty-six machines operating around River Grove. He took them out yesterday, he said, on receiving word that there were to be raids. He laughed when Clorfene asked him to name his informant. Keller denied knowing anything about John Sullivan's murder.

Mrs. Kinzer also admitted engaging in the slot machine business at one time. She said she and her husband, Charles, operated the Kinzer Novelty company and that after his death several years ago she carried on alone. She was forced out of business when her machines were hijacked and hoodlums threatened her. Last year, she said, John Sullivan came to her and obtained information about his brother's business.

Has Long Police Record.

John Sullivan had a long police record, which began in 1913 when he was sentenced to the house of correction for petty larceny. In 1914 he was sent to Joliet for larceny from De Kalb county, and returned for violation after parole. In 1919 he again entered Joliet, this time for conspiracy. Then in 1926 he was committed to Leavenworth. In 1932 he entered Joliet for the third time for burglary, and was discharged just a year ago.

Yesterday's raids netted about fifty slot machines. Most of the machines were smashed. The raids were made in Chicago Heights, South Chicago Heights, Steger, Evergreen Park, Oak Lawn, Palos, Lyons township, Morton Grove, near Glenview.

U. S. GIVES CASH TO RESUME OLD AGE PENSIONS

Illinois Makes Peace with Federal Board.

Federal contributions to Illinois old age pensions, which were abruptly halted on July 30, were resumed yesterday. The social security board in Washington authorized the resumption and approved a grant of $2,026,352 for pension payments of August and September, which will be matched by the state.

A. L. Bowen, director of the Illinois department of public welfare, said in Springfield last night that the issuance of August pension checks would probably begin today. The checks, which will go to more than 115,000 pensioners, will aggregate more than $2,000,000.

Ends State-Federal Row.

While the social security board's announcement that the government would resume payments promised immediate funds to those whose checks had been delayed, there was much more significance in the board's action. State officials said it meant the end of the dispute between the state and federal governments which resulted in cutting off the government's half of the pension payments.

The federal government had accused the state of inefficiency in the administration of the pension funds, and it was reported the Washington authorities had charged that the majority of the workers in the Springfield pension office were untrained political appointees.

Accounting System Target.

Particular objection was made to the state's accounting system. Federal officials said the state had failed to establish a master control register which would prevent duplications on the pension lists. It was charged, also, that the investigation of applications was delayed. Bowen said the social security board assured him yesterday that it is now satisfied with the administration.

Bowen said that the pension department workers had not yet been placed under civil service when the government funds were stopped, and that many of them were temporary appointees. All have now been given examinations, he said, and some eight or nine in the Springfield office who failed to pass have been replaced.

The accounting system has been completely revised, according to Bowen, to conform to government specifications.

County Average $20.88.

Cook county's 36,000 pensioners were to begin receiving their August checks at the same time as downstate pensioners. The average check in Cook county was $20.88 in June. The downstate average was $14.48, the higher amounts in Cook county being ascribed to higher living costs in Chicago.

Washington dispatches hinted that the government funds for August would not be available unless all the checks were issued today—the last day of the month. Bowen said this fear was groundless and that many of the August checks would have to be issued in September.

He explained that the issuance of checks is staggered over the entire month ordinarily, but that no August checks had been sent out because of the stoppage of federal funds. The stagger system will be resumed, he said, with the September checks to be issued, once the August checks have been mailed.

Due in Court, He Slashes Throat; Charge Dismissed

John Slawinski, 42 years old, a foundry worker, was to be arraigned yesterday on complaint of his daughter, Marie, that he struck her and her mother and used abusive language to them. Instead of going to police court Slawinski slashed his throat with a razor in the bedroom of his home at 1405 51st court, Cicero. Learning Slawinski's wound was serious, Magistrate Henry Sandusky dismissed the charge.

BASQUES SWARM OUT OF HILLS TO LAY DOWN GUNS

Writer Depicts Santander After Its Surrender.

BY THOMAS GUNNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SALAMANCA, Spain, Aug. 30.—The extraordinary sight of whole companies of the beaten loyalist Santander army vainly trying to surrender to occupants of a press car between Santander and Santona was the highlight of a three day tour of conquered Santander province. The trip was made after the fall of Santander city, which the rebels marched into amid cheers of the population last Thursday.

Completely demoralized and leaderless battalions of the defeated Basques and Santanderinos presented a pathetic sight. Soldiers sat along the roadside with their arms stacked. Other soldiers still were swarming down from the hills along the coastal road, many having shed their uniforms in exchange for any rags that could be found.

Many Prisoners Unguarded.

At Castro Urdiales and Laredo, thousands of prisoners were concentrated in the parks and sports grounds. They were being cleared in batches of trucks, some with two guards, some with one and others with no guard at all. The trip from Burgos to Santander revealed battered villages, mortar pitted mountainsides and trenches flattened by artillery and aircraft as evidence of the full force of modern mechanized warfare.

On the return trip along Palencia road it was evident that the defenders had put all their faith in the iron ring of Reinosa and that with that broken they had made little further resistance until they fell back to Torrelavega.

City Litered with Filth.

It was estimated that 25,000 prisoners were taken in the city of Santander alone and that many still are walking around with a sort of liberty owing to the lack of transportation and accommodations at concentration camps.

The first impression of Santander was indescribable filth owing to the breakdown of all municipal services. The streets were littered with rubbish ranging from empty food cans to unexploded hand grenades.

A cathedral had been turned into a huge arsenal. Thousands of shells and air bombs were stacked to the roof. A Jesuit church also was used as a munitions depot and the entire floor space was stacked half way to the roof with boxes of rifle ammunitions and was complete with an armorer's forge in the sacristy. Both churches still were guarded by the same men who had served as loyalist guards and who had saved them at the last moment from being blown up.

Boats Rush Bread, Meat.

Half an hour after the rebel troops entered, six boats from Bilbao sailed into the harbor bringing the starving city bread and tons of meat freshly butchered.

There were touching scenes in crowded Santander streets as prisoners—people who had hidden a whole year from the loyalists—rushed about seeking friends or relatives. The men were dirty because the city for many months had had no soap, but the women seemed to have conserved plenty of lipstick and powder.

NEW COMMANDER OF 6TH CORPS EXPLAINS STRATEGY OF HAWAII

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The Hawaiian Islands must be made impregnable as the best defense of the United States against any possible invasion from the west, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, who has just been transferred from command of the army in Hawaii, said today. The general arrived on the United States army transport Grant. He will leave early next week to take over command of the Sixth corps area, with headquarters in Chicago.

The general said the two main considerations to be studied in making Hawaii impregnable are aviation and food supply.

Gen. Drum said that establishment of an air base in Alaska to coordinate this plan of defense is under consideration. Construction of the Hickam airport at Honolulu is "proceeding satisfactorily."

LOYALISTS SEEK TO TRAP REBELS IN TERUEL AREA

MADRID, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Government forces tightened their siege of insurgent held Belchite tonight in preparation for a general offensive aimed at driving a wedge between Saragossa and Teruel, most important insurgent strongholds on the Aragon front.

In a series of attacks, government soldiers forced insurgents to withdraw from their mountain positions around Belchite, 20 miles south of Saragossa. Loyalists took six small villages around the town.

Submarine Damages Ship.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Spanish loyalist freighter Ciudad de Reus put in at Port Vendres, France, tonight after being damaged by a shell from an unidentified submarine off the French coast last night.

The Panamanian freighter Gyuri was beached at Marseilles and put under police guard as a fire raged in her hold. The vessel has a cargo of 525 tons of munitions.

Name New Nazi Envoy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Dr. Eberhard von Stohrer today was appointed by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler as ambassador to the Spanish insurgent régime in Salamanca. Von Stohrer succeeds Gen. Wilhelm Faupel.

TRAINCONDUCTOR TO DIE FOR FATAL SOVIET ACCIDENT

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A train conductor, condemned to death for a fatal accident, was added tonight to the lengthening list of victims in the soviet purge of "enemies."

Five other railroad workers, convicted only of "careless inefficiency," were let off with prison sentences. They were held responsible for the death of seven persons and the injury of 12 others, scraped off the steps of an overcrowded train.

Death sentences were decreed for seven confessed "rightist traitors" on soviet farms, including one woman.

Britain Raises Age Limit for Recruits by 3 Years

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The war office announced today it had increased the age limit three years for recruits for all army combatant units, thus making more men eligible for enlistment. The new range makes it possible to recruit men between the ages of 18 and 28. The old regulation required them to be between 18 and 25. The British have encountered difficulty in obtaining recruits under their army expansion program.

EX-JUDGE HAYES KILLS HIMSELF IN LOOP GRILL

Family and Police Fail to Find Motive.

Howard W. Hayes, former judge of the Municipal court, was found shot and fatally wounded yesterday in a washroom off Martin's grill in the office building at 33 North La Salle street. Police called Hayes' death suicide, but were unable to uncover a motive. He was 59 years old.

Apparently in good spirits, Hayes had gone to his law office at 105 South La Salle street, accompanied by his fourth wife, Mrs. Harriet Hayes, daughter of former Judge Elbridge Hanecy, and two of their children, Howard, 11, and Sally, 17.

Tells Secretary of Business.

About 10 o'clock, after his family left, Hayes told his secretary, Miss Leonore Gallagher, he was going to the office of a referee in bankruptcy to represent a client. Instead he walked into the grill, said good morning to the bartender, William Dunbar, 660 Barry avenue, and entered the washroom.

Ten minutes later Hayes was found unconscious on the washroom floor. There was a bullet wound in his left temple. A .38 caliber revolver lay near his left hand. He was taken to the Henrotin hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

Without Worries, Says Wife.

Mrs. Hayes told police that her husband seemed to be happy and without any worries. Business associates said he recently told them his law business was prospering. Judge Lambert K. Hayes of the Boys' court, who is no relation, said that Hayes greeted him jovially when they met on the street yesterday morning.

In 1933 Hayes was involved in extensive litigation with his third wife, Mrs. Grace Houston, 180 East Delaware place, whom he married Sept. 15, 1916. His first wife died and he divorced his second wife, Mrs. Lydia C. Hayes, in 1914.

Court Contest Over Alimony.

Mrs. Houston, who resumed the name of her first husband after divorcing Hayes in 1918, brought him into court in 1933, asking that he be held in contempt for failing to pay $400 in alimony. Hayes countered with a plea for a reduction in the alimony payments.

After numerous hearings, Judge Philip J. Finnegan reduced the monthly payments from $225 to $100, despite the statement of Mrs. Houston that she was penniless. Two years later Mrs. Houston accepted $3,175 and title to a 12 apartment building in final settlement of her claims.

On Bench for Many Years.

Hayes had a long career on the Municipal court bench. He was elected for the first time in 1916 and served until 1934, when he failed of reëlection.

He was born at Steubenville, O., and attended the Hyde Park and old South Division High schools. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, where he was captain of the track team and set a record for the half mile which stood for many years.

Upon his graduation from the Michigan law school in 1901 he entered law practice in Chicago. From 1907 until 1911 he was an assistant corporation counsel under the Busse administration.

He had charge of the revision of the municipal code and as attorney for the police pension board drafted the original police pension bill and steered it through the legislature.

LINDBLOM HIGH TEACHER KILLS SELF IN INDIANA

Attica, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A man identified as Elmer H. Edwards, commerce teacher in the Lindblom High school in Chicago, was found shot to death late today in the rear seat of Edwards' car, which was parked on the side of a road five miles south of here.

Edwards had evidently ended his life by discharging with a stick a new shotgun found beside him. A note blamed ill health.

Edwards, who was 59 years old, was a veteran in the Chicago public schools service. He lived at 5438 University avenue with his aged mother. She asked police to search for him yesterday when he disappeared from home.

FIND SINISTER EQUIPMENT IN BASEMENT RAID

North Racine avenue police raided a basement at 1634 Pierce avenue last night and found bulletproof vests, machine gun drums and cartridges, and a Wisconsin deputy sherif badge. Henry Bradke, 28 years old, a clerk, resident at the Pierce avenue address, was arrested.

A considerable quantity of automobile equipment and accessories, a dozen bicycles and also parts of bicycles were found. In one corner of the basement the raiders, Detectives Joseph Ponicki, Edward Kennedy, and Thomas Kelly, discovered a jar containing liquid supposedly used in stench bombs. Bradke told the police that the vests and machine gun drums and bullets once belonged to Willie Carr, a beer dealer, who was shot to death in front of 1521 Elston avenue on July 26, 1933.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A sixty mile stretch of the Florida east coast was whipped today by a small tropical storm that moved inland from the Atlantic ocean. The affected area lay between here and St. Augustine.

Although winds reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour, only minor property damage was done. Trees were uprooted and streets, especially in Daytona Beach, were littered with débris. A 40 foot temporary tower used for fire instruction was blown down here.

Wind and rain caused temporary failure of power and communication facilities at Daytona Beach and other coastal points, but service was soon restored.

HOUSEWIFE IS FOUND DEAD.

The body of Mrs. Mary Lorenz, 40 years old, was found by her husband, Frank, 44 years old, in their apartment at 5729 South Laflin street yesterday. her wrists and ankles slashed. Lorenz, an unemployed baker, told Englewood police his wife had been in ill health.

FLOOD OF PRAISE HAILS SUCCESS OF GERMAN DAY

Congratulatory telegrams acclaiming the success of the Charter Jubilee German day observance Sunday at Soldiers' field continued yesterday to pour into the office of William Reichert, president of the German Day association. Among those expressing their praise were Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner.

More than 30,000 spectators, many clad in the gay costumes of German singing societies, attended. They heard a concert conducted by Johan Strauss III., nephew of the Viennese composer. Mrs. Ernest J. Kruetgen, wife of Chicago's postmaster, was a soloist, and the costumed societies presented choral numbers. A brilliant torchlight parade was the finale.

PLAY SAFE WITH SILVERTOWNS

the only tire that gives you Golden Ply Blow-out Protection

WHEN your family piles into the car and you head for the mountains, lakes or seashore, remember this: THEIR LIVES ARE IN YOUR HANDS. And when thousands of people are killed or injured every year in blow-out accidents, it pays to think twice about your tires.

Many of the blow-outs that you hear and read about are due to the heat generated inside of all tires by today's higher driving speeds. As the flying wheels whirl over the highways this internal heat becomes so intense that rubber and fabric may begin to separate. A blister starts—grows bigger and BIGGER—until, sooner or later, BANG! A blow-out! And your life and the lives of your family are endangered.

But now, to provide you and everyone who drives with you, with real blow-out protection, every new Goodrich Silvertown Tire is built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This Goodrich invention is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist this internal tire heat. By resisting heat inside the tire, the Golden Ply gives you real protection against these high-speed blow-outs.

Safer Miles—More Miles

Thousands of motorists all over America have found that Silvertowns below mean safety above. For your own peace of mind, for the protection of your family and friends, get a set of these long-mileage, life-saving tires. Goodrich Silvertowns actually cost less than other super-quality tires. Come in today.

BIG NEWS!

GOODRICH INVADES THE LOW-PRICED TIRE FIELD!

America's oldest tire manufacturer gives you this big, husky Commander. It's full dimension, made of "wear-resisting" rubber for long wear and mileage—the quality that makes a low price really low.

NATIONAL DEBT THREATENS TO BE 40 BILLIONS

Lavish Sums Provided by Last Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Representative John Taber of New York, ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, declared today in a compilation prepared for the last issue of the Congressional Record that a total of $10,252,892,556 was appropriated at the last session, all for use during the current fiscal year.

The spending of this much money in one fiscal year, he contended, will result in a deficit of between $3,000,000,000 and $4,000,000,000 and boost the net national debt to more than 40 billion dollars.

Compares Other Appropriations.

Comparing this session's appropriations with those of previous years Mr. Taber pointed out that heretofore some of the larger items have been apportioned over longer periods of time, which made the totals seem less formidable.

Even in 1935, when the first session of the 74th congress appropriated a total of $10,459,756,227, he declared, $4,880,000,000 of this amount was for work relief over a two year period. The amount appropriated in 1936, during the last session of the 74th congress, was $10,129,710,521, according to Mr. Taber's computations.

"If we are to continue to do such things as this congress did," Taber declared, "there is never going to be any way out financially for this government.

Saves Failing Enterprises.

"On Friday, the 20th of August, a bill was passed by the house to provide for the purchase by the government of a quantity of reindeer, a slaughterhouse and a refrigerating plant in Alaska, belonging to the Lomen company, which was in the reindeer business in Alaska in 1914 and which never has been successful. In other words the government puts up $2,000,000 to bail out a defunct and failing enterprise.

"We appropriated $2,005,000 out of relief funds for the purpose of buying a forest addition to the Yosemite National park, to bail out a defunct lumber company which owed San Francisco banks. This was a sample of the type of legislation that we had all through the session.

"The appropriations for the session just closing run $123,000,000 more than the previous session. They indicate expenditures in all of approximately $10,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1938, which ends on June 30, next—way beyond anything which has occurred before. They indicate a deficit of anywhere between $3,000,000,000 and $4,000,000,000, and an increase in the national debt of at least $3,000,000,000."

Points to Deficit.

President Roosevelt in his revised budget summation of April 20, 1937, estimated the receipts for the 1938 fiscal year at $6,906,000,000, which, on the basis of an expenditure of $10,000,000,000, would leave a deficit of $3,094,000,000. At that time Mr. Roosevelt estimated the deficit at $418,000,000.

Democratic leaders in the senate immediately made demands for a mandatory 10 per cent slash in all appropriations, except those for the war and navy departments, but the President opposed this plan.

Lists Contingent Liabilities.

Mr. Taber pointed out that the national debt on June 30, 1937, was $36,424,000,000 [it since has hit $37,000,000,000] and maintained that, taking into consideration the government's contingent liabilities, it actually is $42,000,000,000. He listed among the government guarantees farm loan mortgage bonds totaling $1,446,004,209, Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds totaling $3,020,112,997, and RFC obligations totaling $253,036,628.

Mr. Taber cited, as one reason for the increase in spending, the steadily rising federal pay roll under the Roosevelt administration. The last figures he had were May 31, 1937, he said, when the total number of employés on the executive pay roll [excluding the army and navy] was 840,159.

"I understand that the number now exceeds 850,000, indicating an increase since the Roosevelt administration came into power of 275,000, Taber said. He presented a table showing the increase as follows:

Year.	Amount.	Year.	Amount.
1931	571,368	1935	751,259
1932	570,006	1936	810,418
1933	577,170	1937	840,159

"Since the 4th of March, 1933, there has been spent by the Roosevelt administration the enormous sum of $35,000,000,000," Taber declared.

FORTY BILLIONS

4 CORNERED RACE FOR 2D OFFICER OF STATE LEGION

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The pageantry of the American Legion reached its height today when 6,000 former soldiers and auxiliary members, accompanied by bands and drum corps, paraded through Springfield during the 19th annual state convention.

At a business session preceding the parade both Gov. Henry Horner and National Commander Harry W. Colmery of Kansas decried public indifference to the functions of government.

BANDS, CLASS A—Peoria No. 2, first [$300]; Belleville No. 58, second [$150]; Board of Trade No. 304, Chicago, third [$100]. CLASS B—Jacksonville No. 279, first [$200]; Lincoln Legion No. 263, second [$100].

Election of officers and a business session will close the convention tomorrow.

Students receiving NYA assistance get $6 each month for part time jobs in school offices, libraries, laboratories, or as teacher assistants. Campbell said pupils needing aid should apply to their school principals.

DOLLAR SIGN ON BATTLE FLAG HIT BY VANDENBERG

Take Profit Out of War, He Tells V. F. W.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Delegates to the national convention of the veterans of foreign wars cheered Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg today when he called in a speech for "legislation now—which takes the profit out of any future war."

They cheered again when the Michigan Republican added:

"I am speaking for new rules which will take the dollar signs off our battle flags forever."

Vandenberg was the principal speaker at the opening session of the V. F. W. convention. As he began speaking, a delegate shouted from the floor, "the next President of the United States."

Wants Ideals Upheld.

Prefacing his remarks of neutrality with an offer to join the V. F. W. "In any and all campaigns against subversions," Vandenberg declared:

"America has been built to grandeur on an American ideal. It finds its genius in the constitution and the bill of rights. We want ever greater progress and ever widening social and economic advantages for all our people within this ideal. But let those who would tear down the American ideal be torn down themselves."

Entitling his speech "Peace for America," Senator Vandenberg outlined a formula for "peace factors" which, he said, however, would not guarantee America against war.

Besides new laws to take the profit out of war, he advised a ban on potential military partnerships, loans to belligerents, and munitions sales to belligerents.

He termed commercial shipments into belligerent ports an invitation to trouble with foreign powers, Cannot Police World.

"We must have no potential military partnerships," he said. "We must be neither the world's policeman nor the world's pawn.

"We cannot make fat loans to one or the other of belligerents and not ultimately feel the unneutral drag of a proprietary interest in the success of whichever belligerent must win if we are to hope vainly to get our money back.

Vandenberg called for an "adequate, but not an exaggerated, national defense.

For 51 years nothing ever happened on the North Western railroad tracks Hugh Conway guarded from his watchman's tower. When he was 67 years old and ready to retire Hugh Conway had decided nothing ever would happen. ROOSEVELT PUTS OKAY ON BILL TO COUNT JOBLESS

Census to Be Completed by April, 1938.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The size of the army of unemployed in the nation—a mystery which has long confounded attempts to relieve the jobless—will at length be determined as a result of action taken by President Roosevelt in his summer home today.

The President signed a bill passed at the last session of congress which provides for a census of partial and total unemployment to be completed on or before April 1, 1938. The count is to be taken, according to the terms of the bill, "to aid in the formulation of a program for reëmployment and unemployment relief."

Committee to Plan Setup.

The questions to be asked by census takers and the amount of information to be garnered is to be determined, under the act, by a committee composed of the secretary of commerce, the secretary of labor, the administrator of the Works Progress administration, the chairman of the social security board, the chairman of the Central Statistical board, and the director of the census.

Expenses of the census are to be taken out of the emergency relief appropriation of 1937. It is assumed that persons or relief will be employed to take it. Just how complete the census will be is to be determined by the President, who is given complete authority under the act to set up rules in addition to the regulations prescribed by the committee.

One other minor bill was signed by the President and three small measures were vetoed. He also reappointed Murray W. Latimer as a member of the central statistical board, and appointed a delegation, led by Harry W. Block of Florida, to attend an international aviation conference at Lima, Peru.

Blocks Indian Bonus.

Mr. Roosevelt withheld approval of a bill to authorize a per capita payment of $25 to Chippewa Indians in Minnesota on the ground that these Indians were being amply supported by government relief operations. The money would have been paid out of a fund owned by the Indians themselves which was raised by the sale of timber and lumber on their reservation.

The President kept in constant touch today with the state department in Washington in connection with the far east situation. Comment was withheld on the bombing of the Dollar Line steamship President Hoover pending the receipt of official reports.

Hungry? Will you close your eyes and imagine a tall glass of chilled orange juice . . . . then a beautiful piece of grilled HAM that's hot and a plate of golden crusty buttered toast and TWO exquisitely colored eggs fried and CUPS of coffee to make all wrongs right. Please hurry?

NAZI MOTORISTS ABROAD TOLD TO FLY SWASTIKAS

"Cowards if They Don't"; Warned to Behave.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—German motorists who travel abroad and do not dare to show the swastika flag are cowards and pikers, and lack character, Julius Streicher, leader of the Nazi anti-Semitic campaign, declared today. He addressed a rally of motorists of the Franken district.

Streicher declared that "German motorists have the best opportunity to represent Germans abroad," but added that unless they know "how to behave decently they should stay at home, for otherwise they only damage German prestige."

Streicher cautioned motorists who take their girls for drives into the country with these words: "We must see that Jews do not take German girls on auto rides. If anybody catches one doing so he must hand him over to the police."

Exhibit Nazi Work Abroad.

Widespread activity of the foreign organization of the Nazi party was strikingly stressed in an "educational exhibition" opened in Stuttgart in connection with the rally there of the Association of Germans Living Abroad. Charts and maps in the exhibit display the growth of the Nazi movement among Germans residing in foreign countries during the last four years and indicate the degree to which cultural and educational work has been carried on among them by the foreign organization.

In all countries in which Germans are residing—including the United States—branches of the foreign Nazi organization are at work, but it is emphasized that the "activities are restricted to work among German nationals and are aimed only at fostering the spirit of Naziism among them, binding them more closely to the Nazi fatherland."

It was revealed that thirty-seven daily and weekly newspapers are published abroad by the foreign organization.

Bar Ohio Periodical.

Two incidents involving publications were announced. The periodical Ohio Waisenfreund of Columbus, O., has been banned in Germany it was disclosed under an order dated Aug. 25. The motto, "Forward With God, King, and Fatherland," was dropped by the Kreuz Zeitung of Berlin. The former monarchist publication, established in 1848 with Bismarck as one of the founders, has been brought into line with the Nazified press.

The government announced that for the first time three German cardinals have been invited to attend the forthcoming Nazi party rally in Nuremberg, which this year will be attended by diplomatic representatives of all countries except Russia. The cardinals invited are Adolf Bertram, bishop of Breslau; Michael Faulhaber, bishop of Munich, and Charles Joseph Schulte, bishop of Cologne. It is not yet known whether they will be able to accept the invitations.

4 SLAIN; FEAR NEW PALESTINE JEW-ARAB CLASH

JERUSALEM, Aug. 30.—(AP)—British troops and Palestine police were ordered to "stand to" tonight after a day of disorders in which three Jews and an Arab were shot to death.

Besides the fatal shootings police were investigating reports of bombings and lootings, said to be of a political nature. Authorities feared the disorders meant the beginning of another period of Jewish-Arab conflict and bloodshed in the Holy land.

A Jewish passenger on a bus near Jerusalem was killed by shots from a passing motorcar. A little later an Arab was killed on a Jerusalem street. A Jew was found dead at the bottom of a well and another in a field.

A youth riding a bicycle was shot and seriously wounded by an Arab villager at Telaviv and a bomb explosion in the Telaviv market wounded one Yemenite.

HEAR ABDICATION CRISIS WILL COST BINGHAM HIS JOB

BY DAVID DARRAH.

Robert W. Bingham.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The failure of Robert W. Bingham, United States ambassador to London, to inform Washington, D. C., of last year's abdication crisis until it exploded in the house of commons, is going to cost him his job.

This is the explanation of his sudden dash for the United States on the same day that he was preparing for a shooting expedition into Scotland, according to the Reynolds News. The newspaper said that Bingham's ouster, if it materializes, will be in the nature of reproof for his actions in the crisis involving the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield [Simpson] and former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain.

Sees Davies as Successor.

"It is now thought in well informed circles in London that Bingham has made his last official trip across the Atlantic and will be succeeded at the court of St. James's by Joseph E. Davies," the newspaper added.

Davies is ambassador to Moscow. He has had his eye on the London job for some time, according to gossip here.

Reports were circulated today that the duke and duchess of Windsor are planning to return to England early next year to live at Fort Belvedere, an estate which still belongs to Edward. The former monarch and his bride are honeymooning in Austria.

"I'm Going Back," Bingham.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to London, today denied in Baltimore that he was to be replaced and would not return to London.

"The whole report is a complete fabrication," Bingham said. "I'm going to be here for two or three weeks, then I'll go back to my job. Tomorrow I will go to Washington to see Secretary Hull at the state department and while I'm there I will make an appointment to see the President. Then I'll visit my family and go back to London."

He described London dispatches which said he was to be replaced by Joseph E. Davies as "nonsensical."

COPELAND SEES MILLION GRAFT IN TRANSIT PLAN

Enlivens N. Y. Campaign with Charges.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—United States Senator Royal S. Copeland entered the muddled mayoralty campaign today with the charge that graft amounting to a million dollars in brokerage fees was attached to the 436 million dollar transit unification plan proposed by Mayor Florello H. La Guardia.

The accusation, which the senator declared he would amplify with the naming of names at a later date, was spoken at his first campaign interview this afternoon. Copeland, a conservative anti-court packing Democrat, has embarked on the ambitious program of wresting both the Republican nomination from the mayor and the Democratic designation from his bitter enemies in the Roosevelt-Farley machine at the city's primaries two weeks hence.

Provides Purchase of Lines.

The unification plan referred to was a scheme devised by Samuel Seabury, an attorney, and City Chamberlain A. A. Berle Jr., advisers to the mayor, for the purchase of the privately owned subway and rapid transit systems by the city. The state transit commission last spring denounced the plan on the grounds that the prevailing nickel fare would have to be raised in order to defray the cost of old debts and liabilities that were being dumped on the public.

"Several interested parties will understand what is in the air when I begin to ask about the impending brokerage fees if and when the city buys the securities of the traction lines," asserted Senator Copeland. "Some conspicuous character or characters will be in for brokerage fees of a million dollars or more. Who are they? I will tell before the campaign is over."

Will Discuss Local Issues.

The senator gave the traction situation as an example of the local issues he would tell the people about. Kenneth Simpson, Republican chairman for Manhattan and a supporter of Mayor La Guardia, had criticized Copeland for injecting national issues into a local campaign.

"There are plenty of local issues such as the extravagant city administration with its broken promises of economy," retorted Copeland. "But anybody who thinks New York City is not interested in national problems is crazy."

The city dweller is directly affected by the skyrocketing prices of food, clothing, and textiles caused by the Rooseveltian farm program and other costly experiments, according to the senator.

Nazi Support Charged.

Meanwhile the forces of Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former Supreme court justice and the candidate supported by National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, were attempting to smear Copeland with the Nazi taint in this city where 40 per cent of the voters are Jewish and, therefore, presumably anti-Hitler.

The indorsement of Copeland contained in the Deutscher Weckruf und Beobachter, official organ of the German-American Volksbund, was pounced upon by the Farley crowd as showing a link between the senator and the German dictator.

Mahoney demanded that Copeland explain his stand on the Nazi issue and the senator issued a blistering statement.

"For me there is no religious issue in this campaign," he said. "Nor do I expect to appeal to bigotry or racial antagonism in the hope of filching votes. To use such tactics would be to violate the very spirit of our government."

Leaders Visit Farley.

Farley discussed the New York situation several days ago in Washington with Edward J. Flynn and Frank V. Kelley, Roosevelt leaders in the Bronx and Brooklyn boroughs, and announced that he would make his plans public in the near future. He is expected to make several speeches for Mahoney.

While the split between the conservatives and Roosevelt Democrats widens daily, Mayor La Guardia is striving to hold both wings of his followers together for the Republican nomination. Because of the growing disaffection in Republican ranks, La Guardia repudiated the indorsement of the communist party headed by Earl Browder, lukewarm though it was.

La Guardia said no political organization could expect aid or comfort from him, whereupon Browder announced that the communists understood the mayor's position perfectly and they were still for him.

La Guardia already has the support of the American Labor party, which is controled by John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., and is largely composed of communist and other radical elements, but the Republican nomination would help him mightily toward reëlection. The Republicans combined with the fusion party elected him four years ago, but afterward he turned on them and supported President Roosevelt.

Charges Desertion

MRS. MARION R. STERN.

Mrs. Marion R. Stern, daughter of the late Julius Rosenwald, capitalist and philanthropist, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan against Alfred K. Stern of the Drake hotel. The suit charges Stern deserted his wife last Aug. 29.

Mrs. Stern, who lives at 1701 South Sheridan road, Ravinia, is represented by the law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson, and Morse. Her bill alleges that she and her husband have independent estates and that she will need no help in supporting the children, Alfred R., 15 years old, and Adele R., 11.

Mr. Stern is chairman of the Illinois Housing commission and president of the Michigan Boulevard Gardens, a private low cost housing project for colored persons begun by his father-in-law.

VAN NUYS OPENS FIGHT TO KEEP SEAT IN SENATE

Assails 'Cowardly Attack' by Governor.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], today began a campaign for renomination in 1938 based upon the principle that a member of congress must maintain and defend a degree of independence despite the successive Roosevelt landslides.

The senator faces opposition from the statehouse machine, guided—for the moment, at least—by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, who set the theme of next year's fight at French Lick on Saturday when, without naming Mr. Van Nuys, he indicated that he should be kept at home because he opposed the Supreme court packing bill.

Gov. Townsend addressing the Democratic editors of Indiana put it this way; "The people of our state will not tolerate, in my belief, any one in public office who will not put his shoulders to the wheel and give his earnest support to the President."

Calls it "Cowardly Attack."

Senator Van Nuys immediately retaliated by calling this a "cowardly attack" and today amplified it by saying: "I would have had more respect for the governor had he had the guts to come out and name me. That was one of the reasons I called it cowardly."

Asked what he thought of his chances of renomination at the state convention here next June, the senator replied that he was "not unmindful of the ruthless machine I have to fight but will not militate against my objective of being renominated by the Democratic party. I am not surprised that opposition has come from the manipulators of the machine."

Won't Yield on Democracy.

Senator Van Nuys yields to no one on his Democracy.

"I have supported every plank of the Democratic party 100 per cent," he declared, "but the court packing plan was not in the platform and I certainly was not bound to support it. I knew instantly when I heard the President's message that I could not conscientiously support it.

"So I opposed it and I will do so again, if the occasion arises, just as I would oppose any other bill involving the fundamentals of our constitutional government."

Mr. Van Nuys takes considerable satisfaction in the pledges given him by his senatorial colleagues who, when they heard that Gov. Townsend had stood on the White House steps after a conference with the President and intimated the senator faced trouble in Indiana, offered to take the stump for him next year.

Included among these voluntary aids were Senators Burton K. Wheeler, Montana; Harry F. Byrd, Virginia; Hiram Johnson, California; Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyoming; Pat McCarran, Nevada; Josiah W. Bailey, North Carolina, and Carter Glass of Virginia. Senator Glass, who is elderly, could not promise that his health would permit him to make speeches for the senator, but he wanted to aid "in any other way," he told the Indianan.

Even Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky, a supporter of the packing bill, told Van Nuys: "We represent neighboring states, Fred, and maybe we could help you down in southern Indiana where I know the people. If you need me, say the word."

These assurances are pleasant to contemplate, Senator Van Nuys said, and serve to bolster his own conviction that, "You must exert your independence outside the platform. If you don't, why have a senator?"

U. S. CONTINUES DRIVE AGAINST VICE TRAFIC IN EAST COAST CITIES

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—With Harry Roth, reputed leader in the white slave trafic, under arrest here, the federal authorities stated in Trenton, N. J., that "two very important arrests" were imminent in their drive to stamp out vice in this section of the country. The 137 persons arrested in a series of simultaneous raids Saturday night in Atlantic City, Philadelphia, and Wilmington are being held in Trenton, where none has yet arranged bail.

Assistant United States Attorney William F. Smith, working out of the Trenton office, said the connections of two of those who arrests were expected momentarily today "might be surprising." He declined to reveal their identity.

The prisoners were finger printed and photographed yesterday. Women arrested in the raids ranged from 19 to 30 years of age. Indictments will be sought when the new federal grand jury convenes in Trenton on Sept. 14.

FRACTURES HIP IN FALL; DIES.

Mrs. Anna Szymiona, 77 years old, 2526 South 61st avenue, Cicero, died yesterday in the County hospital after fracturing a hip in a fall at her home.

MRS. PATTERSON, STARKE, ETC., ETC., DIVORCES HER 7TH

Mrs. Virginia Overshiner Patterson Starke Seeger Gilbert Kahn Cogswell of the Cedar hotel, 1118 North State street, went through a familiar procedure yesterday in the Superior court.

Judge Charles A. Williams granted Mrs. Cogswell her seventh divorce from her seventh and current husband, Arthur J. Cogswell, an advertising engineer of New York. Cogswell did not contest the suit, which charged he deserted his wife Sept. 1, 1934, three months after their marriage.

Questioned by her attorney, Benjamin B. Davis, Mrs. Cogswell, a brunette of 32, said she could not recall the name of her third husband. Her maiden name was Overshiner. She is a former show girl.

It only takes a competent mechanic a few minutes to check your car, and the savings on gasoline that result go on and on.

This book has already set thousands on the road to real savings this summer. It "packs" mileage-making facts the way Standard Red Crown Gasoline packs mileage-making quality.

MENTAL WEIGHT

By CALEB

I HEARD recently of a little lady who weighs 175 pounds—and to tell the truth, she doesn't look a bit heavier. She is dieting. Because "meat is not fattening," she eats lamb chops or large steaks twice a day. "Cooked fruit" is good for her, she says, so she tops off her meals with great slabs of apple or berry pie.

I know a man—a heavy man. He is dieting. He eats no sweets, no potatoes, no bread, no butter. He has lost ten pounds and wants to lose fifteen more. He is paying a great deal of attention to his bodily "intake."

Another man I know steels himself in the early morning and then drinks a glass of poisonous tasting liquor made of whole grapefruits ground in a meat chopper and diluted by boiling water. I am afraid that through the day he is not free from recurring thoughts of the morrow and its bitter invocation.

Now I know little of the mental habits of these people or of people generally who reduce—as against those who do not. But I am convinced that there is a great advantage to giving similar specialized attention to one's consumption of mental food.

It is an agreeable thought that one can never become mentally overweight.

The normal person takes in just so much food and absorbs and eliminates it all. He does not gain or lose. Thus his consumption balance is okay. That is good.

But such a consumption balance as far as our minds are concerned is not to be desired. If we forget as much as we learn there is never a credit balance at the end of the day. Therefore we recommend mental feasting, mental banquets. We believe that people who are learning are the happiest and most hopeful of people.

In our store invariably those most satisfied with their jobs and with themselves are those who are learning and are, therefore, intensely interested and occupied. That they are heavy eaters mentally need not concern them.

If you wish to partake freely and unreservedly of some of the good things of life, shift from physical to mental consumption.

CALLS HIS DEAD FATHER A THIEF IN PAROLE PLEA

Board Told of Iron Rule by Playboy's Mother.

"Why do you ask me this? Why am I subjected to this?" she demanded. "I will not be interviewed! I know nothing about it at all!"

The Koepke home, a spacious structure, reflects quiet wealth, but has been overshadowed by the more pretentious homes of the neighborhood.

Seized in Singer's Home.

The younger Koepke was arrested April 16, 1936, in the apartment of Miss Patricia Starr, a night club singer, at 3926 Pine Grove avenue, after police had been seeking him for several days. He readily confessed that he was short at least $50,000 in his accounts. He had carried on his business at 77 West Washington street.

Among those whose investments resulted in total losses was Koepke's aunt, Mrs. Anna Clemmens of Tinley Park, who is 61 years old and the sister of Koepke's mother. Mrs. Clemmens said last night that it was the son, not the father, who dissipated her money—about $11,000.

"The boy's father was always honest and respected," she said. "It is a shame that an attempt is now being made to besmirch his name."

Pastor Loses Funds.

Another loser was the Rev. Henry E. Lambrecht, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church, 2250 Cortez street, who has known the Koepke family for years and the son from the time he became a Sunday school attendant. The pastor said that part of the money he had intrusted to young Koepke had been left for the support of a feeble-minded girl, 15 years old.

Koepke told prosecutors he had toured the bright spots regularly and had invested a small amount in a tavern called Cocktails for You at 2415 Lawrence avenue, of which he was half owner.

"I had to make people think I was prosperous or the shortages would have been discovered long ago," he said when arrested. "So I spent money freely around cafés and cabarets. I guess I was too dumb to run the business my father left me."

Gets 1-10 Year Sentence.

On May 11, 1936, Kopeke was sentenced to serve 1 to 10 years in prison upon his plea of guilty of embezzlement. He entered prison two days later.

At Joliet yesterday Attorney Gruenwald addressed Delmar H. Darrah and John Landesco, a subcommittee of the parole board holding a public hearing in the old prison at Joliet.

"I was a friend of Charles A. Koepke and have known Charlie since he was a boy," he said. "Along in 1922 the father invested $150,000 in Florida property. It was money belonging to persons who had entrusted their savings to him to invest in mortgages or other bonds. I visited his property and advised him to sell before the bubble burst, but he waited too long.

Drops More Cash in Oil.

"His clients never found out that he had lost their money in his speculations. In 1926 I was one of a group he invited to join in an oil venture at Petoskey, Mich. He told me then he hoped to make enough out of the venture to repay his clients.

"Instead he lost $30,000. No oil ever came up from any of his wells. I believe now that he was contemplating suicide when he asked me to take care of his boy if anything happened to him. He said his insurance was all paid up and he had policies to the extent of $150,000, with double indemnity clauses in case of death by accident.

"He was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in his automobile in his locked garage in 1931.

Company Fights Claim.

"The insurance company at first refused to pay. Mrs. Koepke had a lawyer who eventually settled for $210,000, although in cases of the same kind the insurance company had paid double the amount of the policy. The attorney charged a fee of $20,000.

"In addition to the insurance Koepke Sr. left his widow a $40,000 home in Wilmette, clear. In 1922 or 1923 he and a client of mine made $80,000 in nine months as partners in building a number of bungalows in Irving Park. Koepke put his $40,000 in the home which the widow still has.

"Mrs. Koepke decided she would pay off those people with whom she frequently came in contact at church and social gatherings. That took about $110,000. Those people never knew Mr. Koepke had mishandled their funds.

Assigns Son to Business.

"The mother told Charlie, who was then studying law, to take charge of the business, which she said would make enough money so he could cover up his father's speculations. But the depression ruined his chances.

"He did rob Peter to pay Paul. When a client wanted the money due him, Charlie would take the amount from another client's investments. He did not profit one penny by the transactions. He was striving to keep the business going. That's why I think he should be paroled now, when he has served the minimum sentence."

Asks About Cabaret Spending.

"Our records show that he was a gay spender at night clubs," interposed Parole Board Member Landesco.

"I visited the night clubs they said Charlie was patronizing," answered the attorney. "The proprietors all told me he never had a bill of more than $12 and that would be for a dinner and a drink or two.

"His wife from whom he was separated at the time of his arrest wants him out and if he is paroled he will go back to her, they have two children. He will try to make restitution."

"Your statements will be considered by the full membership of the parole board in its hearing at Springfield about Sept. 13," said Landesco. "If we should want the books of the company audited to see whether it was the father or the son who was the real embezzler, could we get them?"

"I have the books and I think they will verify what I have said here," replied Attorney Gruenwald.

The parole committee was in session for the first time since the passage of the law opening parole hearings to the public. Previously all parole hearings were secret and the action of the board became known only when a convict was found to have been freed.

278 Ask Freedom.

The committee at Joliet was ready to hear pleas involving 278 convicts. At the same time other committees of the board were holding similar hearings at the Pontiac reformatory and the southern Illinois prison at Menard.

Yesterday's hearing at Joliet was devoted to hearing the relatives, friends, and attorneys of convicts seeking freedom. Today and until the docket is cleared the board members will hear the convicts tell why they think they should be released.

Jewel Thief Seeks Parole.

Another prisoner up for parole is Frank Tufano, one of five convicted of the $150,000 jewel robbery in the home of William H. Mitchell in Lake Forest in 1932. Tufano was sentenced to prison on Feb. 23, 1932, and in May, 1933, prison authorities set February, 1940, as a possible date for his release. Under this setting Tufano, through good behavior, was made eligible for parole by Nov. 4, 1937.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county has announced he will fight Tufano's parole. Lake Forest residents were aroused in 1935 by the parole of Nick Maentanis, one of Tufano's pals in the Mitchell robbery, but their indignant protests, in which the parole was termed a miscarriage of justice, were ignored.

State's Attorney Mason said he was given no notice in the Maentanis case that the convict was up for parole. Maentanis was arrested last Aug. 14 in Chicago for questioning in connection with holdups of several race betting rooms.

Trace Illness to Potatoes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Aug. 30.—Health authorities today traced an unusual increase in stomach and bowel illnesses especially among children, to a commercial fertilizer used by potato farmers. Because of the dry summer the fertilizer did not dissolve and adhered to the potatoes. When boiled the chemical contaminated the water and permeated the food.

Pitchfork, Wyo., Sends Zoo Four Pronghorn Antelopes

Four baby antelopes that experts say will grow up to be vain and handsome and run sixty miles an hour arrived by plane yesterday to make their home at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield.

They're pronghorn antelopes, and pronghorn antelopes are so particular about their appearance that they shed their old horns and grow new ones every year. The babies, 3 months old, were brought here by Charles J. Belden, who raised them on his ranch at Pitchfork, Wyo.

FIND MISSING FATHER OF 8 DEAD AFTER TWO YEARS WITH 2D WIFE

Searching for a middle aged man whose wife and eight children reported him missing a week ago, police discovered last night, they said, that he had been for two years maintaining another home and another wife. The supposed bigamist died last week in the Alexian Brothers hospital and was buried by his second wife.

He was Albert Sanosfski, 50 years old, whose first wife and children live at 1938 North Rockwell street. He spent his nights there, the police said, and his days at 3817 Shubert avenue, where he was known as Allen Sanders. A brunette woman of 38, who said she is Mrs. Edna Sanders, told Policemen William Runge and Rudolph Mueller she married Sanosfsk two years ago, unaware that he was already married. His first wife, Pauline, 48 years old, said she would demand an investigation of her husband's death.

MRS. ROOSEVELT CHEERS RIPPER OF FAMILY CARTOON

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A message of good cheer from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was delivered today at the Flushing hospital to John Smiuske, house painter and former marathon runner, who was sent to jail in Tarrytown, N. Y., in 1934 for destroying an art exhibit picture satirizing the administration and the Roosevelt family.

Smiuske, who is 30 years old, has been in the hospital since a week ago Saturday when he underwent an emergency operation.

Written on White House stationery and signed "Eleanor Roosevelt," the letter said:

"I was more than sorry to hear of your illness and am writing to say that I hope you will keep your courage. You have my best wishes for an early recovery, when I hope you will be able to find employment."

To please people is the one idea us Wilkens have got in putting out this personal Family's Recipe of ours for everybody to enjoy. And I just want to say that all kinds of folks we meet up with—I don't care who they are—they all act just as tickled as can be at getting the exact same whiskey as us distillers enjoy amongst ourselves.

Of course everybody knows there's cheaper whiskies, and other whiskies that cost you pretty dear—but considering the extra mildness and tastiness of our personal Family's Whiskey, folks appear to think The Wilken Family Whiskey is just about the smartest thing to buy—irregardless of price. GANG ARRESTS SHOW DEFECTS IN PAROLE LAW

State Official Points to Sponsor Weakness.

While police scrutinized the parole records of four convicts held in connection with more than 100 robberies, T. P. Sullivan, state superintendent of paroles, declared last night that the present method of sponsorship is often responsible for a parolee's return to crime. The four convicts were seized Sunday with five others, including a 19 year old girl, as members of a robbery gang.

Sullivan said that some sponsors promise parole authorities that they will give convicts employment when they are released from prison, but that in a number of cases the sponsors keep this agreement only a short time and then discharge the convict. Sullivan said parole authorities have begun a policy of investigating all cases for such evasions.

Parolee Takes Consequences.

"There is nothing we can do, however, to the sponsor or employer in these cases. We can only return the parolee to prison," Sullivan asserted. He said that he was in favor of allowing parole agents to assume the duties of sponsors.

Records showed yesterday two of the four paroled convicts seized in the robbery gang became PWA workers shortly after their release. One of the four had been paroled previously and the fourth, the records showed, was placed on probation in the Juvenile court for burglary when he was 13 years old.

The two time parolee is Nick La Caca, 26 years old, who was sentenced to Pontiac Jan. 24, 1929, for a term of one to twenty years for robbery. He was paroled June 19, 1933, to Ralph Messina, 4420 Madison street, his sponsor. He was returned for violation of parole on Jan. 26, 1934, after being arrested in the company of an ex-convict.

La Caca was paroled again on March 11, 1936, with Sam Locascio, a barber at 607 South Western avenue, as his sponsor. Jack Le Vore, owner of a tailor shop at 2310 Van Buren street, promised parole authorities that he had a job for La Caca. But the convict, however, worked at the tailoring shop for a little more than a month, then became a WPA worker. He was recently dropped from WPA rolls and was out of employment when arrested. He lived with his parents at 714 South Claremont avenue.

Soon on WPA Rolls.

Sam Cascavale, 23 years old, another of the parolees seized in the capture of the gang, sought WPA employment shortly after his release on June 11, 1936. He had been sentenced to Pontiac Aug. 20, 1934, for auto theft for one to ten years. His sponsor is Angelo Pagano, owner of a bakery shop at 2204 Taylor street.

Pagano promised parole authorities that Cascavale would be employed in the bakery. He remained there for approximately one month, according to the records. Cascavale is married and lived with his wife at 2734 Flournoy street.

Fred Cantieri, 23 years old, was paroled to James Matteo, an employé of the Meadowmoor Dairy company at 1334 South Peoria street. Matteo agreed to see that Cantieri was employed at the dairy. The parolee worked there about two months. He was then let out and has been working at various jobs since.

Cantieri was sent to Pontiac Sept. 16, 1933, to serve one to twenty years for burglary. He was paroled May 16, 1935. He lived with his parents at 1119 South Mozart street.

First Arrested at 13.

Joseph Zaccari, 20 years old, the fourth parolee, was first arrested for burglary in 1931, when he was 13 years old, and was placed on probation in Juvenile court. On Dec. 20, 1932, he was sentenced to Pontiac for one to ten years after a charge of robbery had been changed to larceny.

He was paroled to Joseph Marinelli, an undertaker at 2064 Polk street, July 24, 1935. Joseph Maraccini, sausage manufacturer at 1614 South 51st street, Cicero, promised him work. Zaccari was employed there two months, then left to find work in a freight office.

The girl member of the band is Sarah Cascavale, 628 Norton street. According to the police, she carried a pistol and assisted her companions in searching their victims in a number of robberies. She is called the Wild Cat by members of the band.

The others held are Vincent Cardarone, 22 years old; Anthony Lordino, 30; Mike de Barto, 32, and George Trigona, 20. The last three have served sentences in the House of Correction for auto theft.

POLICE QUIZ TWO NEW WITNESSES IN PARK SLAYING

Gambler's Wife, Taxi Driver Seized.

Two new witnesses were seized yesterday by state's attorney's investigators seeking a solution to the mysterious Grant park murder of Herbert W. Lee, alias Burns, Evanston butcher. One was a woman, and both, according to Lieut. Thomas F. Kelly, possess information which may be of value to police.

The woman is Mrs. John Martin, wife of the alleged gambler who was arrested in St. Louis last Friday with Leonard Doxey, Chicago procurer, who is charged with the slaying. Mrs. Martin was found in a Chicago hotel by a squad of state's attorney's police and was taken to the state's attorney's office.

There she was asked if she knows any reason why her husband had left the Metropole hotel, 2300 South Michigan avenue, so hurriedly and driven to St. Louis with Doxey a week ago. Police were attempting to discover what, if any, connection Martin, who also is known as Dixon, has with the killing.

The woman refused to discuss the case with police, insisting that she knew nothing about her husband's activities or business associates. She was being held for further questioning.

The second witness is Joseph Burman, 34 years old, a taxicab driver who, according to Lieut. Kelly, introduced Lucille Buehler, party girl, to Lee several months ago. The two later became sweethearts and the Buehler girl, who is linked in the vice racket with Doxey, was with Lee when he was shot.

It is the theory of investigators that the motive for the murder was the friendship between the Buehler girl and Lee. They assert Doxey had been living off the girl's earnings in vice resorts and that he became angered when she announced her intention to leave the racket and marry Lee.

Burman, according to police, frequently saw Lee and the girl together and he was to be questioned about their relationship. Police say the Buehler girl frequently obtained sums of money from Lee, and Burman was to be asked questions about this phase of their friendship also.

During the day Miss Buehler was arraigned in the Felony court before Municipal Judge George B. Weiss on a charge of being an accessory in Lee's murder. The judge set her bail at $25,000 and continued the case until Sept. 14 after police said they wished more time to complete their investigation. Miss Buehlers' counsel, Harold Levy, demanded a small bond, but his objections were overruled.

The judge ordered her taken to the county jail, where she will be quartered.

ONE MAN PAROLE BOARD DEFENDS KIRKLAND ACTION

"Cruel Punishment" Is Not Policy, He Holds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Thurman A. Gottschalk, the virtual one man parole board of Indiana who approved the release of Virgil Kirkland, Gary rapist-slayer, from Pendleton reformatory last Friday, today declared that the state's penal code "is founded on the principle of reformation and not of vindictive justice."

The code, according to the constition, "also forbids cruel and unjust punishment," he added.

Kirkland served a little more than six years of a one to ten year sentence as the result of the death of his 18 year old sweetheart, Arlene Draves of Gary, and now is somewhere in Ohio preparing to study law. His parole was recommended by the reformatory trustees last June and was approved by Gottschalk.

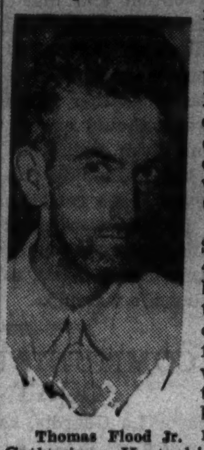
Gottschalk is administrator of the department of public welfare and also supervisor of state institutions. He is an appointee of Gov. M. Clifford Townsend and came to these posts after serving several terms in the state senate.

Gottschalk has final authority in parole cases by virtue of a delegation of power granted by the state welfare board last November. The board now has no control in parole matters.

One of the board members, W. A. Hacker, who also is assistant superintendent of the Indianapolis public schools, was asked today if he thought the board should, by resolution, regain control of the power to pass upon paroles. He replied in the negative.

PAROLEE IS HELD TO GRAND JURY IN HOLDUP OF STORE

Thomas Flood Jr., 37 years old, a twice paroled convict, and son of a former potato broker, was held to the grand jury by Judge George B. Weiss in Felony court yesterday on a robbery charge. His bond was fixed at $10,000.



Thomas Flood Jr.

Thomas Flood Sr., 72 years old, 4835 Jackson boulevard, his father, appeared in court and testified that his son was with him at the time the robbery was committed. Miss Catherine Kostecki, 4418 Thomas street, identified young Flood as the robber who held her up in a cleaning establishment at 6 South Karlov avenue Aug. 24.

Young Flood was sentenced to Joliet for one to 20 years Jan. 7, 1935, when he pleaded guilty to robbery. He was paroled March 6 of this year and was returned to prison six days later for violation of parole. He was paroled again May 22.

Joliet Woman Held to Jury on White Slavery Charges

Miss Betty Winston, 24 years old, of Joliet, was held to the federal grand jury in bonds of $1,000 yesterday after she waived examination before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of conspiring to violate the Mann act. She was arrested in connection with an investigation of the white slave trafic in Joliet. Two others, Joseph Barrett and James Mabry Albin, of Louisville, Ky., held on similar charges, are awaiting grand jury action.

MORE LIGHT, PLEASE.

Before acting on the taxicab companies' plea for a rate increase and an extension of their monopoly, the city council committee on local transportation ordered a report from its trafic engineer, Maj. R. F. Kelker. His report makes it doubtful whether he was acting as a fact finding expert on behalf of the public or a special pleader for the cab companies.

He did not organize whatever information he may have gathered in a written report, from which the aldermen and public might draw their own conclusions. Instead, he made a verbal report, itself more conclusion than fact.

Among Maj. Kelker's conclusions was that taxicab service is a luxury commodity. The truth of this is doubtful. Even if true, it would be no excuse for exorbitant rates. He also declared that Chicago's present rates are the lowest of eighteen large cities. This may be true, but if true it appears that Maj. Kelker picked his eighteen cities rather carefully.

Ald. James B. Bowler has found that rates in Washington, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Atlanta, Baltimore, and Detroit, among others, are lower than those in Chicago, without taking into account two charges on Chicago cab riders which are not usual elsewhere.

These are the charge for extra passengers and for waiting time. In Chicago, it has been charged, taximeters register waiting time whenever the cab is moving at less than 13 miles an hour. In effect, the passenger pays a double charge whenever he rides in loop traffic.

Maj. Kelker said he made a study of records of the Yellow and Checker cab companies. Whether he made an independent examination of their books or merely relied on such figures as their officials chose to furnish was not made clear.

It was apparent, however, that he did not go beyond the local companies, and was unable to enlighten the aldermen fully as to the portion of Chicago taxicab fares which is passed on, in management fees and equipment purchases, to the holding companies which control the local operating companies.

The securities and exchange commission, in preparing its charges of stock manipulation against E. L. Cord and Morris Markin, gathered much information on these inter-company transactions. Ald. James R. Quinn, chairman of the local transportation committee, promised to ask for these SEC records. To date the committee has not seen them. The aldermen should study them before they take any action, if only for their own protection.

It has been said before, and is worth repeating, that the earning reports of an operating company are valueless for rate fixing purposes unless they are tied in with the earnings of other companies in the holding company structure. Increased dividends from Yellow Cab operations in Chicago would mean less to the top holding company than increased profits by Checker Cab Manufacturing company on sales of equipment to Yellow Cab, for the top company gets a greater proportion of Checker Manufacturing than of Yellow Cab profits.

Regardless of the relative merits of monopoly operation as against open competition, the council should consider carefully whether it is able to get sufficient information to regulate the monopoly adequately before it grants any franchise extensions.

GETTING OUT OF CHINA.

The 6th regiment of marines has left San Diego, Cal., on a transport escorted by the cruiser Marblehead bound for Shanghai. Brig. Gen. John Beaumont, who will take command of all the United States marine forces on his arrival in China, said: "Our mission is to protect American lives and property."

Neither the 15th infantry nor the marine force in China can protect American life and property. They may make a show of defense and they may prevent non-combatant mobs from raiding the concentration point where Americans who have not yet gone are assembled, but neither the Chinese nor Japanese shells and bombs are making much discrimination.

We have the report now that the Dollar liner President Hoover has been bombed and a number of Americans injured. It would seem that the situation indicates quite clearly what American action should be. It should be to withdraw not only its civilians but its army and navy as rapidly as possible. Its only demand upon the Japanese and Chinese should be for the safe removal of all Americans. They are caught in the midst of a war and their safety in getting out should be guaranteed by both the warring governments.

That is a reasonable demand and should be made with the necessary firmness.

Then the American government should proceed to pull every soldier and warship away from the troubled zone, remove its diplomatic and consular officers, and leave the scene to the persons who are making it insufferable. We have no interests in China which are worth a war, and there is increasing danger that some atrocious incident may force the United States into the conflict.

The American people are in a peaceful mood, and they are sensible enough not to want a war in which they have nothing to win and much to lose, but this peaceful mood is not proof against the excitement which might be caused by some affront or injury so great that it would be almost impossible to overlook it.

It is possible that the Chinese would welcome intervention and may try to provoke it. The British have a much larger stake in China than the United States, but they also have better means of protecting it if they care to do so. Certainly neither Chinese interests nor British interests should expect marine transports to be sailing from California ports and from Hawaii and the Philippines to get other people out of trouble. If we get all our own away where they will be safe we cannot be rushed off our feet by some popular outcry arising after a massacre of American marines, soldiers or civilians, or the sinking of a warship.

COMMUNISTS ON THEIR COAT TAILS.

Mayor La Guardia, as candidate for reëlection in New York, says: "I am not concerned or interested in what the communist party does. I do not agree with their views or their tactics. They will get no aid or comfort from me."

The indorsement of Mr. La Guardia by the communist party in New York was announced last Thursday by Earl Browder, the party candidate for President last year.

When the mayor's words were relayed to Mr. Browder he said: "The mayor's statement seems to be quite sensible and the communists have not expected any other attitude from him. He is the candidate for a very broad, progressive front including the majority of the people of the city, and certainly could take no other position."

One point is quite plain and makes itself. The communists do not care whether Mr. La Guardia says he does not like them—it is enough for them that they like him. They can even congratulate him on his political common sense in disowning them. It is enough for them to give what support they can to the political tendency which they think ultimately will be to their advantage.

Among Mr. La Guardia's supporters is David Dubinsky, who controls one of the large garment making unions particularly strong politically in New York. Mr. Dubinsky also says that he does not agree with communist doctrin, but as one of the organizers of John Lewis' C. I. O. he welcomes any communists in the organization if they are workers and their support will not be rejected or denounced.

Here again it would be perfectly acceptable to the communists if Mr. Dubinsky said he did not want their support so long as he permitted them to give it to him. Mr. Dubinsky is another gentleman whose political ideas the communists like. They don't care whether he agrees with them or not so long as he permits them to attach themselves to his organization.

Mr. La Guardia is not required to say that he wants such support. The communists can vote for him and they have announced that they will do so. The mayor's supporter, Mr. Dubinsky, must give his consent to the communist alliance because he can fire them out of the positions they hold in his organization.

When Mr. Roosevelt told the Democratic state convention last year that he never had had anything to do with the communists and did not intend to, that did not deter them. They joined the popular front in his support, along with Lewis, Dubinsky and others, including the radical Minnesota candidates for governor and senator in whose behalf Mr. Roosevelt personally withdrew the Democratic nominees in that state.

The tieup and its meaning is fully outlined in spite of the protestations of gentlemen who will accept all the aid given them. They are bringing the communists in on their coat tails when the radical, social, and communist support puts them in office.

So long as the communist party of America is on the coat tails it cares nothing about the public announcements of the gentlemen who are giving them a ride. This ride is different from the gangster species. The passenger knows he will come to no harm. He will know how to make use of the transportation given him. Nearly every one must be familiar with the first principle of communist operation. It requires that the party attach itself to political elements most likely to create social and political conditions which will enable a minority to seize power.

A disorganized country is the one in which either Fascism or communism can hope for success. When people are in fear and distress, when their lives have been disrupted by rash reformists and their living conditions have been made unendurable, they are easy prey for strong willed men whether they are of the type of Lenin or of Mussolini or Hitler. By boring in the revolutionaries not only obtain places of position and power, but they can succeed in creating the upsets which open the opportunities for them to seize control.

HA! WRONG HOUSE.

[Evening Bulletin.]

News item: When Mrs. Emma Otis pointed out to a contractor in Fairmont, Ill., that he had demolished the wrong house he looked across the road at the dilapidated building originally contracted for and said weakly. "Yep, looks like I tore down the wrong house all right."

What we like is the way the contractor took the news. No fuss. No useless worrying. No headache. Just a calm acceptance of a situation that couldn't be remedied. Better luck on the next house.

Besides, isn't this right in line with modern thought? Isn't the contractor's little mistake going to result eventually in more work for some honest carpenters and painters? The more houses torn down, the more to build up. The truth of that reasoning is as clear as the reasoning that the more pigs killed the better for the people who have pigs to sell or the people who like pork, and the more cotton not raised the better for the people who need cotton.

We never fully grasped the profundities of the new economics—spending to be thrifty and destroying in order to be better off. But that reasoning has certainly laid hold of our deep thinkers, who take their mistakes even more calmly than the contractor took his.

The big difference between them and him is that the deep thinkers rationalize their mistakes beforehand and he's got to rationalize his afterwards. But it comes to the same thing in the end. Ten—twenty people are going to benefit in rebuilding this house in Fairmont, and only one, Mrs. Emma Otis, loses. Greatest good of the greatest number. What?

'TIS THE LONG pondered opinion of G. W. R. that women have at least one advantage over men as automobile drivers. When they are called to the curb by the courteous policemen, sezze, current styles permit them to talk through their hats and get away with it.

WE NEVER caught one at it, but experts of no great pretensions tell us that the steady melodious rhythm you hear in the rural and even suburban areas these nights is made by crickets sawing their hind legs together. HARVEST AFTER SEVENTY.

A harvest waiting which surprised them all.
Beside my barn the straw is in a mound
That seems erected to the gods of fall
Like some huge monument; my bins are filled,
Bulging like gourmands which have sat at board,
And I will have a wealth when it is milled
Of richer meal than neighbor fields afford.

But one thing troubles me; these days I find
A deeper weariness possessing me.
I feel a weight of something on my mind
That keeps me shackled; never fully free
Of inner worry; will I sow again?
Three score and ten; will I thresh next year's grain?
Jay G. Sigmund.

COPIES OF THE DEMOCRATIC national convention book, say the news dispatches, are now to be had in Washington stores at a dime. A. A. B. holds that those who paid $250 a copy may get even in a measure by selling theirs, reporting the big payoff as an investment and taking credit on their income tax. We'd recommend that those who try this buy some of those newfangled pills that will prevent drowning.

NOTES OF A VAGRANCY.

In an inn at Berea, Ky., seat of a college in which the co-eds all wear cotton stockings and really devote themselves to getting education, is a portrait of Daniel Boone. It shows him as an elderly man. He has a lean, sinewy look and a sharp, keen face, and it is easy to realize that such a person could accomplish the feats of warfare and endurance recorded of him. But when a patriotic society set up a statue of the same hero on the Kentucky river the sculptor designed a Boone who would seem to be 4 feet 5 inches tall and fat as an undieted piggy. An Indian could have made mincemeat of such a one. Boone, incidentally, never wore the coonskin cap supposedly characteristic of the pioneer days. He preferred a felt hat because, he said, it had a brim that kept the rain out of his eyes.

Grandpap Shay was called to the witness stand when he was well along toward the end of his seventy-ninth year. He was greatly weakened physically, and his voice was perpetually cracked, but his mentality was as strong as ever. The attorney who examined him said: "How old are you, Mr. Shay?" And in his treble voice he said: "Seventy-nine years—almost eighty." His questioner then said: "Well, my! my! You've lived a long time, haven't you?" Grandpap looked at him, grinned and cackled: "Yep, ever since I was born!" Bildik.

CONTROL PEPTIC ULCER.

THE peptic ulcer is a ubiquitous, vengeful rascal always lurking, watching for victims. When he sights a worrier or one of the intense, keyed-up type, out comes his auger and he starts boring. It makes very little difference where he begins, just so he can lay bare a spot of mucous membrane somewhere in the stomach or duodenum.

At first these lesions are small unless—as may happen occasionally—the gastric lining becomes eroded following some acute infection such as influenza. Furthermore, their progress is slow. This is perhaps fortunate, as it permits the person to delay somewhat in seeking treatment and still remain in a fairly safe position. Many are driven to visit a physician only when pain becomes unbearable.

Most individuals describe their sensations as a gnawing sort of distress which develops from one to three hours after a meal and which varies from a slight burning to agonizing discomfort. In a few instances if the irregularity is within the gastric pouch the mechanical irritation will be sufficient to bring on the symptoms shortly after a meal. With many, however, the mere taking of food brings relief.

Liquid material proves less annoying than solid. As we would expect, vomiting which empties the stomach abates the pain as a rule. About a third of the patients will complain of symptoms that come on at night, waking them after two or three hours of sleep. A tender region may be discernible just below the breastbone, the pain being to the right or the left of the midline, depending somewhat upon the site of the ulcer. If it is on the right, we are justified in assuming trouble in the duodenum, and many such cases are helped by adjusting the posture so as to lessen the tension on the abdominal wall in the region of the gall bladder. When the difficulty is in the vicinity of the outlet of the stomach the irritation is generally the most intense.

Every now and then a slight hemorrhage from the stomach may be the first intimation that something is wrong. But frequently several drops of blood may be lost without recognition of the true condition until the discharges from the bowel are examined, disclosing traces of blood. A severe hemorrhage is indicated by a black, tarry looking stool, the patient exhibiting a corresponding pallor.

Cases of fatal hemorrhaging are rare, and many experienced physicians have never encountered one. We should recall, however, that every ulcer is prone to bleed at some time or other, and if a fairly large blood vessel has been eaten into by the advancing disease the ensuing loss of blood may approach the danger line.

In arriving at the true state of affairs X-ray plates, together with test meals, will give us sufficient information, since these data, plus the history of the patient, are diagnostic. But a number of other conditions must be considered and weighed, for example, true gastritis [inflammation of the stomach without ulcers], gall bladder disease, and chronic appendicitis. Sometimes a high degree of nervousness or the excessive use of tobacco will give rise to complaints which closely simulate those of ulcer.

Let us assume that a diseased area has been discovered and that we are about to attack it medically. The first essential is rest in bed for at least two or three weeks—better three to five. Then comes diet, milk being the best and the least irritating food, usually given in limited quantities enriched with cream. Meanwhile a search is made for some focus of infection; teeth, sinuses, tonsils, prostate, etc., all are investigated and judgment pronounced.

Most of these patients will do well on a medical regimen and in general they may be assured that there is only a remote prospect that surgery will be required. If an active hemorrhage has occurred, absolute rest in bed must be enforced. No food whatsoever is given by mouth for at least twenty-four hours, and the possibility of a transfusion should be kept in mind. Profuse bleeding often ceases within a few hours, particularly if all food is withheld. Thereafter when symptoms have disappeared entirely, a small amount of nutriment may be administered cautiously.

On the fractional feeding plan most of these sufferers are comfortable within two or three days. Occasionally alkalis will be required to relieve pain, but here again care must be exercised not to give them in large doses. Calcium carbonate has many advantages over baking soda [sodium bicarbonate] or the magnesium salts which are often prescribed.

The histidine treatment, at one time so widely extolled, has apparently not borne out the promises made for it. In fact, it is not advised as one of the accepted plans. Granular gastric mucin has been reported to be of considerable value and is now prepared in such form that it can be taken without the distaste which attended its earlier use.

BAKING SODA.

M. S. writes: My husband suffers from colds. Some one advised him to take baking soda. Is baking soda harmful if taken four or five times a day?

REPLY.

There is a common belief—though not proved—that the taking of alkalis—such as baking soda or orange juice—helps to relieve infections such as colds. The blood is normally alkaline, but the degree may vary slightly under different conditions of health and it is assumed that the more nearly constant the alkalinity the more nearly normal the body processes. The taking of soda may become harmful when it neutralizes or alkalinizes the stomach contents which should contain a certain amount of acid to make digestion possible. Under ordinary circumstances two or three teaspoonfuls a day—for a day or two—should do no harm.

BUTTERMILK.

B. V. writes: I am 27 years old and I have been used to taking something for constipation. I am breaking myself of this habit by using a balanced diet and eating and drinking things which help to regulate. I have found buttermilk beneficial and would like to know if it has the same food value as regular milk. I drink two glasses a day.

REPLY.

Churned buttermilk contains all the constituents of milk except the fat. We have an anti-constipation diet we will be glad to send you. Please inclosed stamped, addressed envelope with request.

EIGHT HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How does the new eight hour law affect women civil service employés who work for the city? Will they be allowed to work overtime as long as they are paid for it? M. A.

The new eight hour law, based on the old ten hour law, reads as follows [new wording in black type]:

"No female shall be employed in any mechanical or mercantile establishment, or factory, or laundry, or hotel, or restaurant, or barber shop, or beauty parlor, or telegraph, or telephone establishment, or office thereof, or in any place of amusement, or by any person, firm, or corporation engaged in any express or transportation or public utility business, or by any common carrier, or in any public or private institution, or office thereof, incorporated or unincorporated, in this state more than eight hours during any one day."

If it difficult to assign any satisfactory meaning to the word "private" inserted before "institution." Since Webster's defines institution as "an establishment especially of a public character," what the legislature in substance says is "a private establishment of a public character." If the phrase "public or private institution" is intended to cover all nonindividual business, then no reason appears for reënacting the detailed preceding list. If it does not have this broad meaning, then just where is the line to be drawn? Is a law partnership of two members employing one stenographer a "private institution"? About all we can say is that the word "private" in this context may mean everything or nothing, depending on its administrative or judicial interpretation.

As to the other wording of the act, violations should be reported to the state department of labor, 205 West Wacker drive.

1. The question whether this would be taxable as part of his estate depends on whether it is payable to his estate or to the beneficiaries.

AN AMERICAN IN THE LOYALIST ARMY.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—This is from an American who was in the Spanish people's army, fighting in the Guadarrama front since last October. I, too, was one of the first Americans to join the Spanish war—before even the international brigade was organized—and became a lieutenant in the "army in overalls" during the crucial weeks that saw bloody Fascism creep like a specter up the valley of the Tagus past Toledo and even to the gates of Madrid, where "No Pasaran" halted them.

I was wounded at Brihuega—where Spain, the real Spain, defiantly hurled back the Duce's Roman legions—and got leave to return home. I am now leaving for Valencia a second time. This is my reply to Walter W. Schaible.

From my comrades in arms, those noble Spaniards who fought with antiquated weapons and superb courage the mechanized forces of Franco's Fascists, I learned the awful story of the Iberian peasant, taxed and exploited by monarch and nobility, serfs with the names of freemen, squeezed dry by an all-powerful Catholic hierarchy. They stand to a man for the first government ever to offer division of the land and abolition of church taxes.

The Italian, Moorish and German invasion, headed by "Spain's Benedict Arnold" Franco, has fully demonstrated the solidity of the masses behind the Front Populaire of Madrid. To them this is a campaign against Fascism and its program of exploitation. Though it may be a fact that most of our officers on Mr. Schaible's [Toledo] front are communists, this is not true of the Guadarrama, Madrid, or Cordoba fronts, where I have been at various times.

At Guadarrama the Fascist general staf had to withdraw their conscripted Spaniards because of heavy desertion. They replaced them with Italians, but after the battle of Brihuega even they lost heart and faith and great numbers came over to us. My conclusion [unlike that of Mr. Schaible] is that the Fascist internationale intends to make Spain [and Portugal] a satellite to Italy and a jumping off point for the Roman navy and air forces against France and Gibraltar.

Pertaining to air atrocities, our aviators cannot hold a candle to the rebels. I enumerate Guernica, Barcelona, Valencia, Almeria and Madrid where no military objective, except in the case of the latter, could possibly be served.

Mr. Schaible's sorrow over the "murder of Spain's most noble people"—I think he refers to the degenerate nobility who debauch on their serfs' money—is a bit hypocritical. What of Badajos as described by THE TRIBUNE'S Jay Allen?

Franco is a renegade bandit like Mussolini and Hitler, out only for personal glory and revenge on a government that removed him from Madrid to the Riff country. In other words, a sorehead. For every Spanish follower he counts the Front Populaire can number a score. As for the people hailing him as "El Caudillo" and "Savior"—so would I if I were to be shot for refusing.

A LOYALIST LIEUTENANT.

AN OLDER WORKER WHO CAUGHT ON.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 25.—The experiences of "Older Worker" as related in THE TRIBUNE are the rule and not the exception, and have been since business showed signs of reviving after the depression.

This writer is one of the many millions that tried several different kinds of commission propositions and in each instance lost his shirt.

Finally, two years ago, after passing 60, he was taken on by a local manufacturing concern to help out during the illness of a member of the organization. Employment was promised for only a period of two months, but before the expiration of the first half day the assurance was given that a place would be made for the writer and that his worries were over for as long as he kept his health and was able to work.

His worth to the company has been recognized voluntarily in a substantial manner on two different occasions, besides the usual Christmas remembrances.

I cannot help but feel that the business world is overlooking good bets when they turn down men because they have passed 40. They expect "past 40" to buy their products, but what with if the employment field is closed to them?

ANOTHER OLDER WORKER.

U. M. W. MEMBERSHIP.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 25.—I have before me THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Aug. 25 in which you state that "The C. I. O., in claiming 3,200,000 members, credits the United Mine Workers with a membership of 600,000. The official report of the Mine Workers' union, however, would indicate a membership of 460,000 at the most." I inclose the editorial page from the United Mine Workers' Journal of Aug. 15, 1937, which shows the "circulation this issue of the Journal 382,214." Since every member of the United Mine Workers receives the Journal by virtue of his membership, the number of active dues paying members cannot exceed this figure.

LIQUID MELODIES.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—The present wild enthusiasm over music in our midst may justify the publication of a personal experience.

When I went to high school in Bayreuth, and in later years, Anton Seidl, Richard Wagner's right hand man, was my music teacher.

"Do you know what your playing sounds like?" he asked in one of his caustic moods.

"Like what?"

"Like pouring cold soup down a man's back."

I took the hint and made it sound more like warm soup. DOC KUH.

QUESTION.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 25.—The people of Chicago may well thank Walter W. Schaible of Purdue for his first hand impressions of the issues in the Spanish war.

A pertinent question might be: Is a choice between the "blessings" of Franco Fascism and the "curses" of communism worth the blood of a couple of million men, women and children?

CITY-WIDE TESTS FOR SYPHILIS TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Date Moved Up as Result of Ballot Enthusiasm.

The date for the beginning of free secret blood tests in the city's campaign to stamp out syphilis has been moved up from Oct. 1 to tomorrow, Sept. 1, as the result of the unexpectedly large response of the public to questionnaire ballots.

This was announced last night by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, following a meeting with leaders in the campaign to obtain the city's attitude toward the tests. Secret questionnaires have been sent out for the last month asking recipients whether they would voluntarily submit to tests for venereal disease.

100,000 Ballots Returned.

Out of 1,000,000 ballots circulated, 100,000 have been returned, 95,000 of them favorable to the campaign. The number of tests at municipal and state laboratories in Chicago has also increased from 400 to 1,400 daily in one month.

"We now have enough votes to realize that people want to take syphilis tests," said Dr. Bundesen. "The next thing is to equip ourselves to give people what they want."

The meeting last night was held in the Drake hotel apartment of Dr. Paul de Kruif, author on medical subjects, who is serving as adviser to Mayor Kelly's committee of 400 for control of venereal disease. Others present were Dr. Louis Schmidt, secretary of the board of health and of the mayor's committee; Dr. O. C. Wenger of the United States public health service and director of the federal venereal disease clinic at Hot Springs, Ark., and Howard O. Hunter, assistant regional administrator of the WPA, which is helping the city finance the referendum and expansion of laboratories.

Expand Clinical Facilities.

To take care of the mass tests the state laboratory now at the Illinois Research hospital will be moved to a building at 1800 West Fillmore street, the municipal clinic on the top floor of the city hall will be expanded, and a third laboratory will be set up in the old South Division High school building at Wabash avenue and 26th street, according to plans.

Laboratories of colleges and universities in the city will also be enlisted.

The tests will be given without charge to any who cannot afford them. They may be obtained from city and state clinics or from the 5,000 physicians of the Chicago Medical society, who have agreed to coöperate.

EPISCOPAL FOES OF LIBERALIZED MARRIAGE SCORED

The storm within the Episcopal church started by the official proposal to permit marriage within the church of persons divorced for any cause raged more fiercely yesterday when one author of the proposal, Dr. Frederick C. Grant of Evanston, called his conservative critics far behind Christian thought in their attitude. He pointed to the example of the Eastern church, the Roman Catholics, and Protestantism generally in support of his argument.

When the liberalized attitude on marriage of divorced persons was first advanced last July by Bishop Herman Page of Detroit, chairman of the church's commisison on marriage of which Dr. Grant is a member, the Anglo-Catholic and other conservative wings rallied in opposition to the measure. It will come before the church's triennial convention in October at Cincinnati.

JAM TAX OFFICE AS DEADLINE ON PAYMENT NEARS

With the deadline for payment of the first instalment of 1936 real estate taxes at midnight tonight, the office of County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer was crowded yesterday by last minute taxpayers. The deadline is the same for the full personalty bill. Total collections yesterday were $2,670,928.

Starting tomorrow the county treasurer will assess a penalty of 1 per cent a month on all delinquent payments. But the first month bears a 2 per cent penalty. This is because the legal deadline was Aug. 1, which was extended one month since the tax bills were mailed late. All payments in by mail before midnight tonight will be penalty exempt.

Injured in 5 Story Plunge from Window of Hotel

Charles Tuchens, 43 years old, was critically injured last night when he plunged from the window of a fifth story room he had rented at the Southmoor hotel, 6646 Stony Island avenue. His fall was broken by electric wires. Tuchens lives at 813 East 63d street. He was taken to the Illinois Central hospital, where he has been employed as a porter. Friends said he had been ill.

ELEANOR BAILEY.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Eleanor Bailey, screen chorus girl, today indicated she would seek a divorce from Eddie Foy, dance director. She blamed a clash of "perfect temperaments" for the rift. "We were so polite and considerate and sympathetic," she said, "that we got on each other's nerves.

GIRL, 17, RAPED BY PROWLER IN YARD OF HOME

Jefferson Park police last night began a search for a red haired man who is reported to have seized and raped a girl 17 years old at her home on the far northwest side. The victim of the assault was injured seriously and was taken to the home of a physician in the neighborhood.

The girl told police she had walked to her back yard shortly after nightfall and noticed a man sitting in the family car parked there. When she approached he jumped out and threw her to the ground. After the rapist fled the girl's screams brought her parents. Strands of red hair were found in her clenched hands.

James Dick, 25 years old, 1323 School street, a paroled convict, arrested last week in Milwaukee with Anna Laverne Resse, 15 years old, 3142 Southport avenue, a schoolgirl, was returned yesterday to face a charge of rape.

Dick was sent to Pontiac for one to twenty years for robbery Feb. 8, 1929, and paroled Nov. 23, 1931. He was returned Aug. 8, 1933, when he was arrested for larceny. He was again paroled Aug. 9, 1934, and was again returned when arrested for annoying a 16 year old girl. He received his third parole last June 25.

There was one fellow who started to listen to the radio at the central police station who didn't care who won the Louis-Farr fight last night. He was Jimmy, about 5 years old. He went to sleep in the second round. Jimmy, who could not give his last name or address, was taken off a street car at 18th street and Wabash avenue. He wore only a green bathing suit and tennis slippers. No one claimed him and police sent him to the Juvenile detention home.

BANK ORDERED TO PAY $320,190 TO BUSBY ESTATE

First National Agrees to Court Finding.

Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday set $320,190 as the amount owed Mrs. Esther A. Busby by the First Nation Bank of Chicago for depression losses incurred while the bank acted as trustee of the estate of her husband, the late Leonard A. Busby, traction magnate.

Deductions for expense of administration and the sale of additional securities in a smaller trust brought the net sum due Mrs. Busby to $285,296. Attorneys for the bank made no objection to the decree and announced the money will be turned over to a successor trustee.

Computed on Stock Values.

The liability of the bank, according to Edward R. Johnston, attorney for Mrs. Busby, was computed on the value of the estate's securities from Sept. 26, 1930, to March 31, 1931. It was during this period, according to an opinion of the Illinois Appellate court last February, that the bank should have liquidated the estate.

Although the estate became insolvent early in 1932, it has since increased in value. Under the decree the bank is permitted to retain the unsold securities, many of which will nearly approach their former value. As a result, according to Homer J. Livingston, its counsel, the bank's loss will be about $40,000.

Holds Bank Liable.

In its opinion the Appellate court reversed the Cook county Probate and Circuit courts, holding that the bank was fully liable for all losses sustained during the market collapse. It also criticized the bank's late president, Melvin A. Traylor, for his administration of the estate.

The higher court ordered a further hearing to determine the exact amount of the bank's liability. Yesterday Judge Feinberg found that the principal owed by the bank was $255,518, and the interest, $64,672.

Expenses of administration amounted to $49,894, which were deducted. To the remaining sum, $270,296, Attorney Johnston said the bank has added $15,000, resulting from the sale of other securities in a smaller Busby trust.

New Trustee to Be Named.

On Sept. 3 Judge Feinberg will also pass on the bill of Attorney Johnston and his associates, representing the Busby interests. A successor trustee is also expected to be appointed within a few weeks.

Mr. Busby died Sept. 9, 1930, leaving his estate in trust for his widow and their two children. Mrs. Busby lives with a son in New York. A daughter, Mrs. Janet Walsh, lives in Philadelphia.

6,000 TAXICAB DRIVERS THROWN OUT BY C. I. O. PACT

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Between 6,000 and 8,000 taxicab drivers in the city were denied the right to work today because they refused to join the Transport Workers' union of the C. I. O.

The drivers are employed by the Sunshine-Radio, the Liberty and Atlas systems. A month ago about 3,000 of the employés voted in a collective bargaining election which was won by the C. I. O. The defeated union was the New York Hackmens and Taxi Driver association. The companies, on the strength of the election result, signed closed shop agreements with the Transport Workers' union.

Only 15 Per Cent Sign.

The union promised to have all the employés unionized by this morning, the deadline when the closed shop provision of the contract was to go into effect. This morning, according to officials of the Sunshine-Radio system, only 15 per cent of the men could show union cards. The company's attorneys ruled that the written contract with the union could not be broken and all nonunion drivers were locked out.

Thirty-five hundred of the 4,200 cabs operated by the three systems remained in garages. Many cabs taken out by union drivers were forced by the locked out drivers to return to garages.

Picket Forty-two Garages.

The nonunion drivers, forced by the provisions of the closed shop contract to remain idle, picketed the forty-two garages of the companies affected and shouted on the streets.

Fearing clashes between union and nonunion men, the police department assigned patrolmen to all of the garages affected.

More than 100 men, obviously ill-tempered, gathered at a garage where Atlas cabs are kept. Several said that not one of the 110 cabs in the garage had been moved. A short distance down the street a little group of union drivers gathered. They made no attempt to enter the garage to take the cabs out. They refused to talk to newspaper men.

HUNT INVENTOR OF MONEY MILL; TWO WIN DELAY

Judge George B. Weiss in Felony court yesterday continued until Sept. 8 confidence game charges against two men alleged to have swindled Izzie Nabedrick, 34 years old, Muscatine, Ia., out of $2,000 with a money making machine. The continuance was granted to give the police time to find a third man, supposed to be the inventor of the machine in which the $2,000 is said to have disappeared. The two held are Louis Sigal, 69, of 4047 Kenmore avenue, and Louis Cohen, 31, of 2617 Jackson boulevard.

The full power of official Washington is constantly in use to suborn and coerce Washington correspondents.

The first purpose of a burocracy being to perpetuate itself, the aim is to veil the increasing seizure of tyrannical power.

To do so the people must be kept in ignorance or suitably misinformed. As the first step the newspaper, the informant of the public, must be dominated.

Officials squander public funds to issue propaganda designed to distort facts. The seductions of official society are employed. And, these devices failing, bold attempts are made to intimidate and punish those who resist the yoke.

The Chicago Tribune's correspondents will not be suborned or coerced. It is their job to get the facts and to report them in true perspective.

They are not taken into camp by the tremendous output of bulletins, reports and official pronouncements. Undeterred by social blandishments or threats of reprisal, they cover official and unofficial sources of news, watching attentively the course of events and assembling through careful research the full facts.

When you read the news of Washington in the Chicago Tribune you get the truth, dispatched by competent observers and writers. You get concise, informative, unbiased reports.

The business of the newspaper being to print the news, the Chicago Tribune will print it—undominated.

A RECENT Evanston newspaper account of a wedding mentioned that the blue gowns of the bridesmaids were complemented by the old-fashioned nosebags of blue and white flowers. Now comes the Evanston Review with another surprising wedding description note:

Careless—
Want Ad—
Names—
He Man—
Botanical.

Perhaps she drank the wedding toast before the ceremony.

FROM THE TRIBUNE want ad columns:

"Young Man—18; from good family, to learn work for hamburger stand. See Mr. Otto Gruner, 2030 West Division street."

Perhaps Mr. Gruner also sells those "Aristocrat Weinies" that are advertised on Peterson road.

ALTHOUGH the department of names is closed, it is perhaps of sufficient interest to slip under the door the fact that there are eleven children in a Lakeside, Mich., family, all of whom have names beginning with V—Viola, Vera, Victor, Vinenna, Verilla, Vincent, Victoria, Vernetta, Virgil, Vernice and Ve Laura. . . . Wonder why they didn't think of Velma, or Violet, or Vesta, or Valeria. But, of course, Vinenna and Ve Laura are more original.

THERE are individualists in Decatur, too. One of its citizens bulletins that a hale and hearty male enters a Decatur restaurant every day and orders for his lunch a large glass of whipped cream. He eats it with a spoon, with obvious relish, then departs.

A FLORIST shop in the vicinity of the Chicago club has an arrangement of the savage blooms called, botanically, tritomas—red hot pokers—and cattails, into which is put at intervals a piece of dry ice, thus creating a better inferno than Dante's.

SPEAKING of flowers, in a description last May of a ramble in the woods mention was made of a little blue flower, hitherto unknown to the writer, that was called by our companions "ladies-and-gentlemen." A Kewanee reader, Mrs. A. W. Erret, wrote the other day to say she found the flower in only one spot near Kewanee, although other wild flowers are more generally scattered, and sent a sample of it to the botany department of Rochester university with an inquiry about it. She learned that the common name is Blue-eyed Mary, the botanical name Collinsia verna nut, and that it is considered rare. Only one specimen has been found in the state of New York.

Good Morning!

Here's another of those surprise programmers. You think it's going to be a bore and it turns out to be quite a bird. [Which is a pun after a fashion, for "Reported Missing" sings of aviation.]

It spins an air yarn with a different twist and right good mystery coloring. It has lots of suspense, some splendid acting, capable direction, and exciting air sequences.

I'm afraid to tell you anything about the story for fear of giving you a clew you really shouldn't have if you are to enjoy the picture. So, with the best intentions in the world, I sign off right here—that is, practically right here. Must make a double decker criticism first:

Joseph Sawyer—so swell in hard boiled rôles—is sadly miscast as a facetious newspaper reporter. And the film would have been a heap better off without its overdose of low comedy, which in no instance is characterized by wit.

Otherwise—thumbs up.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

For combine mixing, light stuff for between-seasons recreation, we recommend the separate skirt and dress parade top get-togethers. The newest slinky dull crêpe, thin wool, or velvet skirts, topped with boleros, short jackets and the like, make decorative cocktail or "don't dress for dinner" outfits of great distinction. With an ankle length skirt of simple streamline and one of the newest sequined jackets, you really have something.

Glitering black affairs, belted neatly at the waistline with a smooth fitting peplum, come also in a coppery gold and a suit-of-mail silver tone. One model has the sequins sewed on in a hit or miss pattern, the other uses the tiny discs of sequins in vertical rows. Elbow sleeves and three-quarter sleeves are the most popular; high round collars fasten snugly in front. These can be worn with thin wool sheath slips, with thinner dull silk crêpe, or with skimpy, straight sheaths of soft velvet in colors or slenderizing black.

These sequined flashing jackets are not priced for limited budgets, but they're well worth the money for you can contrive and mix them for top contrast for your entire early fall and winter wardrobes and such gleaming, glittering glory is scheduled for all manner of high fashion excitement this coming season.

For less money may be bought the swaggering fringed sashes and bolero jackets festooned with fringe to match. The material a grand dull crêpe, the bolero jacket is square shouldered, fits smartly like a mess jacket, buttons high at the neck and the sleeves, three-quarter length, are nothing but rows of silk fringe. A spectacular outfit can be managed with the long wind-around sash, also of the crêpe and ending with long fringe at both ends. White, black and colors are obtainable for a sum around $10.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Comedian Ben Blue has a stand-in officially recorded on the Paramount pay roll; but the stand-in never seems to be around to take the comedian's position when film distances from the camera are being measured.

When Blue stepped into the camera range Saturday for the tedious, nervous process of letting the lights and camera be focused on his face, Director George Archainbaud exasperatedly asked him where his stand-in was. Blue helplessly waved a hand off-set, but when an assistant went to fetch the stand-in, Bert Lawrence, the comedian, stepped in, saying, "But you can't ask Bert to do this."

It developed Lawrence is really Blue's gag man, who prepares him for the "timing" of his lines before each scene. The only way Blue could figure to get him on the studio pay roll was to request that he be signed as a stand-in.

Rodolfo Gaona, famous as a Spanish bullfighter, is house guest of Gilbert Roland, whose father, Francisco Alonso, was a professional bullfighter in Mexico. Gilbert Roland's real name is Luis Alonso.

The lot on which Lew Ayres is erecting his new home in the Hollywood hills is the highest building lot in the entire section. It's on the very top of Lookout mountain. Ayres has in his plans a dome shaped roof, and will equip it with a telescope.

Harold Lloyd will begin another comedy in three weeks. It will be titled "Professor, Beware" and will be directed by Elliott Nugent.

Evelyn Brent's sound film comeback is flourishing to the satisfaction of most of Hollywood. The raven-haired siren of silent stardom is playing second lead, opposite John Barrymore, in Paramount's "City Hall Scandal."

Three film companies on location in the Malibu hills found they were using the same high voltage line for their lights and that the line couldn't provide enough juice for all three. The companies are "Marco Polo," from United Artists; "Tom Sawyer," from the Selznick studio, and Paramount's "Summer Romance" troupe.

Archie Mayo, directing the "Marco Polo" film, hit upon a plan to help all the companies when the others objected that his 300 arc and sun lamps made it impossible for the others to shoot. Mayo engaged buglers, and had them sound bugle calls to warn the other companies around the knoll when he was starting and stopping action, and the other companies brought in trumpeters of their own.

A threatened strike held up production on C. B. De Mille's "The Buccaneer" picture on Catalina Island a couple of days ago when a group of extras staged a sitdown strike until they should be given better living quarters. The studio business manager settled the walkout when it was found the manager of a tent city had given the men accommodations other than the tents the film company had contracted for. Cannonading that covered two days made the film troupe's visit to the island exciting to the resort's 15,000 hot weather sojourners. Big guns had been installed on five sailing vessels that represented the American navy in 1812 in its attack on the French privateers of Barataria Bay, La.

Walt Disney will have the cartoon feature which he esteems as the masterpiece of his entire career ready for the public around Christmas holidays. It is a full length, all-color feature, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Ted Healy devised a metal boutonnière for the lapel which will give a sniffer a mild shock, and it proved so popular in this center of tomfoolery that Healy applied for a patent and expects to sell many of the novelties.

You'd never guess how Bob Montgomery cured Rosalind Russell of idly flicking at pieces of lint on somebody's clothes. He had a "breakaway" suit made with an enticing loose end curling off his shoulder. Miss Russell's instinct for neatness led her to pull the thread, and to her embarrassment the lapel and sleeve of Montgomery's coat fell off.

List Soloists for New Season of Orchestra

The forty-seventh season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which begins on Oct. 14 and consists of eighty-eight concerts, will bring to the stage of Orchestra hall twenty-one guest soloists. Two members of the orchestra are also scheduled to appear as featured artists, thus bringing the total number of soloists to twenty-three.

Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra since 1905 when he succeeded the founder and first conductor, Theodore Thomas, will return to his duties at the opening concert. He secured a leave of absence last March on account of illness and since then has directed but two programs, one at Ravinia and one in Grant park. Hans Lange continues in his position of associate conductor.

The piano soloists scheduled for appearances during the forty-seventh season are Walter Gieseking, Josef Hofmann, Beveridge Webster, Rudolph Serkin, Guiomar Novaes, Eugene List, Robert Casedesus, Alexander Brailowsky, Amparo Iturbi, and Arthur Rubenstein.

Two cellists, Gregor Piatigorsky and Raya Garbousova, and Joseph Vito, harpist, complete the list of instrumentalists.

There will be twenty-eight Thursday night concerts, the same number on Friday afternoons, twelve on Tuesday afternoons, fourteen Saturday night popular concerts, and six young people's programs on Wednesday afternoons. The orchestra is to present a series of ten programs in Milwaukee.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Next time you have or give yourself a manicure try bringing the polish right up to the nail tip. It's a streamlining trick that makes the nails look trimmer and the fingers longer.

We see more and more women adopting our favorite method of using liquid nail polish, which is to bring the lacker right up to the very tip of the nail. It makes the nails look neater and the fingers longer. Once you get used to it you'll love it.

You can follow this method with any dark liquid polish or, if it's a light one, completely opaque. It does away with the use of nail white and is a tremendous boon to the woman whose nails never look completely clean. This is a minor tragedy known to the most fastidious women. If you bang a typewriter a lot or do any sort of work that makes the hands grubby you're bound to have gray nail tips. Bringing your polish right up to the tip camouflages your trouble.

One woman we know described the completely lackered nail as "clean" looking. It is. The whitened tip breaks the line of any nail. Unless it's a long, handsome nail naturally this broken line is bound to make the nail look short and square. The completely polished surface gives it length. It's a solution for the woman whose nails are not naturally endowed with the length which is so important to beautiful hands.

Next time you have or give yourself a manicure have this streamlined application of polish. Leave space at the nail base for the half moon but don't wipe polish off at the tip, as usual. Bring it right up smoothly—and see how good it looks.

"Find This Girl"

BY ROY VICKERS

[Copyright: 1937: By Roy Vickers.]

SYNOPSIS.

Bessie Mersand, a nurse, is acquitted of the charge of administering a fatal dose of medinal to an elderly patient. Gwynneth Bentley and her lover, Roy Gleason, attended the trial. Later Gwynneth meets Bessie, who has changed her name to Mathews, and, waiving references, gives her a job caring for Gwynneth's invalid husband. She plans to kill her husband and plant the guilt on Bessie. Medinal tablets for Gwynneth's sleeplessness are placed in Bessie's charge. Gwynneth hides a valuable jeweled dagger, then puts the ground tablets in her husband's food. She then gives Bessie the day off, and sends away Bessie's luggage to make it appear that Bessie has fled. In London Bessie meets her friend, Jim Watkin, who has heard of the crime over the ticker at his club. He hides Bessie in his apartment while he tries to gain proof of her innocence. To his friend Inspector Rason Jim introduces Bessie as his sister. Jim tricks Gwynneth into admitting that Roy Gleason is her lover, and gets Roy to admit that he and Gwynneth attended Bessie's trial, so knew her identity. Bessie had had a duplicate key, supposedly for her jewel case, made for Gwynneth. It was really a key to the safe containing the dagger. Jim learns Gwynneth knew of the locksmith who made it through her criminal brother.

INSTALMENT XX.

DESTINIES ENTWINED.

Roy Gleason shrugged his shoulders.

"I think you're a bit nervy this morning, my dear Gwynneth. Agreed that I'm a fool, I don't quite see what harm I've done."

"That man turned you inside out and wheedled information out of you. I never gave it. I pretended I knew her for the first time when he showed me her photograph—the photograph of the Mersand girl—and I identified it as Mathews."

Her nerve was indeed going. She was beside herself and Roy Gleason simply could not understand.

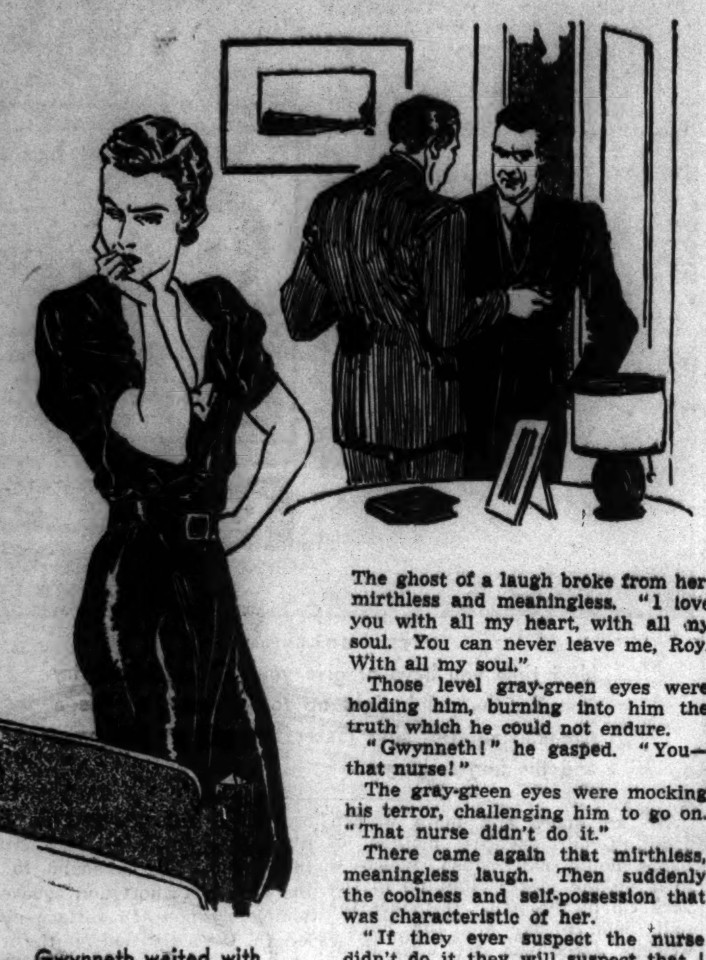
"What was the point of doing all that?" he asked.

"Roy—you fool!" she repeated.

On the surface she was an overwrought woman being rather hysterical. But it was the intense expression in her eyes that shook his own steadiness. Dimly he sensed the truth about her then, though he could not apprehend it.

"I think I'll go if you don't mind," he said awkwardly.

"You can go—but you must come back. O yes, you must come back!"



Gwynneth waited with inward impatience.

The ghost of a laugh broke from her, mirthless and meaningless. "I love you with all my heart, with all my soul. You can never leave me, Roy. With all my soul."

Those level gray-green eyes were holding him, burning into him the truth which he could not endure.

"Gwynneth!" he gasped. "You—that nurse!"

The gray-green eyes were mocking his terror, challenging him to go on. "That nurse didn't do it."

There came again that mirthless, meaningless laugh. Then suddenly the coolness and self-possession that was characteristic of her.

"If they ever suspect the nurse didn't do it they will suspect that I did. And in the same breath they will suspect you of helping me, Roy. Knowing that we both saw her in court that day. We're in it together, Roy—for better or worse. So keep your mouth shut, my dear."

He stood before her, breathless as if he had been running. He could not look away from her eyes which seemed now to dominate him, to dare him to spurn her. He was fascinated as a rabbit is fascinated by a snake—then—when the eyes smiled, as a desperate man is fascinated by a woman whose lure he cannot resist.

"I lost my head when I thought you didn't love me. But now that I know you do I can manage everything. Run away now, dear, and leave it all to me, but come again soon. I'll deal with Jim Watkin."

He staggered from the room like a drunken man. For the rest of his life he would walk in the shadow of fear.

Detective Inspector Rason arrived at midday.

Watkin, Gwynneth presumed, would have passed on the information he had obtained from Gleason to the police. And they would have some awkward questions to ask as to why she had concealed her knowledge, in the first instance, of Bessie Mathews' identity.

She was not seriously alarmed. Any excuse would do. Nothing mattered that did not definitely prove that it was she who had administered the medinal. And as no one had seen her do it, direct proof would be impossible.

When she went to the nurse's room in answer to Rason's courteous request he was holding a key for her inspection.

"My assistant found this in the skirting board behind the chest of drawers," he explained. "It looks as if it had been dropped there by accident as it was not completely concealed. Can you identify it, Mrs. Bentley?"

"It looks like the key of the safe. But it can't be. There was only one. And the superintendent took that yesterday."

"I would like to see if it fits the safe," suggested Rason. She went down to the library with him, where they found that it did indeed fit the safe.

"So the girl had a duplicate!" he remarked.

"Nothing surprises me now," replied Gwynneth.

"Of course, we don't know yet that it was hers!" amended Rason. "If it was, she must have had it cut somewhere."

"It wouldn't have been done in the village," said Gwynneth. "And until yesterday she only went to London once while she was here."

"You couldn't tell me the date, I suppose?"

From a drawer Gwynneth took a household diary.

"On the tenth of last month," she informed him.

Rason thanked her and made a note of it. Then he called for his assistant.

"You'd better take that straight back to the Yard and have it photographed and circulated," he ordered.

Gwynneth waited with inward impatience.

"Do you want me any more, Mr. Rason?" she asked.

"I don't think I need trouble you, Mrs. Bentley. But I would like permission to speak to the servants. The kitchen is through there, isn't it?" Taking her consent for granted, he passed through the green baize door into the kitchen.

"So they think they're keeping it up their sleeve!" mused Gwynneth. "Unless Watkin hasn't told them. I'll find out as soon as I've seen him."

Rason was a very long time with the servants. If he did not wholly believe in Jim Watkin's version of the affair, he certainly meant to give it every attention.

There was that telephone message to the carter. Had the nurse really rung on the telephone or, as Watkin suggested, had Mrs. Bentley imitated her voice?

He had the time of the telephone message—a quarter to one. He spent nearly an hour trying to find out from the servants for certain where the nurse had been at that time, but without success.

"If Mrs. Bentley telephoned the man it will never be possible to prove it," he decided.

Then he left the others and concentrated on Ledbourne, the parlor maid. He intended to trace that tray from the moment when food had been placed on it to the moment when it was left with the dead man. In this he was soon to be unexpectedly assisted by Jim Watkin himself.

Watkin did not announce himself—did not even turn into the drive at Uplands. He stopped some distance down the road and entered by the home park and so passed into the garden.

The whole place was almost unnaturally quiet. The local police had handed over to Scotland Yard and the reporters were all taking it for granted that there would be no fresh news until the nurse was caught.

He went into the summer house, then worked his way round by the kitchen garden to the back of the house.

Girl Bearing Brunt in Home Should Strike

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She says: "He knows what I am up against at home, with a drunken father and an everlastingly nagging mother. Every penny I earn goes into the home. I never have a cent for a movie, for even a box of powder.

"Yet, I have a younger brother who is working and never gives a red cent. I have two older sisters married, but do you think my mother would ask of them one cent's worth of help? No. And one sister is fairly well off.

"Well, this man, the only friend I have, really, is married. Except for his two sons, whom he adores, he would leave his wife, he tells me, and would marry me right away. I have told him that I could not let him do that. That would be breaking up the youngsters' lives, and I do not want to have that on my conscience."

We think it is a bitter shame that you have to bear the brunt of all your family's vices, your mother's nagging, your father's drunkenness and your brother's and sisters' selfishness. Furthermore, we do not think you should stand for it. We think you should call a strike. Simply lay down terms in black and white. You are going to do so much and no more. You'll give in so much a week and no more. Force the others to come across with their share. As long as you're the willing goat, you will continue getting your present treatment.

We know you would not be party to a home wrecking scheme, so that phase of your problem needn't be discussed. You know you'd be jumping from the frying pan into the fire. That's not your escape, anyway.

August Days Bring Crisis to Free Ice Fund

These are the days when the season's heaviest burden is thrown on the free ice fund of Tribune Charities, Inc. With the city feeling the August sun, dwellers in tenements face their greatest need for ice.

Letters stream in telling of heat and misery and want. Often there are large families in danger of illness and as often there are families with several members already ill.

"I would appreciate it so much if you could help us a little," one man wrote. "My wife and I and our two little girls are all sick, and the milk and food we have gets sour. It would help if we could have some ice."

And another: "My wife is 70 years old and I am 72. I am well and can get along without ice, but she has heart disease and diabetes, and needs it badly for ice packs and for her food. We have never asked for help before."

Yesterday's contributions from generous readers of THE TRIBUNE amounted to $32.10. Their gifts will furnish ice for 29 families this week.

Miss Bersbach to Be Feted at Many Parties

many exciting tales to tell, for they were in Shanghai when the trouble started. In fact, they were in the Cathay hotel the afternoon it was bombed, but fortunately they suffered no injuries beyond shock.

Mrs. Newton Noble, the Valentines' daughter, has received word that her family is landing today in Honolulu from Manila, having made the trip aboard the China Clipper, but she does not know whether they will rush home or tarry awhile in Honolulu. When they do return she and her husband will begin apartment hunting on the south side, for the Nobles are occupying the Ritchie court home of the Valentines just during their absence.

Miss Frances Whedon and her niece, M[illegible] Frances Jeffery, are expected in Chicago very soon, for they landed last Tuesday in San Francisco from a trip to the orient, which was interrupted by conditions in China. They had taken a house in Peiping for August, but their plans were changed by the Japanese-Chinese war.

Await Word from Mrs. W. J. Calhoun.

The William S. Monroes still are awaiting an answer to their anxious cables trying to find out more information about their sister, Mrs. William J. Calhoun, who lives in Peiping.

Mrs. Calhoun sailed for China on July 24 after a visit here and the only word the Monroes have had since then is a cable, relayed through the state department, that she had arrived safely in Peiping on Aug. 16. It took eight days for the cable to reach the Monroes, however.

None of her Chicago friends has heard from Mrs. Charles Butland [Garrigue Gallagher] since she sailed July 6 for Shanghai, but they all feel sure that she must have reached her Chinese home in Changsha before the trouble started. Changsha, which is the location of Yale-in-China, is in Hunan province, a four or five day trip inland from Shanghai.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Lamport of 1366 Dearborn parkway are receiving congratulations upon the birth of their first child, a son, last Saturday evening. Mrs. Lamport was Miss Julia Kramer and is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Kramer of 1320 State parkway. Mr. Lamport's parents are the W. K. Lamports of South Bend, Ind.

Grandson Is Gaining, So Forgans Return to East.

The son born on Aug. 8 to Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Allen, the former Betty Forgan, weighs 3 pounds now, and so his grandparents, the Robert D. Forgans, who cut short their vacation at Hyannisport, Mass., when he was born, returned east Sunday. They will spend another three weeks in Hyannisport with their son, Robert Forgan Jr., before he goes back to Dartmouth and they come home to Highland Park.

The young Allens have bought a house on Kenilworth avenue on the outskirts of Wilmette and their little son will move into his nursery there as soon as he is permitted to leave his incubator at St. Luke's hospital. He is the Allens' first child and is being named for his father.

Mrs. Alexander Kirk has returned from a summer abroad with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hollis, and a subsequent visit in the east.

Joan Reid, sub-deb daughter of the Bryan S. Reids, has arrived home from a North Cape cruise that she took with her older sisters, Miss Margot Reid and Mrs. Reid Chatillon. Miss Reid and Mrs. Chatillon are remaining in New York for another week. The Reid family has a house in Lake Forest for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ednyfed H. Williams are leaving today for New York to sail Saturday on the Rex for several months abroad. They will visit Italy, Austria, Hungary, Switzerland and France. While they are in New York Mr. and Mrs. Williams will be the guests of Rudy Vallee.

So saith one of the opposite sex, Russ Morgan, bandleader of note. Out of the experience of countless nights watching heads, women's heads, on the dance floor, comes Mr. Morgan's statement.

When Russ sees the back of a head with the hair smooth all the way down to about two to three inches below the ear line, and then turned under all the way around, he knows that most likely the face it frames is not the youthfully piquant one it was designed for, but that of a young matron striving for youthful effect.

Then there is the young deb or sub-deb who chooses to disregard all flattering references to the natural beauty of youth. Her back of the head treatment is more likely than not to be the sleek one with well ordered, smooth curls making for coiffed elegance, which unfortunately adds about five years to the young lady's age.

Then the woman dancing around is spotted from the back as an older woman by the Morgan eye because of the cluttered, frantic coiffure holding to curls now disregarded by the youngsters. Here you see unsuitability to type, of course.

But they are not all eye-sores as feminine back heads are seen. Some women manage that perfect back hair dressing, as beautifully studied and trimmed and shaped as is the front head appearance. The majority of women, too, are not given to dressing hair ten, fifteen years younger than coiffure laws should allow.

Coat Dress in New Guise

WOMAN'S AND MISS' COAT DRESS.

When it first appeared, the coat dress met with such marvelous enthusiasm that stylists could not allow it to die. They have presented the popular mode in a new guise with 1937 lines, distinctive and a credit to any woman's wardrobe. It is rather superfluous to remark that this type of garment is perfect for business wear and for the home, too.

The original of this model is fashioned of lightweight woolen in a lovely forest green shade. Simple lines always take effectively to bright shades. There are many jewel tones in woolens this year which are certain to take your fancy, too. Don't forget crêpes while you are shopping for fabrics. This is just the dress for them, with its coatlike lapel collar, full sleeves and tailored skirt.

Of course, for the home you will prefer cottons. A daintily sprigged print will be effective, the trimming to be rickrack. You can put a collar high at the neck on this version of the model.

Style No. 2012 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

No Set Rules for Raising Most Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

An interested onlooker finally let her curiosity get the better of her one day. She had been watching a mother and her little girl, off and on, during the summer, and had decided that she was pretty successful at her job. The interested onlooker took her courage in both hands and proceeded with an informal questionnaire. It went something like this:

Q.—"What was your weaning technique with her?" A.—"Weaning technique? I don't believe I had any."

Q.—"Did you have a lot of trouble weaning her?" A.—"Well, I guess I didn't because I don't seem to remember it."

Q.—"How did you teach her to feed herself?" A.—"I don't remember—I suppose she just learned by herself."

Q.—"What did you use to do when she refused to eat or made a fuss over new foods?" A.—"I didn't do anything because we never had any bother about food that I can remember."

Q.—"Didn't she ever stop feeding herself in the middle of a meal or ask you to feed her?" A.—"Yes, but that wasn't an eating problem. If she seemed tired of the job of conveying food to her mouth I just took hold and finished it for her."

Q.—"How did you . . ." A.—"Please . . . I sound so stupid . . . Don't ask me another question. All I seem to be able to say is 'I don't know' and 'I don't remember.' As a matter of fact, as I look back everything seemed to take care of itself in due season. To tell the truth I was so interested in my small daughter—I enjoyed her so and we did so many things together that I don't believe I thought a lot about all those details. Life was so full, and there were so many things to do and say and think, and places to go to that I don't believe I deliberately bothered much about when she should do this or that. It was all part of her gradual growing older and more capable."

Dr. Gropius, Founder of German Bauhaus, to Aid Chicago School

Dr. Walter Gropius, who is ranked with Le Corbusier as a world leader in modern design and who founded the famed Bauhaus school at Dessau, Germany, will serve as adviser for the New Bauhaus school of design which will open in Chicago on Oct. 10. The old Field mansion at 1905 Prarie avenue will house the school.

Dr. Gropius, now professor of architecture at Harvard university, has collaborated with L. Moholy-Nagy, former Bauhaus professor, who will be director of the new school. The American Association of Arts and Industries is sponsoring it.

Other members of the New Bauhaus faculty announced yesterday are James J. Sweeney, associate editor of Transition, lecturer in the fine arts department, New York university graduate school, and Metropolitan Museum of Art; Hin Bredendieck, graduate of Bauhaus, industrial designer, and George Kepes, chief assistant of the display department, Simpson Piccadilly, London.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

CHOICE OF ASKING BIDS.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When the player has decided that he is in the slam zone and can sound out the situation with an asking bid, he still has to use his head in deciding the suit in which he will ask for information. His objects will be:

1. With a borderline slam try, to retain the ability to sign off at game if partner cannot furnish the required information.

2. With a strong hand, with which he does not fear getting past game, nevertheless to arrange the bidding so as to obtain as much information in as few rounds of bidding as possible.

Match point duplicate. The bidding [both sides vulnerable]:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
1 diamond	1 spade	2 clubs	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	[final bid]

South's opening bid, although light, was, of course, correct as third hand in a match point game. But when he not only rebid freely over East's spade but, on the next round, raised the no trump, he went too far. Apparently, however, he knew his opponents.

East opened the ten of spades, dummy played low, and West won with the ace. West studied the exposed South hand for quite a while and then, obviously a slave to the dictum "lead up to weakness," returned a low diamond. Declarer let this ride to dummy's nine, then finessed on the way back. West's king and jack were picked up, and declarer cashed his two long diamonds.

East, meanwhile, had discarded one spade and one heart. Three clubs were discarded from dummy and West, holding on to his hearts for dear life, also let go clubs. Declarer now cashed the club king, and then led a spade. East put in the nine to force the queen. The club ace was then cashed and West was thrown on lead with the club queen. Having nothing left but hearts, he had to lead up to dummy's heart king. East was helpless to avert defeat. He could take only the heart ace and spade king and, thus, had to concede the ninth trick to dummy's heart king or declarer's spade jack.

West had thrown away the defense single-handed. On winning with the spade ace his correct return was a low heart. There was no reason for him to disbelieve North's diamond bid and therefore no sense in attacking that suit. Had the defenders knocked out the heart king at an early stage, the defeat of the contract would have been a cinch. Even with the diamond return, West still could have stopped nine tricks by hanging on to the queen and three clubs and letting go one of his "precious" hearts.

As indicated above, declarer had difficulty in discarding from dummy on the three long diamonds, and chose to let go three clubs. If, when thrown on lead with the club queen, West had had another club, it would have been as good as gold.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: If, after partner doubles, the next opponent bids, what honor tricks should partner of doubler hold in order to make a bid?

Answer: He should have at least one honor trick and a biddable suit, or one-half honor trick and a six card major suit.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

JO-JOTTE POINTER.

The prospective declarer must realize that side by side with the danger of being outscored with the cards is the possibility of finding his adversary holding some melding combination. But in fully half of all the hands dealt at Jo-Jotte neither player has an honor meld. Of the melding combinations which occur in the other half of the deals, a comfortable majority are three card sequences scoring only twenty points. With a distinct superiority in playing strength the declarer can so often outscore his adversary by at least twenty points that he still has a very good chance of winning the hand and scoring his own points below the line.

Merger of 2 Unions Ends Dispute of Opera Singers

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The rift in the grand opera lute was closed tonight with the amicable merger of two rival unions of singers who only last week were ready to fly at one anothers' throats at the drop of a high C.

Members of the Grand Opera Artists association voted unanimously to relinquish their American Federation of Labor charter to the American Guild of Musical Artists, of which Lawrence Tibbett is president.

Remedies for Cake Failures Listed Today

"Cooking with Wines and Spirits," latest booklet by Mary Meade, contains many interesting recipes using wines and spirits as flavoring ingredients. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

In yesterday's column we discussed the causes for various cake troubles. Some of the causes suggest remedies in themselves. Others need a bit of explanation.

There are six rules to observe to avoid failure with any type of cake. 1. Use a reliable, tested recipe. 2. Use good quality ingredients. Cake flour, fine granulated sugar, butter, margarine or vegetable shortening are recommended. 3. Measure accurately. 4. Mix carefully, according to instructions. 5. Bake at the temperature specified. 6. Follow instructions for care of cake after baking.

Many cooks are careless about this last point. Butter cakes and sponge cakes are treated very differently after removal from the oven.

The butter cake is left in the pan for about 5 minutes after baking. The pan should be placed on the cake rack for this period, so that cooling may occur at the bottom of the cake as well as at the top. After 5 minutes the cake may be loosened from the sides of the pan with a spatula, and turned out onto the rack. It should be turned right side up to finish cooling.

The sponge type of cake, which includes angel food, must be inverted as soon as it comes from the oven. It should be inverted over a rack, too, so that steam does not collect beneath the pan. The cake should be allowed to hang until cold, usually about 1 hour. After that it is best to remove it from the pan, as it may stick or the crust may roll off in balls, if it is left much longer. If it is removed too soon, while the cake is warm, the cake will shrink.

Sponge cake pans never should be greased. Butter cake pans should be greased on the bottom with an unsalted fat, or with melted butter. The latter is best for flavor, but if it is used, it should be drained from the salt which will sink to the bottom when it is warmed, as salt tends to make a cake stick.

It is desirable, when baking large cakes and layer cakes, first to grease the pan, then fit it with waxed paper, and then to grease the waxed paper. The cake is easy to remove, and the crust is left intact when this precaution is taken. A pastry brush is invaluable in greasing pans. It should be washed thoroughly and dried every time it is used.

The difficulties caused by overbaking or underbaking cakes may be avoided if one or several of these four tests of doneness are employed.

1. The cake is done if, when pressed lightly with the tip of the finger, the surface springs back and no imprint is left.

2. The cake is done if it has risen to its full height, and the crust is a delicate brown color.

3. If it has shrunk slightly away from the edges of the pan the cake should be done.

4. A wire cake tester, inserted in the center of the cake, comes out clean and dry if the cake is done. Any dough clinging to the tester is an indication of insufficient baking.

Twinkling Star.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

There are almost as many names as there are versions of the "Twinkling Star" block. It is variously called "Slashed Star," "Rising Sun," and "Sunburst." It is a difficult applique design, but one which is well worth the work and effort expended in its creation. The fourteen inch blocks are set together with three inch bands of white between the blocks, and surrounded by a three inch border quilted in a rope design.

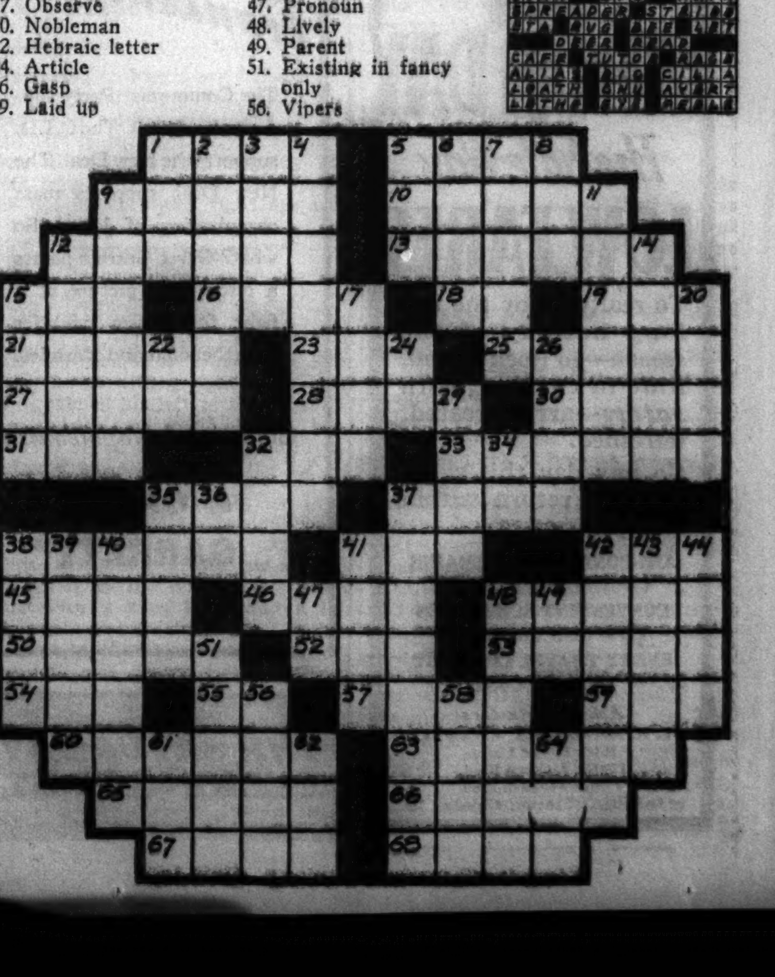
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



JUDGE TRIES NEW WEAPON TO CURB WILD MOTORISTS

Seeks to Find Financial Responsibility.

Judge J. M. Braude employed another device in the Trafic court yesterday in his campaign to prevent automobile accidents caused by drivers whom he described as road morons. He acted to determine the financial responsibility of motorists in his court charged with trafic offenses.

Angus McEacheron.

When Angus McEacheron, 23 years old, 3410 Walnut street, a filling station attendant, was arraigned for speeding 45 miles an hour in Jackson boulevard on Aug. 14 Judge Braude found that he had purchased his automobile a short time before for $90 and had no liability insurance on the machine.

Gives Driver 3 Choices.

Judge Braude fined him $50 and continued the hearing to Sept. 10 in the Safety court, where the judge then will be sitting. He gave McEacheron the choice of selling the automobile, taking out liability insurance, or paying the fine.

Fred Jeffery, 23, of 1725 Wilson avenue, an auto mechanic, also was given a three way choice. Accused of driving 56 miles an hour in the outer drive, he was fined $25. His case also was continued to Sept. 10 in Safety court on a motion to vacate the fine.

"Public officials are trying to do something to find and institutionalize the sex morons before they have committed crimes," Judge Braude said. "We have a right also to be protected against the road morons when we discover them. This court feels that autoists and pedestrians should be protected in cases of doubtful financial responsibility."

He pointed out that the court cannot order trafic offenders to carry insurance but that in most cases the fine can be enough to cover the cost. If the defendant can prove, when the motion to vacate the finding is heard, that he has obtained the insurance, Judge Braude said, the fine will be reduced by the amount of the premium.

Three Sentenced to Jail.

In the Safety court yesterday Judge Charles S. Dougherty sentenced three motorists to 10 days each in the county jail for driving while drunk. He barred these drivers and ten others from driving their cars for periods ranging from one to six months. Those sentenced to jail are Julius Hunt, 31 years old, 4230 Grover street, Hammond, Ind., forbidden to drive for six months; Knute Carlson, 38, 9851 Avenue J, forbidden to drive for 90 days, and William Kramer, 60, of 6251 Cuyler avenue, forbidden to drive for 90 days.

All were charged with reckless driving, and all except Viander, who was fined $5, were fined $10.

Body with Bullet Wound in Head Taken from River

The body of a man, a bullet wound in his head, was taken from the Fox river north of Batavia yesterday and identified by a social security card as that of Clyde William Heebner of Baraboo, Wis., an employé of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad at Minneapolis. Coroner Victor Peterson of Kane county is conducting an investigation.

2 Policemen Are Suspended in Quiz Over $6 Shakedown

BY HAL FOUST.

Policemen Edward A. O'Connor and Walter Noonan of the accident prevention bureau were suspended by Commissioner John P. Allman yesterday pending a hearing before the police trial board on a charge that they extorted $6 from a motorist, Joseph R. Franklin of Hammond, Ind. The policemen deny any connection with a roadside trial and a peculiar sequel last week which form the basis of the complaint.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the trafic division, is encountering difficulties in preparing for the prosecution of the complaint. Mr. Franklin has declined to appear as a witness, saying he gave his word not to do so.

Stopped on New Drive.

THE TRIBUNE published Mr. Franklin's story Saturday morning. The previous Wednesday morning, while driving to the loop, Mr. Franklin was stopped in the new Illiana drive near 92d street by a police squad car and accused of driving 30 miles an hour in a 25 mile an hour zone. One of the policemen took $6 to pay the fine, saying it would save Mr. Franklin the trouble of going to court. Two days later the policemen went to Franklin's office and returned the $6, asking him not to report the incident.

Last Saturday afternoon Capt. Flynn sent Lieut. Joseph Kelly to Hammond to interview Mr. Franklin. The lieutenant, a sociable fellow, chatted with Franklin's secretary while waiting to see him. She said Franklin had received $6 from two men who had visited his office the previous day, and described the men.

Promises Not to Prosecute.

Mr. Franklin did not give the lieutenant much information.

"When I accepted the $6," he said, "I gave my word as a gentleman not to prosecute the policemen."

"We hope Mr. Franklin will change his mind," said Capt. Flynn. "Commissioner Allman is doing everything he can to enforce trafic laws without any chiseling by policemen. We need coöperation from the motoring public to keep our city free of speed traps."

William C. Bailey, 84 years old, trimmed his goatee, adjusted his belt, and mounted his bicycle yesterday to pedal 1,028 miles back to his home at Underhill, Vt. He has been visiting his granddaughter, Mrs. Ralph Griswold, 3658 Eddy street, and other relatives and friends near Chicago since July 18.

Mr. Bailey, who took up bicycle riding as a health measure six years ago, pedaled to Chicago in eighteen days. He has ridden more than 12,000 miles since he became a cyclist. Out of respect to his ageing limbs he uses a girl's bicycle.

TIRED OF WINE, WOMEN AND SONG; KILLS SELF AT 32

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide at an inquest over Ralph Schoenstadt, 32 years old, who a few hours earlier shot himself at the Piccadilly hotel, 5107 Blackstone avenue. Mr. Schoenstadt, a bachelor, left a note saying he was tired of wine, women, and song.

He was manager of the People's theater, 1620 West 47th street. His late uncle, Herman Schoenstadt, introduced the nickelodeon in Chicago, and his cousins, Henry and Arthur Schoenstadt, own the Piccadilly hotel and theater as well as other motion picture houses. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in the chapel at 936 East 47th street. Burial will be in Mount Isaiah cemetery.

CAR DEATH TOLL IN JULY REACHES 3,420 IN NATION

Increases 5 Per Cent Over Previous Year.

The national automobile massacre maintained its record breaking 1937 pace during July by taking a death toll of 3,420, an increase of 5 per cent over the 3,260 trafic accident fatalities in July a year ago, according to figures released yesterday in Chicago by the National Safety council.

The council pointed out, however, that the increase was counterbalanced by a 12 per cent increase in motor mileage. This means, the council report said, that fatalities for each 100,000,000 vehicle miles were reduced by 7 per cent over July, 1936. Every month this year except June has shown an increase in fatalities over the corresponding month last year.

Chicago Toll Mounts.

Although the Chicago automobile death toll continued to mount rapidly, the city at the end of July had succeeded for the first time this year in keeping its total for the year below that of New York City, where 452 were killed in the first seven months—more than in any other city. Chicago was second with 438.

On the basis of deaths per 100,000 population, however, New York had the lowest rate, 10.8, for the 13 cities with more than 500,000 population. Chicago was tenth with a 21.5 rate.

Among cities with the best rates per 100,000 population in the population group from 25,000 to 50,000 are Waukegan, Moline, Ill., and Galesburg, Ill., none of which recorded an auto accident death for the first seven months of 1937.

Baby and Grandmother Die.

A boy 9 months old and his grandmother, 65, were killed yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding crashed against a utility company pole at Southwest highway and Harlem avenue. Three other persons in the car were injured.

Those killed were Mrs. Pauline Maher, 9133 Harper avenue, and Robert E. Fox, 9103 Harper avenue. The injured, all taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital, are Mrs. Maher's husband, John, 65, the driver, and two other grandchildren, William Fox, 4, and Mary Jean Smith, 8. Mrs. Helen Fox, mother of the children, and another son, Lawrence, 2, were uninjured.

The accident occurred, according to police, when Maher attempted to avert a collision with another automobile driven by Paul Wallace, 31, of 7742 Phillips avenue. The Wallace car overturned but its driver was unhurt. He is being held by Willow Springs county highway police for the inquest.

Woman Killed by Car.

Mrs. Mary Bradish, 41 years old, was killed last night as she crossed the street less than a block from her home at 6056 South Halsted street. She was struck by an automobile driven by William Scanlon, 21 years old, of 5833 Wells street. He was held for the inquest.

Julian Howard, 32 years old, 3527 Cottage Grove avenue, colored, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Friday when he was hit by an automobile at 36th place and Michigan avenue. Alfred Evans, 26, of 5206 South Park way, also colored, the driver, is held on a reckless driving charge.

Roberta Wilson, 41 years old, colored, 6441 Langley avenue, died yesterday in the Provident hospital of injuries incurred Aug. 24 when run down by a truck while she was riding a bicycle. The accident occurred at 64th street and Langley avenue. The driver was Robert Halter, 21, of 6720 Wentworth avenue.

Up to 4 p.m. yesterday 691 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 533 were killed in Chicago, where 14,830 were injured.

[See editorial page for massacre clock.]

NEW PAVEMENT ON LAKE SHORE DRIVE IS OPENED

New pavement in Lake Shore drive from Oak street to North avenue was opened to north bound trafic yesterday while the former north bound lane was closed for construction of pedestrian subways at North avenue and Division streets. South bound trafic was not affected. The subways will be completed before the outer link bridge is opened Oct. 9. Thereafter the west lane of the three separated pavements will be used by local trafic and the two east lanes will be used by express travel to and from the new bridge or the Michigan avenue bridge.

The greatest woman of our time-

by EVE CURIE

She found a magic element forty thousand times as valuable as gold, yet she lived in poverty ....

MARIE CURIE discovered radium. She was the only woman ever to receive two Nobel prizes. But the story of her life is more than that of the world's greatest woman scientist; it is the absorbing drama of a woman. She was poor; she was beautiful; she loved science and a man. With him she enjoyed unique happiness throughout years of poverty, and solitude. When finally, in the abandoned warehouse which was her laboratory, she produced the first glowing speck of radium, a grateful world heaped honors upon her. But the fortune she could have had, she refused. Here, for the first time, is the romantic story of the woman Einstein said was, "of all celebrated beings, the only one whom fame has not corrupted." It is the story which Marie Curie would never take time to write herself. Told you by the one who knew her best, her daughter. First of eight parts.

FIVE ELEVENS READY FOR DUEL WITH PACKERS

Expect 80,000 Fans Tomorrow.

Stars On Air

THE All-Star Serenade, a half hour of music and talks by football celebrities, will be aired tonight from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, Chicago time, over W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. Among the notables who will appear on the program are Gus Dorais of the University of Detroit, head coach of the College All-Americans; Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington, Bernie Moore of Louisiana State, and Arch Ward, sports editor of The Tribune

Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian, captain of the All-Stars, will speak for the squad, and Gil Kuhn of Southern California, a center on the team, will sing. Music will be provided by Harold Stokes and his W-G-N orchestra. Bob Elson will be master of ceremonies.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-American football squad held dress rehersal last night at Soldiers' field. In their new uniforms and under the brilliant lights erected for the game to supplement the stadium system, the players raced through their signal drills and other maneuvers designed to acquaint them with the conditions under which they will meet the Green Bay Packers tomorrow night.

Whether or not the All-Americans defeat the Packers, they are in condition. They are anxious to meet the professional champions, of whom they have heard so much lately, and they are not asking any favors. They really might repeat the trite expression, may the better team win, at the same time, intending, of course, to prove they are better.

Five Teams Take Part.

While last night's practice was secret the All-Americans confined their activities in the hour and half they were on the gridiron to routine drills. After signal drills, in which five elevens took part, there was the usual kicking and passing. The place kickers worked at both ends of the field. The punters kicked with and against the wind. But woven in the picture of this final drill, and most important, was the verve with which the boys went through their maneuvers.

They exhibited the same enthusiasm for this All-Star game that their predecessors have shown. This desire to play, to give the old Rutgers try, has been a more important factor in other games than the experience and skill which for three years made the professionals favorites. Coach Gus Dorais and his assistants, Lynn Waldorf, Elmer Layden, Bernie Moore, and Jimmie Phelan, have worked diligently. They have had complete coöperation.

It Should be a Battle.

The task of teaching a working offense in 17 practice days was tremendous, but the result is expected to equal the accomplishment last year, when the All-Stars completely riddled the Detroit line in a touchdown parade that eventually meant a 7 to 7 tie with the Lions.

Discussion of possibilities can be sifted to the advantage the Packers have in a defense coördinated through successful professional campaigns, the Packer threat in the passing combination of Arnie Herber to Don Hutson, and the All-Americans' advantages in

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 30.—The Green Bay Packers today reached the end of the road, but not their destination in their preparation for the All-Star game at Chicago Wednesday night.

Seventeen days of experimentation, study, and conscientious effort brought the squad up to tonight's workout, its last with the exception of tomorrow's limbering up on Soldiers' field, in superb physical condition.

But the attitude of the men leaves much to be desired. They packed grips in the same indifferent, confident manner with which one makes appointments for the movies. They have evinced no concern over Wednesday's contest, nor have they revealed sufficient interest to hazard a prediction of its outcome.

They Take Game Casually.

This somewhat aloof, take it in stride attitude has prevailed throughout the training period. At first it was applauded by observers who had seen the Bears and Lions keyed to a game pitch ten days in advance, then come down to the All-Star contest fatigued, apprehensive, and too tense to play good football.

It fits well in Coach Curley Lambeau's training program, a program that in methods and amount of work

GIANTS DEFEAT REDS, 4-3; TAKE OVER 1ST PLACE

Lead Idle Cubs by Two Percentage Points.

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—History and the Giants repeated today.

Just a year and five days after they climaxed one of the game's greatest stretch drives by taking over first place in the National league, they duplicated the performance today with a 4 to 3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The triumph, achieved through the home run hitting of Mel Ott and Johnny McCarthy and the relief pitching of Carl Hubbell, put them in the lead by two percentage points over the Chicago Cubs.

71 Victories Against 46 Defeats.

The victory gave them a record of 71 victories and 46 defeats for the year for a .607 percentage. The Cubs have won 72 and lost 47 for a .605 mark.

It was the New Yorkers' fifth straight victory, and the 37th against 21 losses in the surge they started from third place more than two months ago.

By virtue of a three run rally in the third, featured by Ott's 28th homer with a mate on base and another run on McCarthy's homer in the sixth, the Giants appeared to have the game cinched.

Myers Doubles for Two Runs.

But Cliff Melton, the lanky lefthander who had yielded the Reds only one hit through the first six innings, blew up in the seventh and was pounded for three runs. A walk to Spud Davis, Mel Ott's error on Alex Kampouris' hopper, and Lew Riggs' single brought in one run. Billy Myers then doubled to right center and sent the other two across.

Dick Coffman was called in and Melton went to the showers, but after Chick Hafey drew a walk from Coffman and Hub Walker was sent to bat for George Davis, Manager Bill Terry summoned Hubbell. Hubbell, none too effective for the last several days, was at the top of his form as he forced Walker to foul out to end the threat.

BRITON PRAISES FIGHTING SKILL OF CHAMPION

Tommy Will Remain in U. S. a Month.

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Tommy Farr, peering through slits of eyes and almost crying as they cut the bandages from his injured right hand, refused to alibi his defeat or take issue with the decision that enabled Joe Louis to retain his title tonight.

Tommy Farr.

"I could not see him toward the last," he said between puffed lips. "But I came here to give him a go, and I did, didn't I?" he pleaded with the score of reporters and handlers who crowded about him in the dressing room.

"You sure did, Tommy," said his manager, Ted Broadribb, who for the first time since they reached America looked as if he almost was fond of his battered fighter.

He Has No Alibi.

"What do I think of the decision?" Tommy repeated slowly after his question. "Well, I won't say anything about the decision. I'll leave that to you fellows. And please don't say much about this finger. I don't want them to think I tried to alibi."

The injured finger is the third one on his right hand. He damaged it landing a punch in the fourth round.

Two deep cuts were under Tommy's right eye and another an inch long beneath the left, tokens of the scores of rapier lefts with which Louis piled up his winning margin. It was an obvious effort for Farr to hold his eyes open enough to see.

"Gosh, but Joe is a great puncher," he said, fingering the bruise on his left cheek. "I don't know whether he's the hardest hitter I ever fought. But he hits hard enough. He hurt me a couple of times, but I never was close to being knocked out. They don't knock out Tommy Farr. I gave them a go, didn't I? I would like another chance at him."

"You might get it after that fight tonight," Broadribb told him.

Ted Likes Jacobs.

"We're not fighting for anybody but Mike Jacobs," he declared firmly. "He's been fair with us and we keep our contracts." Farr, preparing wearily for a shower, nodded assent.

"All them experts," chortled Jacobs. "Remember what they said Louis was going to do to Farr?"

Farr returned to his nearby hotel only long enough to change clothes before motoring back to his camp at Long Branch, N. J., for the night. He is going to stick around here for at least another month, he said, waiting to see what Jacobs wants him to do.

Louis' Hand Bruised.

Louis took his victory in stride. He was stolid and phlegmatic as ever as he returned to his dressing room and flopped on a table. He appeared tired, but said he was not.

The champion exhibited a bruised right hand which he said he hurt in the third round. His left also was paining him because of the constant pounding on the Welsh boy's body.

"He's a good tough boy," Louis said, "but he can't hit much and if we meet again I'll knock him out. I might have done it tonight if I hadn't bruised my left."

Joe Claims He Was Off.

There was no doubt in the minds of Joe and his handlers that he beat the British Empire champion, but all agreed that Louis had an off night and didn't come up with anything resembling his usual fight.

"That Farr is tough and he is smart," Manager Julian Black said. "He's an awkward fellow to fight. Joe had a hard time getting set against him."

Joe said he hit Farr only one really good lick—a right just before the bell ended the thirteenth round. He said Farr's punches didn't hurt him, but he admitted Tommy annoyed him no little with the long left he kept shooting to Joe's face and stomach.

Whether Louis' showing tonight will affect his plans for the immediate future was a matter of conjecture among his friends.

Some feel Joe is stale, needs a rest and should take the European trip his managers have planed for him next month.

Miss Saxon, Frank Barton's 5 year old mare, isn't having the big season she did a year ago, when she won eight races, most of them at Chicago tracks.

But Miss Saxon proved yesterday at Lincoln Fields that she still is a handy sort of an allowance performer to have in the barn. And she justified owner Barton's refusal to drop her into a high class claiming event. Miss Saxon won the Roosevelt Road purse, featured event on the card, by coming from behind and then standing off Our Count's challenge. Her margin over Our Count at the wire was a neck. Watersplash was third. Timberline and Sir Midas completed the field.

Third Victory of Season.

Miss Saxon's victory was her third of the year in seventeen attempts, the others occuring at Arlington Park. She was the second winning mount of the afternoon for Jocky Charley Rollins.

The start of the Roosevelt Road found Timberline, made the choice at the last minute, away on top with Miss Saxon following and Sir Midas third. Our Count was well back of them. Jocky Bobby Dotter kept Timberline in front until midway in the stretch. Then the favorite stopped badly, and Miss Saxon, closest to him, moved into a lead that appeared adequate. By this time Our Count was running over horses. His drive up on the outside threatened the winner but he was a neck short.

Miss Saxon's time of 1:44 1-5 for the 1 1-16 miles was one second off the track record. She paid $10.60.

Run Dead Heat in Opener.

The third dead heat of the Lincoln Fields meeting resulted in the opening race. The two choices, the Woolford Farm's Top Billing and Tony Pelleteri's King June dropped their noses on the wire together, which resulted in a split payoff.

The sprint was for maiden juveniles so both colts had the honor of graduating together. Top Billing was the top choice and led most of the trip, with Buddy Haas in the saddle. King June, ridden by Sammy Roberts, was closest all the way, and moving up on the outside, earned a dead heat in the last jump. The race was run in 1:12 4-5 for the six furlongs and Top Billing paid $2.40 to win, with tickets on King June worth $3.20.

Homer Dick of Hammond, the defending champion, captured first honors in the Legion trapshoot with 96 out of 100 at 16 yards and 47 out of 50 at 23 yards in the handicap event.

BY BOB BECKER.

Where does the purple martin spend his time after leaving Chicagoland? This is the question that F. F. Blossom of Peoria, Ill., puts on our desk at a time when the martins are starting their southward migration. Mr. Blossom writes:

"I am a devotee of the purple martin. He arrives in Illinois in April and leaves in August. I am interested in trying to find out where he spends the rest of his time. I would like to know in which direction he goes in early August, after leaving Illinois. Any information which you may be able to give me regarding my favorite bird will be greatly appreciated."

The martins and other members of the swallow family in this general area migrate slowly toward the Gulf of Mexico. All of these birds like water so the Mississippi river is a big natural flyway for thousands of them. On our trip through the Hennepin canal and down the Missippi river last fall we saw thousands of martins and swallows along the water. Several of the towns along the river seemed to have been chosen for big gatherings of martins, which were feeding in noisy flocks. But the number of these birds in any one spot was dwarfed by the tremendous flocks of swallows. We saw one flock of these birds over a sand bar that must have had several thousand birds in it.

Here in Illinois the Kankakee and the Illinois rivers are natural flyways for our martins. There always is more food around a body of water late in the fall so the birds know what they are doing when they stick close to these flyways. To the north of us Lake Winnebago is a popular meeting place for martins and other members of the swallow family. Every August thousands of these birds gather around the lake. Many are killed by automobiles on the highways close to the lake.

Actually the purple martin can't spend very much time in South America, as it is late before the birds shove off across the water for their flight into Brazil. They are known to reach Texas and the gulf coast late in February to begin their slow march northward. As far as is known, some of the birds are believed to be in the Amazon country during the winter.

CAUTIVO, on the inside throughout and lightly restrained for a half mile, held on with determination after working his way to the front, but just lasted. LAUERMAN, forced to lose ground throughout and receiving a hustling ride, held on gamely and might have got up in another stride.

Time, :23 1-5, :46 2-5, 1:11 4-5, 1:37 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Jokester, $8.00 straight, $3.20 place, $2.80 show; Heart Break, $3.00 place, $2.60 show; Two Sons, $5.60 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:51. At post 4 minutes.

JOKESTER, racing in his best form and away fast, made the pace under steady restraint to the final three-sixteenths, came away when straightened after having swerved out on the stretch turn and had something left. HEART BREAK, fractious at the post and placed outside the stalls for the start, was reserved off the pace under strong restraint, went out on the stretch turn and, closing well when straight, wore down TWO SONS in the last few strides. Latter, on the inside throughout, was under stout pressure the final quarter, weakened in the late stages and pulled up lame.

PRUM, taken back repeatedly while being reserved off the pace, raced around the leaders with a rush when urged, swerved to the inside in the final eighth and, holding on well when straight, withstood CONRAD MANN'S bid. Latter, improved and forced to race wide throughout, began to better his position after a half mile, stood a drive gamely and barely failed to get up.

MISS SAXON, kept on the inside when racing under restraint the first three-quarters, responded when urged and, holding on well after wearing down TIMBERLINE, withstood the rush of OUR COUNT. The latter, cut off by SIR MIDAS on the first turn and slow to respond when called upon after reaching the last five-sixteenths, came with a rush in the last three-sixteenths and was wearing down the winner. WATERSPLASH, receiving a badly judged ride and taken to the inside after a quarter, was eased back on the second turn, moved up directly behind TIMBERLINE in the stretch, had to be eased in the final eighth and came again after getting through.

VEEKS, rated under restraint for three-quarters, responded when shaken up and came away in the last three-sixteenths, but returned to pressure in the final eighth, won with little left. WHICHAWAY, far back for three-quarters, came to the outside in the stretch and closed with a rush.

REDRESS, slow to begin, began to move up fast when racing wide on the second turn, easily disposed of LE MISERABLE and bore out when coming away in the final eighth. LE MISERABLE made the pace under restraint for seven-eighths, went gamely under urging thereafter, though no match for the winner.

Starcevich Goes West to Football Fame

Although probably unaware at the time of Horace Greeley's famous dictum, Max Starcevich went west to gain All-American honors as a guard on the University of Washington's football team.

Max, who will be in the College All-Star's starting lineup tomorrow night in the game with Green Bay Packers at Soldiers' field, was born in Centerville, Ia., but attended high school in Duluth, Minn., and at Englewood High school in Chicago.

One of Greatest.

The stubby 185 pounder developed into one of the greatest linemen on the coast. Possessed of great strength, probably as a result of his annual summer job in a South Chicago steel mill, Starcevich played a leading rôle in Washington's march to the Pacific coast championship and the Rose Bowl.

During his sophomore year Max was understudy to Chuck Muncha, another Chicago boy who was a member of the 1935 College All-Star squad. For the last two years, however, Starcevich, a Croat, has been a regular in the Huskies line.

In the Stanford game last fall Max and Vic Markov, another Croat on the Washington team, addressed each other in their native tongue, giving each other instructions on various plays. Near the close of the game, Firko, Stanford guard, who had been giving the pair considerable difficulty all afternoon, called over, "How're things going, boys?" in Croatian.

On His Honeymoon.

The trip east for the All-Star game is in the nature of a honeymoon for Max as he was married five weeks ago to Esther Aune, a Washington co-ed. Max, who graduated from the school of education where he majored in history and political science, will teach social sciences in the Seattle public schools.

During his four years at Washington he maintained a B average in his studies. He was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity; the Oval club, upper classmen's service organization; Fir Tree, senior men's service organization, and the W club.

HOUSTON TO PLAY FORT SILL TODAY FOR FINALS BERTH

The Houston Huisaches polo team which Sunday won the inter-circuit championship will seek to advance to the final round today for another title at the Oak Brook Polo club on field No. 2, York road and 25th street.

The Houston team meets the United States artillery team of Fort Sill, Okla. in today's semi-final of the 12 goal tournament. Houston defeated Fort Sill Sunday to win the inter-circuit polo title.

Unlike the inter-circuit tournament, played on a handicap basis, the 12 goal rules provide that contenders start from scratch. Fort Sill carries the maximum rating while the Huisaches are an eleven goal team.

Also on today's schedule following the Houston-Ford Sill match is a contest between Santa Barbara, Cal. and Oak Brook in the Byfield Memorial tournament.

the passing of Sammy Baugh and numerical strength of replacements.

The coaching staf still is worried over a way to stop the Green Bay air attack. This was the principal theme at yesterday's morning workout at Dyche stadium under a blistering sun. For two hours the boys repeated the back field shifts by which they hope to check the Packers. It was a laboratory test for the lectures Sunday morning and yesterday morning.

At the same time, detailed plans for receiving kickoffs were taken up and blocking assignments made. Without the advantage of a tee for the kickoff the Packers' kicker probably cannot reach the goal line with his best effort. The pros are accustomed to the use of a tee.

A new formation was given the All-Americans yesterday. This is designed to take advantage of the passing and running ability of Sammy Baugh and others who will fill the left half back position. This formation should give Baugh a chance to get away. If it doesn't, it will be because of indifferent blocking, or because the Packer linemen charge through too rapidly.

It's Like Home to Ray.

The same plays Baugh is expected to use also can be executed by Ray Buivid of Marquette. Buivid may be the dark horse of tomorrow night's game. Emphasis has been placed on Baugh. His team mates chose him captain. The coaches agreed unanimously he was the best triple threat player on the squad. But when opportunity comes, watch Buivid.

On this same Soldiers' field last autumn Buivid turned in a great exhibition of individual football. He helped Marquette whip St. Mary's by racing more than half the field on one play for a touchdown and scoring again when he intercepted a pass by the Gaels and avoided all pursuers.

Tomorrow's game, granted favorable weather conditions, should be wide open football from the first play to the last. From present indications another throng of 80,000 will see the annual battle. All $3.30 and $2.20 tickets have been sold for many days. There are, however, 10,000 $1.10 seats which will go to the first comers. Although these are not between the goal lines, they do afford a view of a game you cannot afford to miss.

They Wind Up Today.

The All-Americans will work out for the last time this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Dyche stadium. The squad will not move to the loop until tomorrow afternoon and then only to leave their baggage at a hotel and continue to Soldiers' field.

The rival coaches and the officials will meet tomorrow at noon to discuss the rules for the game. Although several points were agreed on two weeks ago, it is believed the college coaches wish to alter their position on the dead ball rule. If the college rule is adopted in its entirety no ball carrier who touches the ground with any portion of his body other than his hands and knees can advance farther. The tentative agreement provided that the runner could get up and continue if his nearest opponent was at least ten yards away.

70 READY FOR LAKE ONTARIO'S MARATHON SWIM

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A field of 70 long distance swimmers will take to Lake Ontario's choppy waters tomorrow in the annual Canadian National exhibition's swimming marathon.

In a medical examination today 65 competitors including Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, last year's winner, passed and five more are expected to be okayed for the ten mile grind.

Pritchard was the favorite in the betting tonight.

Perennial starter, blind Michael Hambourg, Toronto, was pronounced fit for the race as was Ilo Sanbe of Two Harbors, who came up to the tent on crutches. His legs, he explained, have been useless for walking since an infantile paralysis attack when he was 18 months old.

Unoccupied Belmont Park Stable Destroyed by Fire

Hempstead, N. Y., Aug. 31 Tuesday].—(AP)—Fire destroyed an unoccupied stable early today at Belmont Park, fashionable racing plant on Long Island, with a loss which track officials estimated at $1,200. Many valuable horses were quartered in nearby stables, but firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to the other buildings.

Polish Woman Star Will Play at Lake Forest

Word that Miss Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, Poland's No. 1 woman player, will play in the international tennis matches to be held at Onwentsia, Lake Forest, Sept. 14 and 15, was received yesterday by Charles S. Garland, the club's tennis chairman.

Garland also announced that Miss Anita Lizana, women's champion of Chile, and Bobby Riggs, California star, have confirmed their entries.

Other stars entered include Don Budge and Gene Mako, world's doubles champions; Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel, the great German doubles team; Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, and Fraulein Marie Louise Horn, German women's champion.

Budge and Mako will be matched against von Cramm and Henkel in doubles, and Budge and von Cramm will renew their singles feud. Miss Jedrzejowska's entry means that she probably will be matched against Miss Alice Marble who will defend her national title next week at Brookline.

Packers Just Won't Worry About Game

was in direct contrast to that pursued by the Bears and Lions in 1935 and 1936. Physical and manual factors came first. Mental attitude, the emotional priming imperative to competitive success, was left for the last three days in camp. But tonight the squad still showed no sign that it was keyed up.

Coach Is Disappointed.

Although Lambeau has maintained strict secrecy at all workouts the last eight days, it is known now that the last three drills have been disappointing to him and his assistants, Red Smith and Mike Michalske. Assignments formerly carried out with accuracy and dispatch were missed. The players displayed an eagerness to do their individual parts, but snap and smoothness were lacking.

Wednesday night Lambeau said: "If we had played the All-Stars tonight we would have won by two touchdowns."

Today he said, "Go away, I've got troubles."

Some of this indifference may be attributed to the fact that the Packers have been more alone in a town of 40,000 than the Bears and Lions were when cloistered in camps far out in the country. College coaches, old pro players and newspaper reporters, all of whom had watched the All-Stars train, visited the Lions and Bears frequently. They talked All-Stars, painted word pictures of formidable formations and told of the All-Stars' great might.

Visitors Are Barred.

Not one visitor has found his way into the Packer camp. Except for Green Bay friends and fans, who have not helped the situation by harping on 28 to 0 and 35 to 0 victories, the Packers have heard nothing about the All-Stars except what they read in the papers. And the Packers don't believe in newspapers, especially newspapers that say Sammy Baugh is better than Arnie Herber.

The Packere are not chesty. They're just not impressed much—yet. A special car on the 8:30 a. m. Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul train out of here tomorrow will bring the Packers to the Union Station at 1:15 p. m. They will go direct to their hotel and then will be left to their own devices until 8:30 p. m. when they assemble at Soldiers' field for their final drill. Most of them will attend the White Sox game.

Hutson's Hand Ailing.

Don Hutson, pass receiving end, took the splints from his sprained hand today, but after exercising the hand a little, decided they should be put back on. He will start Wednesday's game at his regular left end position, but may be forced to do so with his hand heavily bandaged. This will add another woe to Lambeau's burden. The bandage may hinder Hutson in fielding the long tosses Herber sends spiraling down the field.

Zud Schammel, former Iowa star, who is making his debut as a pro after coaching at Iowa for three years, is the only other casualty. He is troubled with a charley horse, but expects to be ready to play.

Kay Pins Kelley in Mat Feature at White City

Rudy Kay pinned Pat Kelley in 35 minutes last night in a wrestling match at White City. Fred Grubmier and Jack Claybourn wrestled to a 30 minute draw. Abie Kaplan and Frank Weiger also drew in a 30 minute bout, and Frankie Talaber threw Angelo Martini in 15:01.

Greenberg and York Hit Home Runs.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Tigers' two sluggers, Hank Greenberg and Rudy York, started things off, and Charley Gehringer wound them up as Detroit defeated the New York Yankees, 5 to 4, today for an even break in the abbreviated series.

Greenberg hit homer No. 30 with a mate on base in the first inning, and York walloped No. 28 with the bases empty right after him. But it was a single by Charley Gehringer, scoring Gerald Walker from second in the seventh, that really won the ball game.

The defeat shaved the Yanks' American league lead to 11½ games and ended the three game winning streak of Lefty Gomez.

ManfredoEnds Aron's String at 8 Straight

Al Manfredo, Fresno, Cal., welterweight, handed Milt Aron of Dubuque, Ia., his first defeat in more than a year in a ten round bout at Marigold Gardens last night. It snapped Aron's string at eight straight.

The verdict was not unanimous. Referee Davey Miller voted 51—49 and Judge Ed Klein 55—45 for Manfredo, while John Bray, the other judge, scored 52—48 for Aron. Constant clinching by Manfredo marred the action.

Manfredo weighed 150 pounds and Aron 145½.

STEINER WINS TO RETAIN LEAD IN MASTERS' CHESS

Herman Steiner, Los Angeles, scored his fourth straight victory last night to retain his lead in the masters' division of the American Chess federation's tournament at the Congress hotel. Steiner, who apparently has regained the form which seven years ago earned him recognition as an international master, defeated S. S. Cohen, New York, in forty-two moves.

George Treysman and Charles Jaffe, both representing New York City, kept right on the heels of Steiner with victories. During the afternoon session Treysman broke down the stubborn resistance of Harold Morton, New England champion, in fifty-four moves, while Jaffe won during the afternoon against E. W. Marchand, former Harvard star, and drew his evening game with Herman Hahlbohm, Chicago.

Other games in the masters' section resulted as follows: Hahlbohm, 1; Mugridge, 0; Polland, 1; Mugridge, 0; MacMurray, 1; Marchand, 0; Grigorieff vs. Cohen and Grigorieff vs. Morton adjourned.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Vernon Kennedy and the third place White Sox this afternoon will greet the fourth place Boston Red Sox in the first game of a three game series which will include a double-header tomorrow.

The Red Sox are just as covetous of second place as are the White Sox and have little farther to go to attain their goal, as they are only a game behind the Chicagoans as the series gets under way.

The White Sox would like nothing better than to give Boston's platinum boys the same sort of reception they accorded the New Englanders the last time they were here. On that occasion they spanked Joe Cronin's lads four straight.

It's a Very Long Shot.

The betting does not favor any such sweep, however. In the second Sox visit to Boston, in June, the Red Sox took four straight and early this month the Red Sox beat the White Sox three in a row in the Tournament of Morning Glories. In the last game of this series, however, Johnny Whitehead led the White Sox to the end of a seven game losing streak as he pitched a 13 to 0 masterpiece.

Although the Red Sox are behind the second place Detroit Tigers and the third place White Sox in the league standings, they enjoy an edge over both teams in their face to face rivalry. They have won ten and lost eight in Tiger competition and they have beaten the White Sox nine times while losing eight.

Before the week passes the White Sox may have a much better idea of this second, third, and fourth business than they now possess, what with the Tigers to be played in Detroit as soon as they finish with the Red Sox at Comiskey park.

Zeke to Don Uniform.

The White Sox will leave Thursday night for a three game series in Detroit, in which their hope is that they will do as well as they did when they were in Detroit earlier in the month. They won two out of three in Detroit, but when the Tigers came here immediately thereafter the Sox dropped two out of three.

When the Sox open their tour of the western cities on Friday Zeke Bonura will be back in uniform but may not play until the Cleveland or St. Louis series. And Jimmy Dykes, who is heading his team in batting with .378, doubtless will keep his power in the lineup as long as his legs hold out.

Monty Stratton, ace of the pitching staf, who was driven from the mound in the first inning by the Athletics Sunday in his attempted comeback after a layoff with an ailing pitching arm, may be given another chance on the trip. Dykes said yesterday, however, that he fears Monty may be through for the season.

AMATEUR STARS BEGIN WESTERN GOLF PLAY TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Many of the nation's leading amateurs who participated in last week's national tournament at Portland, Ore., came down to southern California today for tomorrow's opening of the western amateur at the Los Angeles Country club.

The thirty-six hole medal test will continue through Wednesday. Match play starts Thursday, concluding with the thirty-six hole final Sunday.

Kelly, who won qualifying honors at Portland with 142, only to be eliminated in the first round of match play, will be playing on the north course of the Los Angeles Country club, his home course, over which he scored a 60 shortly before he went to the national amateur.

Brundage Says 'Foundation' Isn't Olympic Sanctioned

Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic committee, declared yesterday that the proposed "American Olympic foundation," which is reported to have been granted a charter in Illinois for the purpose of building up a permanent fund to defray expenses of United States athletes in future Olympic games, had no sanction from the Olympic committee. Brundage added that he had written the "Foundation" leaders advising them that they were using the word Olympic without authority and that action would be taken if the title wasn't abandoned.

Cubs Watch Giants Take First Place

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Before going back to work tomorrow at Brooklyn, the Cubs did a little sightseeing this afternoon. Almost to the last man they went to the Polo Grounds. They've seen the place before, but nobody could blame 'em for returning on this occasion to watch the Giants play the Reds. They wanted first hand information on the National league pennant race, in which they are vitally concerned.

What they saw was highly displeasing, because it dropped them into second, two percentage points behind the Giants. The New Yorkers' 4 to 3 victory over the Reds brought their percentage up to .607.

The Giants, now that Bill Terry has devised a lineup with power, are on the warpath and bubbling with confidence. You can't deny that the Cubs, having carried the first place burden steadily since July 15, are feeling the strain. They've shown that during the last few weeks in which their original seven game lead melted down like ice on a hot sidewalk. Some of them don't try to conceal that they are fretful. But they are easily cheered up. All they have to be told is that they'll be going home right soon.

35 Games to Go.

Including the three they play at Brooklyn before the current trip comes to a close the Cubs have 35 games to play. Twenty-two of these are on Wrigley field, every team in the league being a visitor at one time or another. The ten foreign games which follow here and there after the return home next Saturday are made up of three at Pittsburgh, the same number at St. Louis, and four at Cincinnati. So far this season the Cubs haven't had any luck in two of these places, so their pennant chances either will be made or broken by what they do on their own premises.

Bill Jurges, who hasn't been physically perfect since he injured his left shoulder on Aug. 7, expects to be on the shortstop job tomorrow at Brooklyn. He went into yesterday's second game figuring he could help the morale and he probably helped it because he is a good tough lad under pressure. There isn't any doubt about him being needed at the present stage of the race, but his defiance of the doctor's orders might prove foolhardy. He's liable to aggravate the injury and put himself out of action for the season. This is what Manager Grimm fears, but knows that he has to take that chance.

Carleton Pitches Opener.

Tex Carleton will pitch tomorrow's opener against the Dodgers and he shouldn't have much trouble if his fellow workers, who have fallen off as hitters, furnish him with a few runs. Carleton shut out the Dodgers when the Cubs were here in July. Curt Davis, who beat the Daffy boys boys in the same series, probably will pitch Wednesday's game and by Thursday Grimm will have four or five men available. The Cubs will have to win two of three from the Dodgers to get an even break on the trip. The record thus far is six victories against seven for the other fellows.

ARMOUR, SHAFFER CARD 68; WIN IN PRO-AMATEUR

Following Tommy and his partner was one of the original Armour proteges, Tony Penna of Itasca and Dayton, O., who collaborated with Dr. John Krizik for a 36—33—69. Next in line were Lew Waldron of Mohawk and John Fitzgerald, 35—35—70; Eddie Williams of Elgin and M. C. Dawson, 35—35—70; Matt Matteson of Ridge and D. F. Davis, 35—36—71; Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake and E. G. Staley, 34—37—71; Tony Jaronick of Bonnie Brook and E. L. Reinke, 36—36—72; Jim Carberry of Waukegan and C. J. McHugh, 37—35—72, and Harry Adams of Elgin and T. F. Charlton, 36—36—72.

WELSH MINERS BOO.

LONDON, Aug. 31—[Tuesday].—(AP)—Welsh miners in Tommy Farr's home town, Tonypandy, today hissed and booed the radio announcement that Joe Louis had beaten the one-time pit boy and then turned to cheering "our Tommy."

Two of Tommy's sisters who heard the broadcast of the New York fight in a smart west end London apartment broke into tears at the decision, then said, "We are proud of him."

Baer Held in Contempt; He's at Title Fight

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Max Baer, former world champion, did not appear in Long Branch, N. J., Magistrate's court tonight to answer a summons served on him Saturday for wearing shorts in the business district there. Thereupon a bench warant was issued for his arrest on a charge of contempt of court.

Baer, who has been in training in Long Branch for his match next month with James J. Braddock, served as a second to his brother, Buddy, in a preliminary bout to the Louis-Farr fight in Yankee stadium.

Gov. Lehman of New York brought a party of almost 50, arriving during the second preliminary. Close behind him was Max Schmeling, accompanied by his manager, Joe Jacobs, who puffed a long cigar. Hardly any one noticed Schmeling as he came in. Jack Dempsey, except for a few huzzahs from those whom he passed, also came in without much notice.

Harry W. Perlman, 54 year old executive of a construction company, collapsed as he watched a preliminary to the heavyweight championship fight and was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital. Doctors said he died of a heart ailment.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine assigned 1,200 police to Harlem to maintain order in the event of demonstrations following the Louis-Farr fight.

Three hundred extra uniformed police were assigned to the West 123d street and West 135th street stations. Of the stations' regular forces, 100 uniformed police were detailed to the Harlem district and 300 plain clothes patrolmen from other precincts were placed throughout the section. The two stations also had an additional detail of 200 detectives and mounted patrolmen.

A collection of fistic notables was introduced before the bout, including Welter Champion Barney Ross, Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, California's Fred Apostoli, and France's Marcel Thil, claimant of the world middleweight crown.

Before the championship bout started it was announced from the ring that a gold belt had been sent over from the London Sporting club and was to be presented to the winner of the bout. The belt was to become the permanent possession of the champion who won it three times in a row. Louis took the belt along with him when he left by plane for Detroit tonight two hours after he had conquered Farr.

He had to look on at a lumbering preliminary squabble which went four rounds, from a seat in the fourth row of the working press section. This unexpected delay did not seem to worry him. He wore a tan dressing gown with the red dragon of Wales embroidered on the back.

In his dressing room after the fight Farr said that Louis was a clean fighter. When told that Louis had injured his right hand in the third round he exclaimed, "He hurt me every time he hit me with it."

Louis Attacks in Fifth.

The fight itself, particularly after Louis injured the mighty right which has brought him many knockouts, didn't amount to much. Louis' best round was the fifth. Just for an instant then it appeared that he was the Brown Bomber of old. He shot a barrage of lefts and rights to Farr's chin and it looked as if the Welshman was going to go to the canvas with his face down. Farr's legs were wabbly but there was no distress in his face. It was a determined snarl.

Louis was trying for a knockout again in the third. His short traveling left opened up the old wound under Farr's eye. From then on Louis centered his attack on Farr's left eye.

In the fourth Louis poked away at Farr's left eye. In an instant he had the new cut open under that eye. At the end of each round thereafter the wounds under both of Farr's eyes had to be patched up.

Louis Rolls Up Points.

Louis gradually rolled up the points even though he was unable to finish his courageous antagonist. Never at any time was Louis in distress. Farr didn't shake the semblance of a knockdown punch out of his gloves from start to finish. But neither did Louis for that matter after the third round.

Many ringsiders discredited the report that Louis was handicapped by a hurt right hand. Their version was that he fought a bad fight and that if Farr could have put power behind his punches he would now be the world's champion.

Germans Beat Budge, Mako; Take U.S. Title

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The third try succeeded for Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel of Germany today as they defeated the defending champions, Don Budge and Gene Mako, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, at Longwood to become the first foreign winners of the national doubles tennis crown since 1919.

Budge and Mako spotted the German stars the first two sets before defeating them in the all-England doubles final and about two weeks later the Americans came from behind again for a four set triumph over Von Cramm and Henkel in a Davis cup interzone finals doubles match.

The reserved but affable Von Cramm was wildly jubilant when he and the 21 year old Henkel carried away the huge silver trophies that were the rewards of their smashing victory over a team that was rated as the greatest in amateur tennis.

Budge Lauds Germans.

"We were not any worse than we were at Wimbledon," Budge explained. "The baron and Henner were just too good for us."

Von Cramm and Henkel promised to return next year and defend their laurels.

Budge's explanation, however, did not coincide with the facts revealed by the recapitulation of the stroke analysis, which placed the blame on Mako for the American team's crushing defeat.

The defeat was the first Budge and Mako have suffered since Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of Australia outplayed them in the 1936 North American zone final at Philadelphia and the third since they lost to Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn here in the 1935 national doubles final.

Von Cramm and Henkel are the first foreign winners of this event since Australia's great Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson dethroned Bill Tilden and Vinnie Richards 18 years ago and the third successful visitors in the tourney's history. The title was taken abroad for the first time in 1902 by England's famous Doherty brothers, who returned the following year and successfully defended it.

Defending Champions Fall.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge and Alice Marble, the national singles queen, became the women's doubles champions by turning back last year's winners, Mrs. John Van Ryn and Carolin Babcock, 7—5, 6—4.

R. L. and Laird Watt of Montreal won their third father-son title since 1933 by overcoming the 1936 titleholders, W. J. Clothier Jr. and II., Philadelphia, 6—4, 7—5. The elder Clothier and Dwight F. Davis, donor of the prized international trophy, were forced to surrender their veterans titles to L. W. Baker, Washington, and J. G. McKay, Miami, by a 6—3, 4—6, 6—2 margin.

COUNTY AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY TO OPEN TOMORROW

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Park district today prepares for two of its most important golf events of the season, the Cook county amateur championship, and the annual tug-o-war tournament. The amateur event will open tomorrow at the Marquette park links with a qualifying round in which the low 32 scorers will become eligible for the match play rounds. These will be transacted in double battles of eighteeen holes each on Thursday and Friday, with the championship match on Saturday scheduled for 36 holes. The entry fee is $1, plus regular greens fees. Entries will be accepted at the tee tomorrow morning from 8 a. m. until 2 p. m.

The tug-o-war event, inaugurated last year for the purpose of matching north and south side swingers, will begin next Sunday at the Jackson park and Waveland avenue courses with an eighteen hole qualifying round. The Jackson park round is open to all amateurs living south of Madison street, while those residing north of Madison will fight it out at Waveland. The low 20 scorers at each course will then meet for the sectional title at Waveland avenue on the afternooon of Sept. 12. The entry fee is $1, plus regular greens fees. Each member of the winning team will be presented with a medal, and the 20 man group with the lower gross will be awarded a trophy by the park district. Entries should be mailed to Tom Walsh, Room 228, Administration building, Burnham park, Chicago.

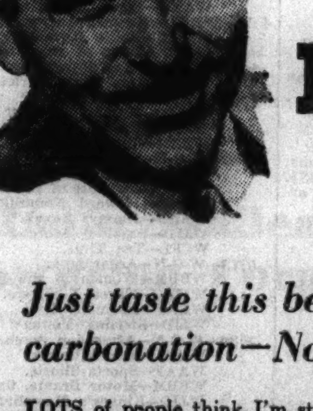
It looked like I was wasting months of time by not using machine-age methods to get our beer on the market. by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Brewmaster



We Could Use Sugars or Syrups in Brewing
BUT WE REFUSED

And now more people in this vicinity drink our bottled beer than any other

Just taste this beer charged with Natural Draft Beer carbonation—Non-biting—Not "Heady" or "Gassy"

LOTS of people think I'm stiff-necked because I insist on making MEISTER BRÄU Beer the way I made it 'way back in 1906. They say I could save time and money with new methods—that the public today doesn't know the difference.

So now I want to tell my side. Because I know there still are those who remember the old-time brews. And wonder why good beer is not so easy to find today.

We could save time by adding sugar or syrups. But that makes a sweet beer.

We could save money by using a cheaper grade of hops. But that makes a raw beer. It tastes bitter.

Then we could save both time and money by boiling extra long. That saves cleaning the Malt and Hops because the chaff is boiled away. But it also boils the life out of the beer.

We cut the boiling time in half because we insist our Malt and Hops are cleaned like a food for your table. It takes many extra hours. But keeps the zest, flavor, and sparkle in the brew. The life and foam in MEISTER BRÄU Beer are created in the beer itself, like in Draft Beer. Hence MEISTER BRÄU in bottles or cans has the true draft beer flavor.

Please compare this beer with others. It's now obtainable in this vicinity in cans or bottles. You'll be glad we cling to old-time methods.

EDGAR M. SNOW, VETERAN REALTY DEALER, 80, DEAD

Edgar Morton Snow, for more than sixty years active in the real estate business in Chicago, died last night in the Highland Park hospital. He lived at 242 Prospect avenue and would have been 81 years old next month.

Mr. Snow came to Chicago in 1870 and began his real estate business three years later, operating under his own name since 1892. He joined the Chicago Real Estate board as a charter member and served on many of its important committees. He also was a vice president of the board. He also served as an official of other organizations and was a director of the Chicago Title and Trust company.

Born at Whately, Mass., he came of Mayflower stock, and was descended from the families that produced Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry W. Longfellow, William Cullen Bryant, and Melville W. Fuller. A few years ago Mr. Snow wrote his own obituary—a straight, simple sketch of his career. He is survived by his widow, May, and two children, Edgar Jr. and Florence May.

W. A. PRIDMORE FUNERAL TODAY; REALTY EXPERT

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at Forest Home cemetery chapel for William A. Pridmore, 68 years old, retired real estate operator and authority, who died Friday while visiting friends in Lake Geneva, Wis. His home recently was at Mackinac Island. The Rev. Calvin Buck, of the Church of the Atonement, will officiate.

Mr. Pridmore was considered one of the city's leading authorities on real estate, especially on South Michigan avenue properties. He negotiated many sales for the Field estate, the University of Chicago, and Northwestern university. He retired three years ago.

Surviving Mr. Pridmore are his widow, Blanche, two children, William and Martha; a sister, Mrs. Z. E. Martin, and two brothers, Edmund Wells Pridmore, retired contractor, and J. E. O. Pridmore, architect. Mr. Pridmore was a native of Birmingham, England.

MRS. K. C. HOUSE FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at Our Lady Help of Christians church for Mrs. Katherine C. House, 76 years old, who died Sunday at her home, 1120 North Lockwood avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. She was the widow of Frank J. House, who until his death in 1918 operated a cooperage business on the west side.

Mrs. House was brought to Chicago from Troy, N. Y., by her parents when she was a baby. She was a witness to the beginning of the Chicago fire, which she contended was started by a gay crowd at the O'Leary home, which accidentally upset a lantern into the hay in the barn.

Surviving are three daughters, Laurine and Ruth House, who lived with Mrs. House, and Mrs. Adeline Knight.

Mrs. Auguste Henrici Dies; Coffee Merchant's Widow

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at Coloma for Mrs. Auguste Henrici, 70 years old, who was killed in an auto accident Sunday. Mrs. Henrici was the widow of Ferdinand H. Henrici, Chicago coffee merchant.

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If the world series is broadcast this season some one other than Henry Ford will pay the bill. Ford has sponsored the series for three seasons over the major networks. One report is that he turned it down this time because the baseball interests sought more than the $100,000 he is reputed to have paid in other years for exclusive broadcasting privileges.

Ford's Universal Rhythm show will be dropped when the Sunday Evening Symphonic hour returns on Sept. 12 [8 p. m. over WBBM-CBS]. There are further reports that the budget for distinguished guests on this program has been pared. However, John Charles Thomas, the great baritone, will be soloist on the opening show and José Iturbi will direct the 75 piece orchestra for the first eight concerts.

The General Motors concerts are to return Oct. 3 [9 p. m. over WMAQ—NBC] somewhat altered in complexion. Though there are to be guest soloists and instrumentalists from time to time a permanent concert company of eight or more great singing voices is to be formed and used regularly on this hour. Members of the company will perform exclusively on this hour so far as radio is concerned. With a permanent company available a full concert season can be planned and prepared with adequate rehersal periods weeks ahead. That is not always possible when noted guest soloists are used.

Aside to Fred Waring: Your W-G-N-Mutual listeners—several of them, at least—are requesting more glee club numbers. Of course it is difficult when playing a dance engagement as you are at the Drake to do much of this type of work. But how about a little more?

In Chicago it's news when a new sponsored show that is not another dramatic serial goes on the air. Therefore we do a little attention calling to the new variety hour, Aunt Jemima on the Air, bowing in over WMAQ-NBC at 8:45 a. m. today from local studios. Harriette Widmer plays the lead. There are several musical features including Noble Cain's chorus; Sammy Williams colored instrumental group, and songs by Roy Brower. Forrest Lewis and Vance McCune, as a new blackface duo, are to provide the comedy interludes.

Top five shows on the air this month, according to the best known radio survey, are Maj. Bowes, W. C. Fields-Edgar Bergan and company, Rudy Vallee, Burns and Allen, and Hollywood Hotel, in the order named. Two surprising things in this list—the fact that Maj. Bowes' popularity is again climbing steadily at the expense of Show Boat opposite it, and the Charlie McCarthy and Bergen and company have jumped into second place after only four months on the air.

IF YOU HAVE ATHLETE'S FOOT ...READ THESE FACTS!
NOT A GERM ... BUT A DANGEROUS FUNGUS

Why wait until it spreads to other parts of your body or infects members of your family or friends?

Your doctor will tell you that ordinary germicides and antiseptics are worthless for treating Athlete's Foot. It is a fungus. Nothing has stopped it—effectively and always—until a chemist created 3XB. Back of 3XB is a 7-year record of unfailing success. Introduced in 1930, physicians, hospitals and institutions quickly discovered its marvelous effectiveness. They now regard it as the one standard treatment for Athlete's Foot. Athletic directors and trainers, skeptical at first, now use 3XB exclusively.

3XB stops the itching instantly. And in 7 to 15 days the fungus is destroyed! Thousands write that 3XB cleared up their Athlete's Foot—often with just one application—after x-ray treatments, skin specialists and all common remedies had failed. 3XB costs $1.00 a bottle—a low price for sure relief.

3XB ATHLETE'S FOOT

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE!
Get 3XB at your drug store or by mail. If not absolutely satisfied, return used bottle and your money will be refunded in full. The 3XB Corp., 370 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

Sold by A. G. Spalding & Bros., Walgreen, Liggett's, Whelan's, Servise, Stineway and other drug stores.

LOANS, SUBSIDY FIXED IN COTTON CONTROL PLAN

Growers Complying to Get Bounty.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The government late today announced plans to make loans of 7¾ to 9 cents a pound on this year's cotton crop and to pay subsidies not exceeding 3 cents a pound to producers complying with the production control program planned for next year by federal officials.

The Commodity Credit corporation, which will extend the loans, said that subsidies will be paid on only 65 per cent of this year's basic acreage. Subsidy payments will not be made, the corporation said, until next year when producers actually have complied with the control program.

Rates of Loans Fixed.

The rate of the loans will be 9 cents a pound on cotton classing ⅞ inch middling or better, it was said. Eight cents a pound will be loaned on 13-16 inch staple middling or better in grade, and 7¾ cents will be loaned on ⅞ inch staple less than middling grade.

The corporation said that no loans will be made on ⅞ inch cotton or better of a grade not deliverable on contract under regulations of the New York and New Orleans Cotton exchanges, and no loans will be made on 13-16 inch cotton under middling grade.

The interest rate for the loans will be 4 per cent and the date of maturity for all loans will be July 31, 1938.

Must Follow Federal Program.

Each producer-borrower must agree to comply with the production control program next year to be eligible for a loan.

Cotton eligible for loans must be stored in warehouses approved by the Commodity Credit corporation. The loans will be made, it was said, as soon as necessary arrangements can be made, but not later than Sept. 15. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has authorized a loan of $150,000,000 to the Commodity Credit corporation for the cotton loan program.

Under terms of the cotton subsidy plan, cotton producers who sell holdings prior to July 1, 1938, will on proof of compliance with the 1938 control program be paid the difference between 12 cents a pound and the average price of ⅞ inch middling cotton on 10 cash markets on the day of sale. No subsidy, however, will be more than 3 cents a pound, the corporation said.

May Increase Subsidy Base.

Congress authorized Wallace to use $130,000,000 for a cotton price adjustment payment program for the 1937 crop. If the subsidy payments on 65 per cent of the 1937 base production do not equal the $130,000,000 appropriated for this purpose, payments will be made on a larger proportion of the base production, Wallace said.

Steps toward arrangement of the cotton loans were made during the closing days of congress when the price of cotton fell sharply on reports of excellent crop prospects.

An agreement between the White House and congressional leaders resulted in an understanding that President Roosevelt would approve loans on this year's crop in return for a promise of crop control legislation when congress reconvenes either in a special session this fall or the regular session in January.

WALGREEN TAKES LEASE FOR STORE IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Leasing of a site in the shipping and financial district of New Orleans for 50 years by the Walgreen company, Chicago, at a total rental of approximately $2,000,000 was announced Monday. The lease involves the demolition of the building now on the site, and the erection of a modern three or four story building. The lease is effective Oct. 1.

Owners of the site are the Beer Realty company, of which Henry C. Kaplan, New York, is president. The property, now used as an office building, formerly was the home of the Chess, Checkers, and Whist club.

The Walgreen Drug company has stores in Shreveport, Monroe, Alexandria, and Baton Rouge. It is understood the company plans to add five or six other stores to form a New Orleans chain later.

I. C. C. Halts Higher Motor Rates on Several Articles

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission suspended today until Nov. 28 proposed increases on motor freight rates on acids, chemicals, drugs, and toilet preparations shipped between Indianapolis, Ind., and Chicago. The proposals, which were to have been effective today, would have increased the rates from 25 cents to 31 cents per 100 pounds.

Grains Erase Early Losses; Close Mixed

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.06¼	$1.06¼	$1.08¼
Corn	.62½	.62½	.92⅝
Oats	.29⅛	.29	.42⅜
Rye	.76½	.76¼	.79⅝
Soy Beans	.92½	.93⅝	....

Grain prices moved lower in early trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, but subsequently erased most of the losses and in some instances final quotations were higher on the day. September corn closed 3¼ cents higher net.

The early decline carried all deliveries of wheat and soy beans and December and May corn to new low levels for the season. October corn was an exception, the later trend falling 4 cents a bushel to 72 cents, where it finished.

Light Foreign Demand.

Weakness in Liverpool and continued light European demand for American wheat was largely responsible for the initial decline of 1⅛ cents a bushel. Short covering developed later in sympathy with a rally in Winnipeg and the close was practically unchanged from Saturday. The Canadian market gained ½ to 3 cents a bushel.

September corn was bought by shorts and closed 3¼ cents higher at 97½ cents a bushel. New crop months rallied in sympathy and finished practically unchanged. Price changes in oats and rye were confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel. Soy beans declined ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel.

Speculative interest was the lightest in many weeks and even small orders caused rather sharp price changes.

Visible Supply Rises.

An increase of 6,353,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply of wheat raised the total to 123,172,000 bushels, the largest since January 1934. With the exception of the 1929-'33 period when government operations were a factor, the holding is the largest on record at this season of the year. Stocks a year ago totaled 78,445,000 bushels.

Weather and crop reports on corn were favorable. The Baldwin Elevator company of Decatur, Ill., reported the crop in the central part of the state is so far advanced that dry weather would be most favorable for maturing the crop.

SILVER RALLIES IN LONDON AFTER RECENT DECLINE

Making its first advance in more than a week, the price of bar silver in London yesterday advanced 3-16 pence to 19⅝ pence [43.27 cents] an ounce. Bar silver had fallen to successive new lows for the current movement on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The advance was attributed to reduced offerings on the market, particularly in offerings from India.

The foreign exchange market was quiet, with the dollar somewhat weaker. The British pound sterling started lower, but later advanced on increased commercial demand and buying against purchases of gold and silver in London. The close was at 4.97¼, up 9-16 cent. The French franc closed at 3.74¼, up .00375 cent.

The engagement of $1,847,000 gold in England for shipment to this country was reported to the New York Federal Reserve bank. Of this amount $364,000 was purchased yesterday in London and $1,483,000 on some previous day.

BIG FLOUR MILLS ARE CITED UNDER NEW PATMAN ACT

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Washburn Crosby company, Pillsbury Flour mills, Red Star Milling company, Consolidated Flour mills, and Kansas Milling company were among companies cited today by federal trade commission for alleged violation of the Robinson-Patman act.

Quality Bakers of America, Inc., New York, a trade association, and about seventy wholesale bakeries that are members of the association also were cited in the case.

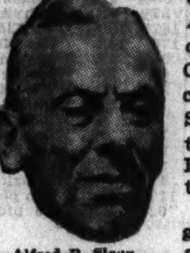
A. P. SLOAN PREDICTS ADDITIONAL BOOST IN AUTOMOBILE PRICES

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A further increase in automobile prices was predicted today by Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of the General Motors corporation. Sloan, who returned from a European vacation today, said:



Alfred P. Sloan.

"Prices had to go up. They probably will have to go up further. The increase in price is justified by the increase in materials and wages."

He said it was "reasonable to suppose that the increase in prices will affect the volume of sales somewhat, but this cannot alter the fact that prices will have to rise."

He was asked if he had any estimate of a price increase in the coming year and replied:

"I can't tell just how much the rise will be. I am sure there will be a further increase with the introduction of the 1938 models."

DALLAS RESERVE BANK RATE CUT GETS APPROVAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The federal reserve board announced today its approval of a reduction in the discount rate of the Dallas reserve bank from 2 to 1½ per cent. This reduction follows similar reductions of one-half of one per cent each by the reserve banks in Chicago, Atlanta, Minneapolis, New York, and Richmond.

The reduction is designed to encourage commercial banks in the districts affected to retain their holdings of United States government bonds and borrow on them from the reserve banks, if necessary, rather than sell them if and when they need funds to accommodate borrowers during the crop moving season.

Reserve board officials said today they expected reductions by other reserve banks which have not yet acted. No cuts have yet been ordered by the banks at San Francisco, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia, or Boston.

All the nation's leading air transport companies now are participants in the air express division of the Railway Express Agency.

T. W. A. some years ago was a member of the Railway Express group, but withdrew to set up its own General Air Express which was operated as a division. T. W. A. was reported to have been dissatisified with the division of business under the original Railway Express setup. The differences are now reported to have been cleared up and General Air Express is to be discontinued, effective tomorrow.

U. S. Loan Cost Rises Despite 'Easy Money'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The rate paid by the treasury on its short term discount bills advanced sharply in connection with the sale today of a combined offering of about $100,000,000 of bills with 273 days and 110 days maturity. This occurred regardless of the easy money policy of the board of governors of the federal reserve system in approving of the reduction of the discount rate of the New York Federal Reserve bank to 1 per cent and of the reduction by the Chicago bank and some of the others from 2 to 1½ per cent.

On the 273 day bills the best bids represented 0.500 per cent per annum on a bank discount basis and the average rate paid was 0.615 per cent, as compared with 0.524 per cent a week ago and 0.459 per cent two weeks ago. The peak rate paid in recent months was 0.738 per cent on May 4.

High Offers Are Lacking.

On the 110 day bills sold today there were no high offers of 100 such as have been received in small amounts in recent weeks on the very short term issues, and the average price paid by the treasury today rose sharply to 0.422 per cent, compared with 0.332 per cent on an issue of 117 day bills one week ago and 0.216 per cent on 122 day bills two weeks ago.

The advance in the cost to the treasury in the sale of its bills in face of action to bring about continuance of easy money market conditions has proved something of a surprise to some officials here. The tenders received today had been invited to two series for which $226,780,000 was applied for and $100,100,000 was accepted.

For the 273 day bills, the bids ranged from a high of 99.621, the equivalent of 0.500 per cent on a bank discount basis, to a low of 99.518, equivalent to 0.636 per cent, and the average price was 99.534, or 0.615 per cent.

For the 110 day bills the bids ranged from a high of 99.921, equivalent to 0.259 per cent, to a low of 99.860, or 0.458 per cent, and the average price paid was 99.871, or 0.422 per cent.

Of the proceeds $50,000,000 will be used to meet maturing bills and the remainder will go to supplement the treasury's general fund.

Building Material Prices 11 Pct. Above Year Ago

Building material prices were 11 per cent higher last month than in July, 1936, according to statistics compiled by the home loan bank board. With 1926 building material prices equal to 100, the price index for July, 1937, was 97, against 87 a year ago.

BACHE DEFENDS TAX AVOIDANCE THROUGH HOLDING COMPANIES

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Jules S. Bache, financier and head of the brokerage house of J. S. Bache & Co., said today that as long as the federal law permits personal holding companies "they are justified" as a means of tax avoidance. Returning from a European visit, Bache said when asked about the action of the treasury department in bringing his own Canadian holding company up for scrutiny before the United States senate:

J. S. Bache.

"As long as the law permits holding companies they are justified. When the law no longer permits them they will not be justified. When gentlemen are only doing legal things the government has no right to question them."

Discussing stock market conditions, Bache said, "Every one I know of is afraid of a deluge of European owned securities. I can't see any other reason for the decline of the market in the last month."

He said he held this view because the "European owner of American securities can't afford to pay their taxes and ours too. If they do, they have nothing left."

PROFITS DROP FOR NATIONAL BELLAS HESS

Earnings Reduced by Labor Troubles.

National Bellas Hess, Inc., mail order company with principal office in Kansas City, yesterday reported a sharp drop in profit for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1937, to $19,957, or 1 cent a common share, from $173,808 or 11 cents a share, in the preceding year. Continental Motors and several other concerns reported improved earnings.

Carl D. Berry, president of National Bellas Hess, attributed the slump in earnings to labor difficulties, higher labor costs and restriction of time payment sales due to deferment of financing plans because of unsatisfactory market conditions.

Labor Troubles Delay Catalog.

Labor difficulties delayed printing of the company's catalog, Berry said, and as a result "a considerable part of the Easter trade was irretrievably lost." The delayed financing plan called for public offering of $1,000,000 in preferred stock which the stockholders approved in February.

Continental Motor corporation, producer of internal combustion engine and other products for a number of industries, earned $53,463 after depreciation for the quarter ended July 31, third quarter of the company's fiscal year. In the corresponding 1936 quarter the coroporation lost $53,848. Profit for the nine months ended July 31 was $88,080 after depreciation, compared with loss of $159,025 in the nine months ended July 31, 1936.

Grant Chain Earns Less.

The W. T. Grant company, variety chain concern, reported a moderate decline in profit for the six months ended July 31 to $1,394,976, or $1.16 a common share, from the $1.448.978 or $1.21 a share earned in the first half of 1936.

McLellan Stores, also a variety chain company, reported profit for 12 months ended July 31 of $1,275,901, or $1.49 a common share, a small increase over the $1,225,114, or $1.42 a share, earned in the previous 12 months. Sales for the 1937 periods were $22,790,730, against $20,776,493 in the previous year.

The Automatic Washer company reported earnings for six months ended June 30 of $42,712, compared wtih $3,572 in the first half of last year. The company will have an accumulation of $14.08 a share in unpaid dividends on the preferred stock as of Aug. 31, 1937.

Oil Concern Does Better.

Robert S. Kerr, president of Kerlyn Oil company, reported that the company earned $266,512, or 41 cents a share on the combined class A and B stock. In the preceding year the concern earned $70,596.

The Binks Manufacturing company, producer of paint sprayers, water coolers and other products, earned $101,352 or 94 cents a share on 107,744 shares of common stock in the six months ended June 30. In the six months ended June 30, 1936, net income was $47,861, or 51 cents a share on 96,637 shares outstanding at the end of the period.

The Lakey Foundry and Machine company, Muskegon, Mich., had profit of $62,166 in the quarter ended July 31, compared with profit of $1,250 in the corresponding period last year.

Banks Ignore Reduction in Reserve Rate

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Despite the fact that the federal reserve board's current series of alterations in the discount rates of the various reserve banks has brought these rates to the lowest levels in the history of the twenty year old reserve system neither the American public nor foreign financiers appear to be taking the changes very seriously.

The discount rate is the interest rate charged by the central banks on loans to the commercial banks belonging to the reserve system. The reserve banks in Chicago, Atlanta, Minneapolis, New York, Richmond, and Dallas have each reduced their discount rates one-half of one per cent. New York reserve bank, the largest and most important of the twelve, now is charging the unprecedentedly low rate of one per cent.

Dollar Fails to Respond.

Normally a reduction in the American bank rate causes the American dollar to weaken against the currencies of other nations in foreign exchange transactions. The reserve board began its wave of rate reductions more than a week ago, but to date there has been no appreciable weakening of the dollar in the world's markets.

Foreign financiers, like their contemporaries on this side of the Atlantic, quickly discerned that the move was made seemingly in the hope of producing the proper psychological effect among bankers and investors at a time when the treasury is about to launch its billion dollar September financing. Banks have been little affected by the reductions because they are borrowing almost nothing from the reserve banks. One per cent of almost nothing isn't much less than one and one-half per cent of almost nothing.

Brand Program Inconsistent.

According to a Dow-Jones dispatch yesterday the London News Chronicle appraised the Washington cheaper money move, as follows:

"Washington wants two inconsistent things—lower interest rates for itself and higher interest rates for everybody else."

A leading article in the London Financial Times pointed out that "the psychological effect of a renewed effort to prolong cheap money conditions can be only temporary, for in the long run commercial conditions must compel the long term rate of interest to rise. Roosevelt is in a tangled monetary policy which insists on preventing a boom and at the same time keeping money cheap."

Bankers See New Departure.

Chicago bankers, after a week's study of the latest "planned money" move, yesterday appeared to be convinced that the reduction in the discount rates, instead of being part of a well considered and carefully formulated program, represented a distinct departure from the plan that the treasury and the reserve board have been trying to follow since late in 1936.

For many months the Washington monetary authorities have been trying to tighten money rates by reducing the excess idle funds of the commercial banks through increases in legal reserves and by "sterilizing" imports of gold to prevent the gold from adding to excess reserves. In the middle of this program the reserve board suddenly has reversed itself for the sake of expediency in order to help the treasury market its forthcoming new offering of securities. "Planned money" is now going in two opposite directions at the same time.

Business Failures Last Week Show Slight Gains

Business failures in the United States for the week ended Aug. 26 totaled 155, against 150 a week earlier and 138 in the same week last year, Dun & Bradstreet reported yesterday.

STOCKS RALLY SHARPLY, BUT TRADING IS DULL

Steel, Motor, Farm Shares Lead Way.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Stock prices advanced fractions to about 3 points today under the leadership of steels, motors and farm equipments. Rails gained up to a point or more and utilities worked fractionally higher. Trading was extremely light, totaling only 455,130 shares.

Encouraged by more optimistic reports from the steel trade, buyers bid for steel shares at higher prices. The United States Steel common was the forerunner in the division, rising to 110⅝ for a 2 pint net gain. Inland Steel jumped 3 points on a nominal turnover, and Bethlehem, Republic, Crucible, and Youngstwn ran up a fraction to more than 1 point.

Railroad shares, notably New York Central, received better support at higher quotations. That stock added ⅞ point. Atchison worked 1⅛ points higher.

Utilities Are Steadier.

Utilities, while neglected for the most part, turned in a steadier performance, many issues appearing on the tape at fractionally higher prices. Among them were such favorites as Consolidated Edison, North American, Standard Gas and Electric and Electric Power and Light.

Non-ferrous metal shares, after showing a backward tendency following the dip in the price of export copper, came back with sizeable gains. Anaconda led the way, moving in good volume for an increase of 1⅛ points. Others to make similar margins were American Smelting, Kennecott, Inspiration and International Nickel.

Expectation of better fall business for the merchandising industry was reflected in sizeable increases in mail order stocks. Sears showed the way with a 1¾ point rise. Montgomery Ward rose 1⅛ and Marshall Field climbed ¾.

Mail Order Group Rises.

Oils pushed higher. Socony-Vacuum and Texas corporation gained fractions, and Standard of New Jersey added more than 1 point. Pure Oil, Phillips, Houston and Consolidated Oil worked fractionally higher.

Estimates of good crops served to spur interest in farm equipment shares. Case was outstanding with a 3⅝ point rise on 500 shares. Deere, International Harvester, Allis Chalmers and Oliver Farm Equipment gained as much as a point each.

Radio again was most active issue of the day, rising a minor fraction. Other communications were mixed in a fractional range. Zenith, up 2 points, highlighted the amusement sector, with Paramount taking volume honors. Loew's and Warner Brothers also were well liked, the former adding over 1 point.

Several "blue chips" and independent issues made good gains. Allied Chemical improved 3¾, Air Reduction 2, Johns Manville 3, Eastman Kodak common 3, Coco-Cola 4 and Philip Morris 3⅝ points. In the opposite direction, Pere Marquette railroad fell to 24, off 4 points.

"FEW LOSSES— SMALL LOSSES" What of it?

INSURE YOUR CREDITS—INSURE YOUR PEACE OF MIND

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Corporate bonds gained slightly today in a turnover that was the lowest in nearly 20 years. Volume was $3,783,500 par value, compared with $5,737,000 on Friday. It was the smallest trade since July, 1918.

Trade interests said that misgivings as to the scope of autumn trade recovery, the failure of government and prime corporate bonds to rally on the recent cut in the New York Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate to 1 per cent, a record low, and continued uneasiness over the far eastern conflict caused the dull trade.

United States government issues continued to move hesitantly, closing 6-32 of a point lower to 3-32 higher. Trade in this group also was small.

Foreign bonds averaged a little lower as a result of a further slump in Japanese issues. The government 5½s and 6½s dropped 2½ each. Tokio Light 6s broke 3½ and the Tokio 5½s finished 2 lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were irregular yesterday in a moderate volume of trading. Chicago corporation common led in activity and declined a minor fraction and Cities Service, the second issue in volume, closed unchanged.

Among the less active issues Dixie Vortex "A," Ross Gear, Sivyer Steel Castings, Walgreen, and Zenith Radio gained a point or more, but Coleman Lamp Lea preferred, Nachman Springfield, and Signode Steel showed losses ranging from 1 to 3 points. Deep Rock Oil preferred rose 4½ points on light trading.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois National bank stock yesterday declined $1 a share, and Personal Loan and Savings bank stock advanced $2. Other Chicago bank stocks were unchanged.

Commodities

October eggs yesterday declined to new low ground for the season, closing at 22½ cents a dozen, down ⅝ of a cent, on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Transactions totaled 2,012,000 dozen, the largest turnover since late April.

Traders said the sharp decline was due to unfavorable interpretation of receipts and storage withdrawals, continuance of hot weather, which curtails demand, and weakness in the Chicago cash market.

Cash eggs dropped ½ cent to 1 cent a dozen. Receipts here were 2,619 cases heavier than on the corresponding date last year and track holdings were unusually heavy for the season at 32 cars.

November butter declined ⅛ cent a pound to close at 33¼ cents and cash butter was unchanged to ½ a pound lower for other grades.

Coffee futures were mixed, with Santos higher and Rio lower. Silk was irregular, cocoa unchanged to moderately lower, and rubber 0.01 to 0.05 cent a pound higher in fairly active trading.

WISCONSIN LAW TAXING DIVIDENDS GOES TO COURTS

Madison, Wis., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's privilege dividend tax law appeared to be headed to the courts for a test of its constitutionality late today with the filing of an application by the F. W. Woolworth company, a New York corporation authorized to transact business in Wisconsin as a foreign corporation, for a hearing on an additional assessment of $17,959 covering dividends paid by the company between Dec. 2, 1935, and March 1, 1937.

The company contends in its application for a hearing that Wisconsin's privilege dividends tax is unconstitutional because it is imposed on transactions wholly outside t' jurisdiction of this state and that it is in violation of the rights of stockholders who live in other states, because, in effect, it imposes on them a tax upon income which is not earned in Wisconsin.

ESTATE TAX MAY AFFECT STOCK

HOW STOCK SALE TO MEET TAXES MAY TURN PRICE

Estate of McCormick Offers Example.

On June 2, 1936, when Cyrus H. McCormick, former head of International Harvester company, died, the principal holding of his estate was 237,066 shares of International Harvester common stock. Because the estate was appraised for tax purposes at $22,359,806, a federal estate tax levy of approximately $10,398,000, plus an Illinois state inheritance tax payment of $1,289,298, had to be paid.

The trustees began quietly to sell some of the Harvester stock to raise the cash required by the federal and state tax collectors. Last Thursday Judson F. Stone, one of the trustees, announced that the federal estate tax had been paid. The state levy was paid earlier. He also disclosed that all of the Harvester stock disposed of had been sold on the market, none having been sold privately.

Movement of Stock Shown.

The above chart traces the movement of Harvester stock from the time of Mr. McCormick's death to the middle of August. For purposes of comparison the chart also contains a second line showing the trend of industrial stocks generally as measured by the Dow-Jones average of thirty leading industrials.

Harvester stock began to slump shortly after Mr. McCormick's death and failed to show the same degree of strength as other industrial stocks for several months, despite the company's increasing sales and earnings. This spring, when other stocks begun to slump, Harvester stock continued to rise, indicating perhaps the end of the tax liquidation period and the removal of this pressure from the market.

Stock Is Sold Gradually.

The trustees have not disclosed at what periods they sold stock nor in what amounts, but they have indicated that the stock was offered in varying amounts over a period of months.

In their tax liquidation sales the trustees were aided by the fact that the company happened to be in a period of rising prosperity. In a declining market the pressure of such offerings might have forced the stock sharply downward.

TAXES TAKE 11.8% OF SUBWAY LINE'S GROSS REVENUES

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—During the fiscal year ended June 30, taxes charged to operations of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit system were equivalent to $8 per share on common stock and amounted to about 11.3 per cent of operating revenues, compared with 6.5 per cent for the fiscal year 1930, Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman, said today in his annual report.

Costs of labor and taxes have continually increased, whereas gross receipts have decreased, he said. Pay rolls in the year just ended totaled $20,573,000, or about 40 per cent of gross operating revenues. Wages were increased, and effective May 1, 1937, a vacation of one week with pay was granted to employés who did not previously have vacations with pay, adding about 2 per cent to the labor cost, Dahl said.

BUICK REPORTS AUGUST SALES ABOVE YEAR AGO

Flint, Mich., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The Buick division of the General Motors corporation today reported domestic retail sales of 5,612 cars during the second 10 days of August, bringing the total for the 20-day period to 11,510 units.

This compares with 6,144 deliveries in the second 10 days of July and 12,238 during the 20-day period, and with 5,359 and 9,013 units, respectively, for the 10 and 20-day periods of August, 1936.

FIFTH LARGEST COTTON CROP ON RECORD IS FORECAST BY MURRAY

A cotton crop of 16,020,000 bales, the fifth largest on record, was forecast yesterday by Nat C. Murray, statistician for Clement, Curtis & Co. This compares with his estimate of 15,610,000 bales a month ago, when the department of agriculture placed the yield at 15,593,000 bales. The 1936 harvest was 13,399,000 bales. Condition of the crop he reported at 73.6 per cent of normal, compared with 81.3 per cent on Aug. 1, 59 per cent a year ago, and a 1923-'32 average of 58 per cent.

The bearish crop estimate and hedging pressure more than offset the effect of buying, and futures closed at the lowest level of the day. Net losses on the Chicago Board of Trade were 0.01 to 0.09 cent and in New York 0.10 to 0.18 cent a pound. New Orleans had a holiday. Trade was light, as operators awaited the announcement regarding the government loan level after the close.

Spot cotton closed 0.15 to 0.20 cent lower, with New York at 9.50 cents and Galveston and Houston at 9:25 cents a pound. Prices follow:

PLAN CAMPAIGN TO END DOUBLE BANK LIABILITY

A campaign to end double liability for holders of stocks in Illinois state banks will be opened by the Illinois Bankers association, Martin A. Graettinger, executive vice president, announced yesterday.

The association will hold a series of meetings throughout the state to get support for an amendment to the Illinois constitution which would remove the double liability. The state legislature last year adopted a resolution calling for a referendum on the constitutional amendment in 1938.

"By the banking act of 1935, congress removed the double liability feature on national bank stockholders, and we believe stockholders in state banks are entitled to the same relief," Graettinger said.

Among the speakers who will address meetings will be J. F. Schmidt, Waterloo, president of the association; Fred A. Gerding, Ottawa, vice president, and Graettinger.

BALTIMORE SHIPS MOVE SCRAP IRON FOR USE ABROAD

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Thousands of tons of scrap iron, pig iron and finished steel products, much of which may find its way into war materials, are clearing the port of Baltimore weekly—and much of it is heading for the far east.

Iron and steel scrap exports from here during the first six months of this year, the Baltimore Association of Commerce reported today, totaled 105,525 tons. Exports of those commodities during the entire year 1936 were only 104,870 tons. The business of breaking up obsolete ships for scrap material also is going strong.

The Isthmian Steamship company's freighter Knoxville City sailed today with more than 8,000 tons of finished steel products for Yokohama, Kobe, and Osaka.

The British freighter Troilus is loading a full cargo of steel for China and is scheduled to sail tomorrow.

PRIVATE CONTROL OF DRUG FAIR TRADE ACT URGED

Broad Program Offered to Police Industry.

Administration of state and national fair trade acts as applied to the drug industry should be coördinated by the industry itself through a national board composed of representatives of the two big retail drug associations, John W. Dargavel, executive secretary of the National Association of Retail Druggists, asserted yesterday at the opening session of the national fair trade conference at the Sherman hotel.

Dargavel proposed a 14 point program for administration of the fair trade acts in regard to drugs. The program covers policing activities in the 42 states having fair trade laws, submission and distribution of contracts between retailers and manufacturers, and means of forcing compliance with the price fixing provisions of contracts between manufacturers and retailers.

Wants National Board.

Preparation, examination, and distribution of contracts between retailers and manufacturers should be handled by a national board composed of independent and chain store drug representatives, he said.

In addition to the national board, Dargavel suggested establishment of a national advisory council composed of representatives of manufacturer, wholesaler, and retailer groups. He cautioned, however, against setting up too expensive machinery for administration and policing.

"I maintain that the full benefits of resale price maintenance can be obtained without setting up expensive national, state, or local organizations for enforcement purposes," he said.

Urges Minimum Expense.

"All fair trade activities must be conducted at a minimum of expense, because once retail price maintenance becomes unnecessarily expensive to the manufacturer, then fair trade will be utilized by a handful of the wealthiest and its usefulness will be substantially impaired."

Dargavel also warned against the use of "coercive" measures by retailers in regard to price fixing.

"If we do not upset the apple cart by coercive measures and dictation of resale prices," he said, "it will not be long before we will receive the full benefit of the laws through natural forces of competition.

"Should coercion or attempts to dictate resale prices occur, legislation will be repealed or it will be amended so as to subject our prices to governmental supervision and control. I would much prefer out and out repeal to government price control."

STEEL MAKERS LIFT RATE OF OPERATION SLIGHTLY THIS WEEK

Operations in the steel industry this week are scheduled at 84.1 per cent of ingot capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This is an increase of 0.3 point or 0.35 per cent over last week.

Production in the Chicago district is scheduled at 84.3 per cent of capacity, a decline of 0.9 point from last week. The drop is due principally to the closing of one large open harth furnace for repairs.

A month ago the national steel ingot production rate was 85.5 per cent, and a year ago the rate was 71.5 per cent of capacity. Two years ago the rate was 45.8 per cent.

Meeting to Fix Minimum Coal Prices in Illinois Set for Sept. 9

Several hundred Illinois coal operators are expected to attend a hearing to be opened at Springfield, Ill., on Sept. 9 for the purpose of arriving at a basis for the fixing of minimum coal prices under the Guffey-Vinson act, passed in the last session of congress. An examiner for the National Bituminous Coal commission, which administers the act, will conduct the hearing.

The Springfield hearing will concern the effect that prices of coal produced within the state will have on coal produced outside the state and handled in interstate commerce. The Guffey-Vinson act provides that, where coal produced within a state affects the prices of interstate coal, prices of the former may be regulated after a hearing.

Arrange Washington Hearing.

On Sept. 8 a meeting of district board representatives will start in Washington, D. C., at which proposed minimum prices will be coördinated for market area No.1, which covers the territory east of Lake Michigan and Indiana, and north of the Alabama-South Carolina line, and market area No. 2, roughly the Chicago market, which embraces Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, and west Kentucky.

The purpose of the Washington meeting is to adjust prices for the two districts on a basis which it is hoped will be fair to both.

The National Bituminous Coal commission, which wishes to have a set of minimum prices in effect before the winter buying season starts, has been holding meetings throughout the country.

Consider Rules for Industry.

These hearings have covered rules for the classification of coal, for marketing, and for carrying into effect the code of fair practice set forth in the Guffey-Vinson act. These hearings also consider what coal may be exempt under the statute.

All these elements are to be considered in the final setting of minimum prices in the ten market areas designated in the act. In addition, the commission must take into consideration coal's competitors — oil, natural gas, and hydro-electric power.

The commission on Aug. 17 set tentative average weighted costs of production for the Appalachian and Mississippi valley areas at $2.22 and $1.88 a ton, respectively.

MINERAL FIRM SUED ON LEASE OF INDIAN LAND

ActionAsks 17 Million; Fraud Charged.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Sensational charges are made in a suit filed in United States District court here today by Merton H. Cooper, public accountant, Washington, D. C., for 23 Indians of the Quapaw Indian agency, Miami, Okla., in which he seeks $17,121,084 from the Eagle Picher Lead company, Cincinnati, for lead, zinc and sulphur removed from lands of the Indians between Jan. 1, 1917, and Dec. 31, 1936.

The suit is brought, Cooper says, to discover how much lead, zinc and sulphur the company removed and to require the company to account for their value. In addition, Cooper says the company should pay him $208,988 to cover his audits and investigations in obtaining the data for this action.

Charges Indians Were Defrauded.

Cooper charges the company in 1917 unlawfully negotiated leases from the Indians. He says they are "incompetents," in that they are wards of the United States, and are without power to enter into legal engagements. Without these leases being approved by the United States, he says, the company entered upon these lands and until Aug. 1, 1922, "unlawfully and wrongfully" converted minerals of a value of not less than $6,959,353.

Under these leases, Cooper says, the company agreed to pay a royalty of 5 per cent. This royalty, he avers, was grossly inadequate "to the point of fraud" in that current royalties at that time were not less than 14 per cent. It is charged also the company knew the leases were unlawful.

Fall's Name Brought In.

In 1922, Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, caused the superintendent of the Quapaw agency to enter into six new leases with the company, Cooper says, but the company was not required to account for deposits taken from the land prior to the new leases. He says it was Fall's duty to demand this accounting.

The court was informed that at the conclusion of Cooper's investigation in 1934 he made a report to the department of the interior. Later it was said the department of justice began prosecutions as to the claims of two of the Indians. Subsequently, however, the department concluded the suits should be prosecuted privately so the actions were withdrawn. For that reason, Cooper says, the suit now is privately brought by him as the "next friend" of the Indians.

LEW HAHN NAMED HEAD OF RETAIL DRY GOODS GROUP

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Lew Hahn, former head of the Hahn Department Stores, will assume the management of the National Retail Dry Goods association Oct. 1, it was announced today. Hahn said his new post "will in no way affect the standing of Chaning E. Sweitzer, who as managing director, has successfully faced so many of the increasing problems of retailing in the last few years. Sweitzer will continue as managing director and treasurer."

Hahn was managing director of the association from 1918 to 1928, leaving in that year to become head of Hahn Department Stores, which is now the Allied Stores corporation.

Term Life Insurance.

Term life insurance is in force only for a specified period of time in contrast to "whole life" policies, which are in force during the life of the insured individual, provided, of course, all premiums are paid.

Persons who borrow substantial sums of money usually are asked to carry term policies which would reimburse the lender in case the borrower should die before the loan is repaid. Many men supplement their regular life policies with term policies which are in force until their children are old enough to earn their own living.

Term policies are insurance in one of its cheapest forms. Companies can sell term insurance more cheaply because there is no certainty they ever will have to pay a claim arising from such policies. The term of any particular policy is likely to expire with the policyholder still alive. In a "whole life" policy the company eventually has to pay a specified amount because the holder is sure to die some day. Moreover, regular life policies have certain investment features such as a cash surrender value and loan value.

Tomorrow: Convertible Term Policies.

BEEF AND LAMB ADVANCE TO NEW PEAKS FOR YEAR

Further advances were registered in beef and lamb prices here yesterday. Pork was unchanged in Chicago but $2 lower to $1 higher per 100 lbs at principal eastern distributing points. New high prices for the season were established in some best cuts of beef. Ribs sold wholesale at $13 to $36 per hundred pounds, with loins at $15 to $46. Rounds were $12 to $25 and plate beef $8.50 to $15.

Lamb legs brought $20 to $23, loins $19 to $25, saddles $21 to $25, and stewing lambs $12 to $15. Pork loins ranged from $17.50 to $24.50.

Trading in hogs was draggy at prices steady to 10 cents lower, the top at $12, showing a 10 cent loss and the average a 5 cent decline at $11.05.

Steady prices prevailed for slaughter lambs. Both native and western range stock sold to shippers at the $11 top.

The small offerings on longfed steers and yearlings available yesterday sold steady with the high point of the season. A load of 20 steers averaging 1,248 pounds reached $18.25, equaling the 18 year August peak established last week.

SHEET AND TUBE PLANS 30 MILLION NEW FINANCING

Cleveland, O., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Youngstown Sheet and Tube company directors today called a special shareholders' meeting Oct. 19 to act on financing for plant improvements in Youngstown and Chicago district mills.

While plans are incomplete, the company said, financing probably will total about $30,000,000, with common shareholders acting on proposals to increase common shares from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000.

FEDERAL BOARD SIFTS TAX CLAIM AGAINST MELLON

Decision Will Pave Way for Court Contest.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The board of tax appeals probably will hand down a decision in a month or so on the government's $3,000,000 claim for additional taxes on Andrew W. Mellon's 1931 income. The claim has been pending before the board for more than two years.

Evidence is being sifted by trial examiners, who are expected to report findings to the board shortly, officials said. The board will require several weeks to reach a decision. After it rules, the decision can be contested in the courts, either by the treasury or the Mellon estate.

Although the treasury's claim originally was made against Mellon, officials said the financier's death made no change in its status.

Will Examine Trust Fund.

Independent of the pending litigation, treasury authorities reported they would make a "routine examination" of Mellon's educational and charitable trust, to which he left his entire fortune. If the treasury should determine the trust is a bona fide charitable organization authorities said there would be no federal taxes.

The trust figured in a treasury ruling some years ago. It was certified by the internal revenue bureau as a nontaxable organization shortly after its formation in 1930. This certification, however, was revoked when Mellon transferred $50,000,000 worth of paintings to the trust. The bureau held then there was no assurance the paintings would be given to charity or to the public.

Makes Gift of Paintings.

Since that time, however, Mellon g[illegible] the paintings to the government and they will be hung in a national art gallery now under construction here. Officials said, informally, this gift probably would make the trust a bona fide, nontaxable charitable organization.

Meantime efforts to collect $415,983 of additional income taxes from Mellon interests met resistance today. The Koppers company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and seven other Mellon controled corporations appealed to the board of tax appeals against deficiency assessments laid on them by the bureau of internal revenue.

U. S. STEEL HEAD DENIES FINANCING IN NEAR FUTURE

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, said today "there is no immediate prospect of any financing" for the company. Returning from his usual summer visit to Europe, Taylor waved aside the discussion of the rumors that he was to retire as chairman of the corporation Jan. 1 and that he was to become the United States ambassador to the court of St. James.

Concerning the diplomatic rumor, Taylor said: "I think you should stop talking about that. There's no foundation to that at all."

As to his possible retirement the end of this year, he said, "That is not a fit subject for a gangplank discussion."

Taylor was accompanied on his voyage by George W. Bacon, an industrial engineer.

"Mr. Bacon and I have been working on the plan for the completion of the modernization program in the steel corporation. We have been at work on this for two years or so and this has occupied our time on this trip."

Investors' Guide

International Harvester.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in International Harvester company.

T. H. N.

Answer: The nature of this company's business has changed materially during the last twenty years. Long known as the leading manufacturer of agricultural implements and machinery, International Harvester more recently has become a major manufacturer of trucks. In addition to producing farm tractors it makes tractors for industrial use.

Illustration of the change in its business is furnished by the fact that farm implement sales accounted for more than 60 per cent of the company's domestic sales in 1910, compared with only 27 per cent in 1936. The tractor and engine division contributed 32 per cent and the truck division 31 per cent in 1936.

Development of tractors and engines for industrial use has lessened the dependence of the company on farming conditions, although the latter are still the most important factor in its earnings. Some diversification of farming risk is provided by foreign business, which produced 23 per cent of the $254,934,000 of sales total during the year ended Oct. 31, 1936.

The company has 19 manufacturing plants and 6 twine mills, most of which are located in the middle west. It also has plants in Canada, France, Germany, and Sweden.

Both sales and the net income of $29,760,000, or $5.77 a share, in the year ended Oct. 31, 1936, were the best in the company's history with the exception of 1929, when net income was $36,780,000. With farm income at the highest level in years and the company reporting a 30 per cent increase in sales during the six months ended April 30, 1937, business is believed to be at levels near those of 1929.

Sales were $217,583,000 and net income was $19,618,000, or $3.28 per common share, during 1935, compared with sales of $138,312,000 and net income of $3,940,000, or a loss of 42 cents a share after preferred dividend requirements, in 1934. The company reported net losses of $1,886,000 in 1933 and $7,583,000 in 1932.

Capitalization consists of 816,124 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 4,245,735 no par common shares. Regular dividends of 62½ cents quarterly are being paid on the common. Including extras $2.50 was paid in 1936. Payments amounted to 60 cents each in 1935 and 1934 and 75 cents in 1933. Strong financial position has been maintained.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Farmers Wage War on Weeds

Every man on THE TRIBUNE'S Wheaton Experimental farm has become a weed eradicator. In the fight against ragweeds they clip every kind of weed that falls in front of the scythe or mower.

Almost every spot on the farm has been gone over with a mower, scythe, or sickle, except cultivated fields and wooded areas, to destroy ragweeds before they develop pollen, the principal cause of hay fever.

Edward Anderson, 12, in ragweed field.

Despite efforts on the Wheaton place and on farms generally throughout the state, hay fever victims' nostrils are filled with ragweed pollen coming from many neglected fields and lots of subdivisions along Roosevelt road between Wheaton and Chicago.

The weeds not only are giving off pollen injurious to health, but also are a trafic hazard on one of the most traveled highways in Illinois. Du Page county officials will cut the weeds tomorrow and the cost will be paid by the owner.

The Wheaton farm manager has demonstrated this season that it is practical to keep ragweeds under control by cutting them in pastures and meadows, in fence rows, and in odd corners. The workers have found time to do it along with other work. Highway officials and workers are doing their part by cutting the weeds along the sides of the roads around the farm.

Men at the farm started their intensive fight against ragweeds early in the season in an effort to give their full share of support to the statewide weed control program directed by the state department of agriculture.

Although there has been an unusually big crop of weeds produced this season, the state's campaign has been given credit for having greatly reduced the clouds of pollen dust that floats over Illinois, causing hay fever among rural and city people where it settles.

Common and giant ragweeds are of the same family, but are of different species. Both thrive on the Wheaton farm. The common ragweed has been springing up lately in the small grain stubble field. Mowers have been used to clip the weeds just before the pollen starts to form. The giant ragweed grows in the rich low spots. If left uncut they would be above a man's head at this time of the year. The common ragweeds usually are about knee high.

Investigate Paroles of Four in Bandit Gang—Louis Retains Title with 15 Round Decision Over Farr

MORE VICTIMS IDENTIFY BANDIT GANG WHICH HAS FOUR PAROLEES AS MEMBERS—The eight men and one woman who are accused in more than 100 robberies of small merchants as they appeared at police showup yesterday. Four members of the band are parolees, whose records were being investigated yesterday by authorities. One man, La Caca, is a two time parolee, having been sentenced to Pontiac in 1929 for robbery, paroled in 1933, and returned to cell in 1934 for violation of parole. The girl member of the gang, who is 19 years old, has admitted carrying a gun to aid her companions in robberies. At the showup several robbery victims identified various members of the gang. (Story on page 9.)
